PREFACE.

At a time when many useful and interesting antiquarian publications have, at all events temporarily, ceased to appear, it is a subject of much satisfaction to me that I have been able to keep The Genealogist still in existence. I desire to express my gratitude to all those old friends of the magazine who by the aid of their literary contributions have enabled me to carry on the work without loss of that prestige which The Genealogist has so long enjoyed. Their help will be again much valued in the coming year, and they will receive their reward in the relief which concentration of mind on a favourite study brings to those who, unable themselves to take part in the great struggle for freedom from foreign domination, are yet in deep anxiety regarding the safety of relatives, friends and fellow countrymen serving abroad.

In this volume Mr. J. W. Clay's edition of Dugdale's Visitation of Yorkshire, with Additions, which commenced many years ago during the editorship of my predecessor, has been completed. These Yorkshire pedigrees have proved a great attraction to readers of the magazine, and have been of much value to genealogists owing to the number of extracts from parish registers and references to wills at York and London which they contain. All the subscribers will unite with me in congratulating Mr. Clay in the termination of his labours.

As I have been unable at present to find anyone willing to continue the Administrations in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, Mr. E. A. Fry has most kindly consented to fill the vacant space with a transcript of the Marriages from the Gentleman's Magazine. This supplement will have a separate pagination and, when completed, a separate index.

This year being the tercentenary of the birth of Elias Ashmole, the eminent antiquary, who was born at Lichfield on the 23rd of May 1617, it has been thought that his armorial bearings would form a suitable frontispiece to this volume. By the kindness of the Officers of Arms the illustration has been reproduced from a docquet of his Arms and Crest in the Heralds' Office, the words written beneath being in Dugdale's handwriting. The original grant is believed to be preserved at Oxford. It may be added that on page 22 of this volume Ashmole's pedigree as drawn up by himself has been included in Mr. H. O. Aspinall's article on the Aspinwall and Aspinall families. A portrait of the antiquary, wrongly described as his book-plate, formed the frontispiece to Volume xxiv of the New Series. The original engraving appears as frontispiece to Ashmole's "Antiquities of Berkshire," 1723, which, in addition to the pedigree above mentioned, contains a memoir of this Herald.

THE ANGLO-NORMAN MOORES IN IRELAND.

By V. HUSSEY WALSH.

Three absolutely distinct families have borne the name of Moore in Ireland: the native Keltic O'Mores, the Kentish family of Moore, from whom descend the Earls of Drogheda and from whom came Charles Moore, created Earl of Charleville in 1758, and the Anglo-Norman family of More, de la Mora or Moore, which settled in County Louth about 1170. Robert Moore, or Mor, was a feudatory of Roger Pipard of Ardee and a contemporary of Ralph de Repentini, which brings back the Moores in this district to the close of the twelfth century.¹ A grant² by John de Grafton of 15 acres in the tenement of Bernemeth mentions that they adjoin the boundaries of Robert Mor, who himself granted to St. Mary's Abbey, Dublin, 6 acres of his land about 1225.³ Amongst the witnesses to this last deed are Thomas, Peter and Elias Mor. Robert Mor was witness to a grant of land in Bernemeth from John de Grafton to Master William of Dublin, also to another grant of land juxta Dunleer and Bernemeth from Walter son of Robert le Waleys to Master William of Dublin.⁴ The tenant-in-chief was first Roger and then William Pipard.

At an inquisition on the death of William de Burgo, Earl of Ulster 1333, the first juror named is Robertus Mor, who also lived in County Louth.⁵ Michael Moore was seised of the lands of Tullydonnell or Tillaghdonnell, next to Barmeath, Co. Louth, before 1366. He left no issue by his wife Joan, who married secondly Richard Taaffe of Dundalk. John Moore, son of Thomas Moore, was his heir.

Robert Moore, or More, was a lordship of Roger Pigott of Ardee and a contemporary of Ralph de Bagenham, which brings back the Moores in this district to the close of the twelfth century. A grant by John de Grafton of 15 acres in the townland of Barmeston mentions that they adjoin the boundaries of Robert More, who himself granted to St. Mary's Abbey, Dublin, 6 acres of his land about 1235. Amongst the witnesses to this last deed are Thomas, Peter and Elias More. Robert More was witness to a grant of land in Barmeston from John de Grafton to Master William of Dublin, also to another grant of land from Master and Barmeston from Walter son of Robert de Walsby to Master William of Dublin. NEVILL OF THORNTON BRIDGE AND CUNDALL.

I have to thank Mr. F. Chatterton for many notes collected by him on this family. The Visitations, of course, deal with them, but the pedigree is rather vague, and as the family eventually passed into Nevill of Holt, through Clara Nevill, its history is rather merged into the Holt line. Curiously enough the connection of Thornton on Swale with the Norman Nevills is quite early.

1218. Convention between Hugh de Nevill and John de Ayvell. Arrears of services of lands which John holds of Hugh in Torenton in Swaile.¹

Quitclaim from Clemancia de Meynill, dau. of the Lady Elena de Lundevilers to Sir John de Eyvill of the whole Manor of Thornton on the Hill. Wit., Sir Hugh de Nevill.

Elizabeth, the daughter of John de Eyvill, son of Sir John de Eyvill, married Alexander de Ledes and brought lands with her.

Gypton. Alexander de Ledes holds 1 carucate of Humfrey de Veyly and the same Humphrey of the Earl of Lincoln.² The fee was 16 carucates.

Kirkeby on the Moors. 5 carucates, of which the Prior of Newburgh holds 2 carucates and Alexander de Ledes holds the remaining 3 of the same Prior and the said Prior holds of Roger de Moubray.³

Thornton Cundale. 8 carucates, of which John de Eyville holds 6 carucates of James de Norff' and the same James of Geoffrey de Nevill and the same Geoffrey of Ranulf de Sley, and the same Ranulf of Roger de Moubray, and the Prior of Newburgh holds 1 carucate as gift to his church but it is not stated from whom. Nicholas de la Ryver holds 1 carucate of Roger de Moubray.⁴

Quitclaim from James, son of Sir Gilbert de Norfolchia of Ilketshale to Sir John de Eyvill of all right in nine librates of yearly rent in Thornton on Swale for one sore sparrowhawk or two shillings, to be paid yearly in the manor of Thornton on the Feast of St. Peter ad Vincula.⁵

Gypton. Alex. de Ledes holds 1 carucate (1303).⁶

1305. Alex. de Ledes had a grant of free warren in Kirkeby on the Moors and Gypton.⁷

1316. Kirkby cum Langthorne. Prior of Newburgh and Alex. de Ledes.⁸

1318. 12 Edward II, 4 Dec. Grant for life by John de Eyvill, Lord of Thornton on Swale, to Edeline de Ufford of Caeres meadow in Thornton, paying yearly one ginger root.⁹

1320-1. Deed of gift from John, son of Sir John de Eyvill, of Egmonton, to Alexr. de Ledes and Elizabeth, daughter of the said John, of all his goods and chattels in his manor and vill of Thornton on Swale.¹⁰

9 Feb. Letter of attorney from John de Eyvill, lord of Egmonton, to Thomas le Vendour and William le Parker to deliver seisin to Alexr. de Ledes and Elizabeth, John's daughter, of his manor and vill of Thornton on Swale.¹⁰

19 July. Grant in tail by John, son of Sir John de Eyvill, of Egmonton, to Margaret his daughter of his vill of Lecceby and the homages, rents and services of Richard Bullyage, John de Wymmer, and John de Polethorp and of all other his free tenants in the vill, and the rents and services of John son of William de Eyvill, John de Wimmer and Beatrice his wife, and Robert de Wymmer for the tenements they held of the grantor for life in the same vill, and all his natives of the vill with their chattels and offspring except the suit and work of his free tenants and natives to the mill of Faldington and the mill pool which he had granted to Alexr. de Ledes and Elizabeth his wife and Alexander's heirs. Remainder, if Margaret were to die without issue, to the said Alexander and Elizabeth and his heirs.¹¹

Release by William de Wirkelay to Alexander, son of Sir Alexander de Ledes of the homage, service and yearly rent of 5d. which Alexander and his ancestors had been wont to perform and pay for a tenement formerly held of him in Wirkelay.¹²

1354, 28 Ed. III. Confirmation by Thomas Delschires and Edeline his wife to Ralph, son of Ralph de Nevill of Raby, of their lands and tenements in Lecceby, which they had demised to William Darrell for a term of twelve years, of which six had expired.¹³

1359. Alexander Nevill, chivaler, and Thomas de Thorp, clerk, v. Ralph de Nevill, chivaler, and Elizabeth his wife, on a plea concerning the manor of Thornton and Kirkby and Gypton and land in Muldeby.¹⁴

1370. Prior of Newburgh v. Henry Gramory, chivaler, for ejecting him from the custody of the manor of Kirkeby on the Moors, which belongs to the Prior until the lawful age of Ralph, son and heir of Ralph, son of Ralph de Nevill, because Ralph the heir's father held his land of the Prior by knight service.¹⁵

Ralph, the heir in 1370, seems to have died before his majority, for in 1372 we have the following:—

1372. Henry Gramory, chivaler, summoned to answer the Prior of Newburgh as to the custody of the Manor of Kirkeby on the Moors till the age of Alexander, son and heir of Elizabeth, widow of Ralph de Nevill, miles.¹⁶

chivaler, and his heirs and assigns of a yearly rent of 100s. out of land, etc., in Gypton and in the parish of Ledes for payment to Sir Robert of £10.¹⁷

1389. 13 Richard II, 6 Dec. Grant by Alexander de Nevill of Cundall, Knt., to Robert de Ledes, John de Cauncefeld and John Bulayn, chaplain, of all his lands, etc., in Cundall, Thornton, Thornton upon Swale, Kirkby near Burghbrigg, Lecby, Mull(dby), Gypton, Ledes, and the parish of Ledes. A note here on Charter No. 532 is given, but the wording is vague. It says: "Endorsed in an 18 century hand. Note the mullett on this seale. The Nevills of Thornton Bridge differenced the ancestral white saltire with a black molet."

Ralph Nevill, third son of Ralph Lord Nevill, whose Inq. p.m. was taken in 1367, by Alice daughter of Hugh Lord Audley, married the heiress of the Dayvills of Cundall (Yorks. Visitation, 1563-4, p. 230). His son, or grandson, Alexander Nevill, son of Ralph Nevill, was of age when his father's Inq. p.m. was taken 30 March 1380,¹⁸ who died seised of the manors of Uhnaby, Carlbury, and Ingleton, all in Durham, and of Darlington.

An Inq. p.m. was taken 23 March 1457-8, upon the death of Sir Alexander Nevill (probably grandson of Ralph), when his son and heir William was aged 32.¹⁹

Sir Alexander's will, dated Michaelmas Day, 32 Hen. VI (1453), is printed in Test: Ebor., Part ii, p. 207, and from the declaration of his executors it appears that he left his estate very much involved. (York Deeds, note p. 196.) The will was proved 25 June 1457, but on 24 Sept. of same year, the executors renounced, and admon. was granted to William Nevill, armiger, the son and heir of the deceased, William Eure, clerk, and Henry Eure, armiger.

Personally I think that, firstly a Ralph the heir, dead before 1372, has been omitted, and secondly, that there were two Alexanders and not one, the wife of the first being a Margery, the wife of the second Katherine Eure. Alexander the first was under age in 1372, of age in 1380, i.e., twenty-one or over, therefore born about 1358-9; in 1458 he would be nearly 100, a most unlikely thing, and this is proved by the following note, I think:—

1412, 13 Henry IV, 11 May. General pardon to Alexander de Nevill, the younger, alias Alexr. Nevyll, son of Alexr. Nevell of Cundall, chivaler.²⁰

Patent Roll, 1389. Grant for £100 to Alexander de Nevyll, Knt. Lands in Lenarton, co. York, which he had lost and was in poverty about.

The Nevills of Rolleston had a branch at Leverton, Notts, in 1466, the present Nevills of Lincoln and Wickenby, and probably some old pedigree maker saw the Patent Roll's note on Lenarton and Sir Alexander and put him into the Thorney and Grove pedigree.

There is no doubt that the effort was made, and pretty early, to connect the line with Raby this way, and that is why the ermine saltire and the Raby saltire were both placed on one of the coats of the Nevills of Grove. The first bearer of the ermine saltire was Thomas of Pikhall in 1316; John de Nevill, according to the British Museum Catalogue of Seals, had a saltire Argent with a field sewn with little crosses in 1246, and the ermine was evidently assumed from the holding on the castle of Richmond.

1392, 16 Ric. II. Writ from the King to the Sheriff of Yorks commanding him to cause Alexander Nevill, chivaler, and Margery his wife, Robert de Ledys, John de Cauncefeld and John Bulan, chaplain, to restore to Richard de Eskelby and Eleanor his wife and John de Sharowe four messuages and one carucate of land in Leceby which, together with eight messuages and two carucates of land in the said vill John de Eyvill of Egmonton gave to Margaret his daughter and heir and which after her death Edelina, daughter and one of the heirs of Margaret, held as her purparty of the said twelve messuages and three carucates by partition between Edelina and Agnes and the said Eleanor, daughters and heirs of Margaret, and which ought to descend as of right to Eleanor, sister of Edelina, and to John Sparrowe, son of Agnes, next of kin and heirs of Edelina.²¹

1393, 17 Ric. II, 20 Oct. Grant by Robert de Ledes, John de Caunsfeld, and John Bulayne, chaplain, to William Darrell, chaplain, Reginald Vicar of Kirkeby on the Moor, William de Preston, clerk, John de Clynt, Thomas de Nevill, and William de Mildeby of all lands, etc., which they had by grant and feoffment of Sir Alexander de Nevill, Knt., lord of Cundall, in the vill and common fields of Lecceby.²¹

1400-1, 2 Hen. IV, 9 Jan. Agreement between Rauf d'Eure, chivaler, and Alisaundre de Nevill, chivaler, that Alexaundre, son and heir of Alisaundre, should marry Katherine, Rauf's daughter, on April 18th next, at Wyton in Werdull (Witton le Wear), for which marriage Rauf was to pay to Alexander £200 and Alexander was to enfeof his son and Katherine in the manors of Thornton upon Swale and Millby near Burghbridge.²²

1401, 25 April. Grant in special tail by Sir Alexander de Nevill, Knt., lord of Cundall, to Alexander his son and Katherine his wife of all lands, etc., in Thornton upon Swale and Millby near Burghbrygg, and of four acres in the south meadow of Cundall.²³

1403-4, 5 Hen. IV, 15 Jan. Receipt from John Herle, parson of Tunstall in Holderness, to Sir Alexander Nevill, Knt., for 60s. of silver for rent of a tenement in Skeldergate, York.²⁴

1468-9. Will of William Nevill, Esq., Senior. To be buried in the choir of the church of St. Mary Bissshophill in the city of York. All his goods to be divided into three equal parts, the first for pious uses, the second to his wife Joan, and the third to his two sons and two daughters, of which his son Geoffrey and Ralph the younger were to get an annuity of ten marks for their lives from land in Kirkby on the Moor, and each daughter £40. Residue to Joan his wife and William Nevile his son and heir.³⁵

1478, 18 Ed. IV, 8 May. Release from Thomas Conyers, of York, gent., to Alianor, widow of Roger Lassels, late of Escryk, Esquire, and then wife of John Lacy, of all lands in Skeldergate in York, which Richard Hamerton, rector of the parish church of St. Mary the elder upon Bissshophill, York, and Thomas Thorp, of York, chaplain, both deceased, had had of the grant of Alexander Nevile, Knt., deceased, and which Thomas Conyers had had of the grant of William Nevile, Esq., son and heir of the said Alexander, brother of Alianor.³⁶

1484, Trin., 1 and 2 Ric. III, Plea Roll. Alice, late wife of William Nevill, Knt., and Miles Metcalf and others, for a third part of the manor of Thornton Brig, Cundall, Kirkby on the Moor, Letby, and Gibton near Leeds.³⁷

A note says it is not clear who this son William Nevill was. William Nevill, of Thornton Bridge, was only an esquire at the time of his death in 1468-9 (Test. Ebor., 209 n.). He is said to have married Joan, daughter of Christopher Boynton, of Sedbury (Yorks. Visitation, 1563-4, p. 230 n.), where he is wrongly called a knight (York Deeds, p. 214 n.).

As a matter of fact the puzzle is a very simple one. Sir William Nevill, son of William Nevill, "squier," was knighted in Scotland July 24th 1482 (see Metcalfe's Book of Knights), and Alice was his widow in 1484, so that he must have died between those two dates. Lack of material here makes it difficult to continue. In the will of Dame Joan Boynton, widow of Christopher Boynton, of Sedbury (Test. Ebor., vol. iv, p. 13), she bequeaths to her god-daughter Jane Nevele "my brode gyrdill harness with golde," and she made Ralph Nevill of Thornton Brigge one of her executors. An Inquisition was held on the death of Ralph Nevill of Thornton Bridge, 27 Oct. 1522, his three daughters being his coheirs.³⁸ Also an Inquisition was held 10 Dec. 1523, on the death of his brother Thomas,³⁹ who died without male issue. The pedigree on the opposite page is necessarily merely tentative.

THE ASPINWALL AND ASPINALL FAMILIES OF LANCASHIRE.

By H. O. ASPINALL.

PART III.

The fortunes of the Aspinwall family of Aspinwall have been traced in the two preceding parts of this article from the twelfth to the eighteenth century. It was also seen that other families having the same surname had settled at an early date, not only around Ormskirk, but in other parts of South Lancashire as well; and it may now be added, a few had gone even farther afield. The notes which have up to the present been obtained indicate the continued residence of certain families in the same locality for lengthy periods, but they are insufficient to furnish a connected account of all these families. It is proposed therefore to quote in this present part records relating to a few of them only, and in cases where the records contain features of especial interest.

Before proceeding to do this it is necessary to notice several variants of the surname, and to offer a brief explanation as to how they arose. These variants were "Asmall" (which has already been mentioned), "Ashmall," and "Ashmole." The first of these may be looked upon as a type including the two latter, in addition to some others. At first sight we might feel inclined to question any connection between these and the names of our title. But when the evidence showing the connection with the parent name has been considered, and when we remember the factors, educational and otherwise, which tended to mould the formation of names, we cease to wonder that they have come down to us in the strange form in which we find them.

In one of the Scarisbrick Deeds⁶³ we have the probable explanation of the manner in which the Asmall type of variant arose:—

"1397. This charter indented (in duplicate) made between Gilbert of Halsale knight and Henry of Scarisbrick testifies that the said Gilbert in exchange grants and confirms for himself and his heirs all his lands and tenements with appurtenances which he has in Asmole. To hold of the chief lords of the fee by usual services. For which lands and tenements Henry in exchange grants for himself and his heirs to Gilbert and his heirs for all time all his lands and tenements with appurtenances which he has in Halsale to hold of the chief lords of the fee by due services. In testimony of which we have affixed our seals to the charter. Witnesses: John of Stanley knight, John le Botiler of Weryngton knight, Richard le Molyneux, John of Litherland, Thomas de la More, and others. Given at Halsale and Assemole May 8th in the 20th year of Richard II." (In Norman French.)

⁶³ Scarisbrick Deed, 130.

In the three words "In Norman French" we have the clue which helps us to understand the curious change in the orthography of the name from Aspinwall to Asmole and Assemole. It is a well known fact that the Normans often experienced difficulty in pronouncing Saxon names. The variation in this instance was in all probability due to a difficulty of this kind, and an attempt would seem to have been made by some Norman-French clerk to write down the name phonetically after the style in which he assimilated its pronunciation. There is not the slightest doubt that both these forms of spelling were in use for the one place, and this has continued right down to the present day ; for if we refer to recent ordnance maps we find Asmall Lane and Asmall House occupying exactly the same positions on the larger scale maps as Aspinwall Lane and Aspinwall Lane House occupy on the smaller scale ones. Variations in spelling the family name would naturally follow these variations in spelling the place-name, and in some instances the variant appears in course of time to have become a permanent surname, as in the cases of "Ashmall" and "Ashmole."

An Aspinwall family appears to have settled in Aughton either before or early in the fifteenth century. Though a pedigree cannot be given at present, the following records are sufficient to show that it continued to reside at Aughton ; and there is reason to believe it is represented there to-day. About the period when the family settled there the relationship with the family at Aspinwall would seem to have been very close.

The earliest records of this family are contained in the Duchy of Lancaster Pleadings for the reign of Queen Elizabeth, two of which mention a lease made to Hugh Asmall in the twenty-sixth year of the reign of Henry VIII (1534-5). The following abstracts have been obtained from the records at the Public Record Office :—

"31 January 1581-2.⁶⁴ Complaint by James Laithwaite of Aughton, co. Lancaster, yeoman, that being lawfully seised of a messuage and about 40 acres of land, arable, meadow and pasture called Mykeringe in Aughton, he has taken the rents and profits of the same without any disturbance. But of late divers deeds and writings belonging to complainant have come into the hands of one Hugh Asmall, of Aughton, Thomas Asmall his son, and George Holme, who, on pretence of having about 16 November last past entered into the said premises do publish a false and counterfeit lease of the said premises or a part thereof supposed to be made by one William Bradshaye Esqr. to them to commence directly after the expiration of a lease made about 44 years ago to the said Hugh Asmaill and William Laithwaite jointly for 41 years. Although complainant has many times desired the said Hugh, Thomas, and George to give up the said deeds and suffer him quietly to enjoy the said premises they have always refused to the great prejudice of complainant who desires they may be directed to appear personally to answer the premises here set forth."

"8 Feb. 1581-2.⁶⁵ The answer of Thomas Asmall, defendant, to

the bill of complaint of James Laithwaite, complainant. He says that William Bradshaghe Esqr. was lawfully seised in his demesne, as of fee, of and in the messuage and lands called Mickeringe and so being seised did by Indenture dated 26 Henry VIII let unto William Laithwaite and Hugh Asmall, father of defendant, the said premises for 41 years from the feast of St. Martin immediately following the death of one James Bradshaghe at a yearly rental of 50s., and the said James died 4 January 1540-1, whereupon the said William Laithwaite and Hugh Asmall entered into the same. They made partition of the premises, and the houses and lands in the tenure now of the defendant were allotted to Hugh Asmall and the rest to the said William Laithwaite, the reversion being to William Bradshaghe and his heirs. By Indenture dated 33 Henry VIII the said Bradshaghe demised to said Hugh Asmall the messuage and lands called Mikrynge then in the tenure of William Laithwaite and Hugh Asmall for 42 years from the expiration of the said former lease and Hugh Asmall demised his portion to said Thomas Asmall. He believes that about 36 years ago William Laithwaite, father of complainant, purchased the reversion of all the said premises from the said William Bradshaghe, since which time defendant has always paid his rent and thinks it was quite unnecessary for complainant to bring this suit and denies having any deeds belonging to complainant or that he forged a lease or that the term of years made in the lease to William Laithwaite and Hugh Asmall has yet come to an end."

There is also a further case in the pleadings for the thirty-fifth year of Henry VIII (1543-4)⁶⁶ in which Sir Thomas Kyrkby, Clerk, and Hugh Asmall appear as complainants against Richard Crofton and James Halsall, re arrears of rent of a tenement at North Meols.

That this family remained at Aughton is proved by other records. Amongst the wills at Chester⁶⁷ are the following:—

Thomas Aspinall of Aughton	1594
Hugh Aspinall of Aughton (Administration)	1649
William Aspinwall of Aughton, Clerk (do.)	1673
John Aspinwall of Aughton	1678
William Aspinwall of Aughton	1697
Thomas Aspinwall of Aughton, minor (Tuition)	1747
William Aspinwall of Aughton, gentleman	1784
Christopher Aspinwall of Aughton, co. Lanes., gentleman	1788

Tombstones in the churchyard at Aughton Parish Church show that a number of people named Aspinwall, all seemingly belonging to the neighbourhood, have been buried there throughout the nineteenth century, and even to within a few years ago.

In a volume on the history and antiquities of the County Palatine of Durham⁶⁸ we find it recorded that a family which was descended from the Aughton family, and whose surname is given as Ashmall, had settled at Amerston in that county in the early part of the seventeenth century. A pedigree and the following notes are given :—

"In 1590 John Heath of Kepyter Esq. died seised of the Manor or chief messuage of Amerston, held of the Queen by the fortieth part of a knight's fee. In 1600 John Heath, his son, sold the estate to Henry Dethicke, Master of Greatham Hospital, whose son and heir Martin Dethicke survived him in 1613, and soon after sold to the Ashmalls, who made Amerston their seat for several descents."

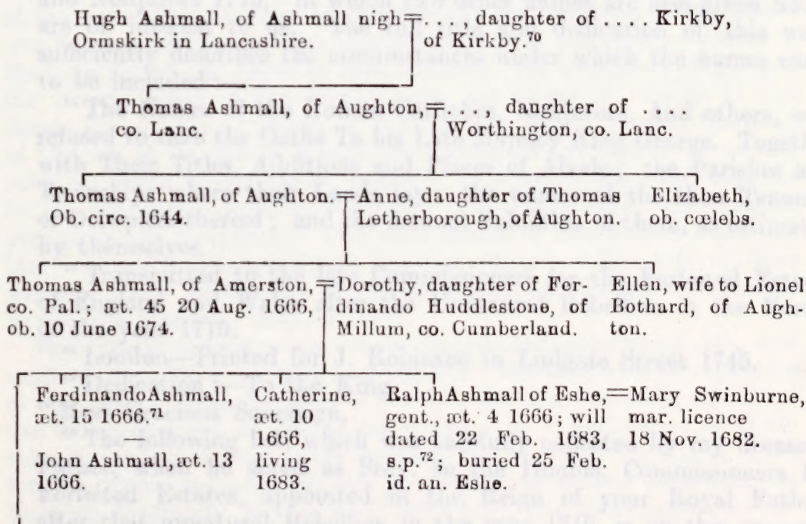

"The subsequent progress of the estate is sufficiently detailed by the annexed pedigree."

"The family terminated in the Rev. Ferdinando Ashmall, who survived all his father's house and attained the extraordinary age of a hundred and four. His trustees (for he was, like his fathers, a Catholic) sold Amerston in 1762 to Humphrey Robinson, whose nephew George Robinson, of Amerston, is the present owner."⁶⁹

"The hall of the Ashmalls, a tall narrow gavel-ended house, stands single and deserted, on cold clay, on the Eastern edge of Emilden dene."

The "annexed pedigree" will be found below. A separate note on the next page of Surtees' History states that "in 1684 the freeholders in the whole parish of Elwick were," in all, four gentlemen, of whom "Thomas Ashmall of Amerston Gent., Recusant," was one.

Three other notes of this Amerston branch have been found. The first is contained in a volume known as "Cosin's List of Catholics and Nonjurors 1715," in which two other names are also given which are of interest to us. The full title and dedication of this work sufficiently describes the circumstances under which the names came to be included:—

"The Names of the Roman Catholics, Nonjurors, And others, who refused to take the Oaths To his Late Majesty King George. Together with Their Titles, Additions and Places of Abode; the Parishes and Townships where their Lands lay; the names of the then Tenants, or Occupiers thereof; and the Annual Valuation of them, as estimated by themselves.

The names, with the particulars attached to each, are as follows, and though the first only refers to the Amerston family, they are for convenience all given here together :—

Lancaster : Richard Aspinwall—Estate at Skelmersdale, in possession of John Fishwick	£25	5	0

In “A Cavalier’s Note Book”—the notes of William Blundell of Crosby, Capt. of Dragoons in the Royalist Army, 1642—there is, amongst some obituary notices, the name of Captain Asmal, of Amerston, dated 1672-3.

In the Gentleman’s Magazine for 1770⁷⁵ the death is announced of Mr. Charles Ashmall, Solicitor, of Gray’s Inn, on August 18th 1770.

Let us now turn to that other variant of the surname—“Ashmole.” It is a name which needs no introduction to students of genealogy and heraldry, but what has to be said of it tends to resolve itself into an account of a person, rather than of a branch of the Aspinwall family.

Elias Ashmole, the eminent antiquary and herald, and the founder of the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford—the first museum in England—was born at Lichfield in the fourteenth year of the reign of James I. He lived to see the death of that monarch, the beheading of his son, the stirring times of the Protectorate, the reigns of Charles II and James II, and the accession of William and Mary. During the reign of Charles II he gained a high reputation as the author of several valuable works on chemistry, heraldry, antiquities, etc., and came to be, as one writer tells us, “courted and esteemed by the greatest persons in the Kingdom.” Our chief source of information regarding him is a small volume of one hundred pages : “The Life of Elias Ashmole, Esq. In the way of a Diary written by Himself.” Published by Charles Burnam, Esq., in 1717.

This Diary reveals a peculiarly varied and interesting life, and contains much that is quaint and curious. We have also an engraving of him, and “Some Memoirs of the Life of Elias Ashmole, Esq.,” at the commencement of one of his works—the “Antiquities of Berkshire”; and at the end of the memoirs will be found a pedigree of his family. Other accounts of him are contained in the Dictionary of National Biography, in Chalmers’ Biography, and in all good encyclopedias : and students of caligraphy will find fac-simile pages of his diary and a signature of its writer in an article on “Freemasonry in Lancashire.”⁷⁶

In "A Cavalier's Note Book"—the notes of William Blundell of Grosby, Capt. of Dragoons in the Royalist Army, 1612—there is, amongst some ordinary notices, the name of Captain Ashmole, of Amerston, dated 1612-3.

In the Gentleman's Magazine for 1770 "the death is announced of Mr. Charles Ashmole, Solicitor, of Gray's Inn, on August 18th 1770."

Let us now turn to that other variant of the surname—"Ashmole." It is a name which needs no introduction to students of genealogy and heraldry, but what has to be said of it tends to resolve itself into an account of a person, rather than of a branch of the Ashmole family.

Eliaz Ashmole, the eminent antiquary and herald, and the founder of the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford—the first museum in England—was born at Lambeth in the fourteenth year of the reign of James I. He lived to see the death of that monarch, the beheading of his son, and the striking times of the Commonwealth, the reigns of Charles II. and James II. and the accession of William and Mary. During the reign of Charles II. he gained a high reputation as the author of several valuable works on chemistry, heraldry, antiquities, &c., and came to be, as one writer tells us, "counted and esteemed by the greatest persons in the Kingdom." Our chief source of information regarding him is a small volume of one hundred pages: "The life of Eliaz Ashmole, Esq. in the way of a Diary written by Himself," published by Charles Barnard, Esq., in 1717.

This Diary reveals a peculiarly varied and interesting life, and contains much that is quaint and curious. We have also an engraving of him, and "Some Memoirs of the life of Eliaz Ashmole, Esq.," at the commencement of one of his works—the "Antiquities of York-shire"; and at the end of the memoirs will be found a pedigree of his family. Other accounts of him are contained in the Pedigree of the National Biography, in Chalmers' Biography, and in all good encyclopædies; and students of genealogy will find two valuable pages of his Diary and a signature of his written in an article on "Pseudonymy in Lancashire."¹⁷

¹⁸ Lancashire and Cheshire Historical Society, vol. ix.

The connection between the surnames Aspinwall and Ashmole does not seem to have been known to any of the writers who have given an account of Elias Ashmole. Indeed, if we may judge by his Diary and by the pedigree above mentioned, Elias himself does not seem to have known of it. The pedigree is stated to have been drawn up "by Elias Ashmole . . . and taken from a Visitation Book of Staffordshire," and it shows the earliest member of the family as "of Elford, in Com. Stafford." This certainly points to some enquiry regarding the origin of the name and family having been made when the pedigree was compiled. But if this was the case, we at once see how any such enquiry must have been foredoomed to failure in Staffordshire; and even had the enquiry extended to Lancashire, it would have been a pure chance which would have placed this particular item of information at the disposal of the enquirer.

The pedigree given in the "Antiquities of Berkshire" will be found below, but a few additional dates obtained from the Diary have been added. In the same work the coat of arms of Ashmole is given—Quarterly, Azure and Or, in the first quarter a fleur de lis, Argent. Crest, a greyhound courant.

A PEDIGREE OF THE NAME AND FAMILY OF ASHMOLE, DRAWN UP BY ELIAS ASHMOLE, ESQ., 30 MARCH 1663, AND TAKEN FROM A VISITATION BOOK OF STAFFORDSHIRE.

Another branch of the Aspinwall family had settled at Skelmersdale, probably towards the end of the sixteenth century. The early evidence is somewhat scanty, but amongst the wills at Chester⁷⁷ are included the following :—

Hugh Aspinall of Skelmersdale	1631
Henry Aspinwall of Skelmersdale (Inventory)	1636
John Aspinwall of Skelmersdale	1670
Richard Aspinwall of Skelmersdale	1672
Richard Aspinwall of Skelmersdale (Ad. with Inv.)	1679

We also find the name "Johis Asmall de Skelmsdale, gen.," in a Church Survey taken at Wigan in 1650.⁷⁸

It will be remembered that the name Richard Aspinwall appeared twice in Cosin's "List of Catholics and Nonjurors, 1715," quoted above in connection with the Amerston family. Two writers refer to the properties at both Skelmersdale—near Ormskirk—and Aldborough in Yorkshire as belonging to one and the same person, and though no evidence in confirmation is given, this may well have been the case.

A number of later records, all of which have the appearance of relating to this family, have been met with.

On the 10th October 1712 a Richard Aspinwall married Elizabeth, daughter of Charles Stanhope of Mansfield Woodhouse.⁷⁹ This Charles Stanhope was a grandson of that Sir Philip Stanhope who was the first Earl of Chesterfield, and ancestor of the Earls of Chesterfield, Stanhope, and Harrington. Sir Egerton Brydges, in his edition of Collins' "Peerage," says that he had, with five sons, four daughters, viz., "Gertrude and Mary-Theophila, who both died unmarried; Catherine, wife to . . . Wogan of Wales; and Elizabeth, who married . . . Aspinwall, of Lancashire, Esq." Debrett's "English Peerage" confirms this, and states that Elizabeth married "Richard Aspinwall, of Liverpool."⁸⁰

Stanhope Aspinwall—and the name suggests that he was a son of Richard Aspinwall—appears some years later in a number of records.

The Will of Ann Cullum, of Spring Gardens, near Charing Cross, Westminster, spinster, dated 15th January 1731,⁸¹ is witnessed by him, and contains a bequest of apparel and jewels to "Mrs. Francis Aspinwall, daughter of Mr. Richard Aspinwall." Another will, that of Savile Cullum, of "Eling," co. Middx., widow, dated 6th October 1729,⁸² has a bequest of a "ring of 21s. to Mrs. Aspinwall."

In the "Gentleman's Magazine" for 1752,⁸³ in the List of Preferments, we find—"Stanhope Aspinwall, Esq., His Majesty's Agent and Consul General at Algiers." This is confirmed by the following record which has been found at the Public Record Office :—

Another branch of the Aspinwall family had settled at Schenckdale, probably towards the end of the sixteenth century. The early evidence is somewhat scanty, but amongst the wills at Chester⁷⁷ are included the following:—

1681	Richard Aspinwall of Schenckdale (ad. wife twy)
1670	Richard Aspinwall of Schenckdale (ad. wife twy)
1671	Richard Aspinwall of Schenckdale (ad. wife twy)
1672	John Aspinwall of Schenckdale
1673	Henry Aspinwall of Schenckdale (Inventory)
1678	High Aspinwall of Schenckdale

We also find the name "John Assall de Schenckdale, gent." in a Church Survey taken at Wigan in 1680.⁷⁸

It will be remembered that the name Richard Aspinwall appeared twice in Goss's "List of Catholics and Nonjurers, 1715," quoted above in connection with the Assinall family. Two writers refer to the properties at both Schenckdale—near Ormskirk—and Aldborough in Yorkshire as belonging to one and the same person, and though no evidence in confirmation is given, this may well have been the case.

A number of later records, all of which have the appearance of relating to this family, have been met with.

On the 10th October 1712 a Richard Aspinwall married Elizabeth, daughter of Charles Stanhope of Mansfield Woodhouse.⁷⁹ This Charles Stanhope was a grandson of that Sir Philip Stanhope who was the first Earl of Chesterfield, and ancestor of the Earl of Chesterfield Stanhope, and Harrington. Sir Egerton Rydges, in his edition of Collins, "Peerage," says that he had, with five sons, four daughters, viz., "Gertrude and Mary-Theresa, who both died unmarried; Catherine, wife to . . . Woman of Wales; and Elizabeth, who married . . . Aspinwall, of Lancashire, Esq." Dobrett's "English Peerage" confirms this, and states that Elizabeth married "Richard Aspinwall of Liverpool."⁸⁰

Stanhope Aspinwall—and the name suggests that he was a son of Richard Aspinwall—appears some years later in a number of records. The Will of Ann Culham of Spring Gardens, near Charing Cross, Westminster, spinster, dated 15th January 1731⁸¹ is witnessed by him, and contains a bequest of apparel and jewels to "Mrs. Francis Aspinwall, daughter of Mr. Richard Aspinwall." Another will, that of Sarah Culham, of "Eking," co. Middlex., widow, dated 6th October 1730,⁸² has a bequest of a "ring of 21s. to Mr. Aspinwall."

In the "Gentleman's Magazine" for 1752⁸³ in the list of promotions, we find—"Stanhope Aspinwall, Esq., 1st Majesty's Agent and Consul General at Algiers." This is confirmed by the following record which has been found at the Public Record Office:—

"Spinnet Office Despatch Book, 26 (Indexes, vol. 6825). August, 1752. Allowance.

"His Majesty's Warrant to the Exchequer out of any Treasure there applicable to the uses of the Civil Government to pay unto Stanhope Aspinwall Esqr. whom his Majesty has appointed Agent and Consul General at Algier or to his Assigns the Yearly Allowance of £600 to commence from the 9th day of April 1752 to be paid Quarterly during his continuance in the said Employment the first three months Allowance to be advanced to him And further to pay unto him or his Assigns such Sums of Money for Intelligence etc. as shall appear to be due unto him the said several Sums to be received without Account Subscribed for Mr. Moyle By Warrant under His Majesty's Royal Sign Manual. Countersigned by the Duke of Newcastle." (The Signet Bill is not in existence.)

In a volume of the same magazine for 1771⁸⁴ there appears an obituary notice recording his death as having taken place on the 17th of January—"Stanhope Aspinwall, Esq., Private Secretary to Earl Harcourt." A short paragraph about him appears in the "Biographia Dramatica" (1812):—

"Aspinwall, Stanhope. A gentleman of both these names, we are informed, was Private Secretary to Earl Harcourt while Ambassador to the Court of France. He died at Paris the 17th January 1771, and probably was the same person who published one tragedy 'done' as the title-page declares, from the French of Corneille, called "Rodogune, or the Rival Brothers," 8vo, 1765."

Two ladies who were probably his sisters were married in India. The following extracts are taken from the records of marriages at Fort St. George, Madras⁸⁵:—

1736, Oct. 9.—James Berriman and Frances Aspinwall.

1738, Oct. 19.—Charles Simpson and Elizabeth Aspinwall.

1740-1, Feby. 26.—William Henry Southby and Frances Berryman.

1742-3, Jan. 24.—Richard Prince and Elizabeth Simpson.

1756, June 22.—Mr. Thomas Rumball and Miss Frances Berriman.

In her footnotes to these records Mrs. F. E. Penny gives some additional valuable information relating to these people:—

"James Berriman, son of Jas. and Mary Berriman, was bap. May 9, 1716; both father and son in Company's service, commanding ships."

"Charles Simpson came out, Company's service, 1717; died at Vizagapatam as Chief 1741."

"William Hy. Southby, Lieut. in the Garrison; his wife was widow of James Berriman. Mrs. Southby and dau. went to England 1750."

"Richard Prince, Company's service, resigned 1752 and went to England." (In her "History of Fort St. George" Mrs. Penny says that Richard Prince was in 1749 Deputy Governor of Fort St. George.)

"Thomas Rumball (?), son of Henry and Sarah Rumbold, bap. Sep. 27, 1723. His wife Frances, dau. of James and Frances Berriman, was bap. Aug. 25, 1738, and buried at Calcutta, Aug. 22, 1764, aged 26 years."

In the "Gentleman's Magazine" for 1814,⁸⁶ in the General Correspondence, there is a letter written by Robert Baynes from India, dated 15th May, and indexed under the title "Character of Mr. William Wogan, of Ealing." In it we are told: "Mr. Wogan married a daughter of Dr Michael Stanhope, a grandfather, I believe, to the present Earl of Chesterfield." Mr. Baynes goes on to tell how he wrote to a friend, Francis Edwin Stanhope, "father to the present Admiral H. E. Stanhope bart.," for information of Mr. Wogan, and the following note is taken from a letter he received from that gentleman in reply:—

"I have strictly enquired, but with little success, of my worthy friend Mr. Griffith, and my dear cousin Southby, with whom I supposed as executors to Mrs. Prince, some documents of Mr. Wogan might possibly be found"

The remainder of the letter is not of great interest, but in connection with the name Southby a footnote is appended:—

"Mrs. Southby was a Miss Aspinall; she died in 1806. With her father Mr. Wogan was, in some way or other, connected in a banking concern. Mr. Aspinall failed, and involved Mr. Wogan in a considerable sum of money. His regard for the family, however, caused him at his own cost to fit out in a very handsome manner, for India, the three Misses Aspinall, daughters of his unfortunate friend. These ladies all married extremely well in India; at Madras, I believe. One married Mr. Southby, another Mr. Prince, and a third the late Sir Thomas Rumbold, Governor of Madras.⁸⁷ Mrs. Southby's daughter married a near relation of the celebrated Mrs. Montague."

The lady Mr. Wogan married appears to have been Catherine, daughter of Charles Stanhope, and sister to Dr. Michael Stanhope. She was therefore also sister to that Elizabeth Stanhope who married Richard Aspinwall in 1712, as the above notes have shown.⁸⁸

In "Burke's Peerage" (1916 edition) we find: "Sir Thomas Rumbold, first Bart., of Woodhall, Watton, Herts, governor of Madras, M.P. for Shoreham, born at Low Leyton, Tilney Park, 15 June 1736, and created a Baronet 27 March 1779. He married first, 22 June 1756, Frances, only dau. of James Berriman by Frances Aspinwall his wife, and by her, who was buried 22 Aug. 1764, had issue," etc., etc. He died in 1791. His career in India was a distinguished one. A short account of his life may be found in "Ledger and Sword,"⁸⁹ a work about the East India Company. Richard Prince is also mentioned in it.

We have already seen how Edward Aspinwall purchased an estate at Toxteth Park from the Earl of Derby in 1596, and "subsequently made a number of grants to kinsmen and others." It seems to be highly probable that one of these kinsmen was Thomas Aspinwall, ⁸⁶ Gentleman's Magazine, vol. lxxxiv.

⁸⁷ It will be seen from the records above quoted that this is an error and that Sir Thomas Rumbold's wife was daughter of Frances Aspinall by her marriage with James Berriman.

the brother of Edward, who was mentioned in the will of William Ambrose of Stepney. It will be remembered that he had children, "Samuel, Peter, Elizabeth, Thomas, and the rest." The will of Thomas Aspinwall of Toxteth Park, dated 1624, is preserved at Chester,⁹⁰ and though proof is at present wanting, the following records have the appearance of relating to his family and descendants:—

"Samuell Aspinwall de Toxteth pke, gen.," was one of the jurors at an Inquisition taken at Wigan on the 2nd June 1650, in connection with the Church and Parochial Survey of Lancashire.⁹¹ The Minutes of the Committee for the Relief of Plundered Ministers⁹² contain the following entry:—

"Walton. Novr. 25, 1657. S. Aspinall and Sam Aspinall give certificates for Henry Finch." Lambeth MS. vol. 998, p. 139.

In a "Cavalier's Note Book"⁹³ there is a note:—"Mr. Samuel Aspinwall, a zealous puritan of a moral conversation, talking with me this day (Feby. 13, 1663) as he hath often done, professed that if he did not think the Pope were Antichrist he would turn Papist. 'For if he be not so,' saith he, 'we cannot excuse ourselves from schism.'"

The death of "Mr. Samuel Aspinwill" is recorded in the same volume amongst some obituary notices, under date 1672-3. The will of Samuel Aspinwall of Toxteth Park, dated 1672, is at Chester.⁹⁴

The Exchequer Depositions for 34 Charles II (1682)⁹⁵ contain the record of a case, Samuel Aspinwall versus Stephen Holland, re messuages in the Minories, London, etc.

The wills at Chester include yet two others—Samuel Aspinwall of Toxteth Park, gentleman, dated 1745⁹⁶; and Samuel Aspinwall of Liverpool, gentleman, dated 1794.⁹⁷

Directories of Liverpool for the years 1781 and 1790 show that there was a firm of Solicitors, Messrs. Aspinwall and Roscoe, at 51, Lord Street, and two interesting references to this firm have been met with. The first is taken from an account given by Gregson of the Allerton estate⁹⁸:—

"In 1725 Richard Percival of Liverpool, gentleman, with the assistance of Thomas Aspinall, gentleman, of Toxteth Park, who intermarried with this family, cut off the entail From this time until Mrs. Hardman's death Mr. Aspinall and his son, the late Mr. Samuel Aspinall (who was partner with Mr. Roscoe as Solicitors) were employed by the Hardmans as attornies to the Allerton estate."

The other reference is contained in an article, "Liverpool in the Reign of Queen Anne, 1705 and 1708.—From a Rate Assessment Book."⁹⁹ The names George, Samuel, Robert and William Aspinwall all appear in this article in connection with property in Liverpool.

"Lancelots Hey. Tho. Roscoe p. George Aspinwall: empty. 1/4." It is somewhat singular that the names of Roscoe and Aspinwall should at this early period be associated as landlord and tenant. Seventy years later William Roscoe (Liverpool's greatest son) was in partnership with a Mr. Samuel Aspinwall, and when Roscoe married Betty Griffes at the chapel of St. Anne's, 22nd February 1781, Samuel Aspinwall was one of the witnesses who signed the register."

The New England Historical and Genealogical Register for 1893 contains an article entitled "The Aspinwall Family of Muddy River, near Brookline, Mass." In it we are told that the progenitor of the family was a Peter Aspinwall who "came from Toxteth Park" about the year 1630; and a surmise is made that "there was living at Toxteth Park a Mr. Edward Aspinwall who may have been his father." There is however no evidence to show that Edward Aspinwall ever had a son named Peter; and it seems more probable that he was the son of Edward's brother Thomas, and the brother of Samuel.

The descendants of this Peter Aspinwall have many of them taken distinguished positions in American life, and their history is an interesting one. A number of notes relating to them have been found, but considerations of space forbid that they should be included here, and they must be reserved for a future chapter.

In Memoriam.

Major Edward Morris Poynton died at Highbury on the 7th and was interred in Highgate Cemetery on the 10th March, 1916. He was the eldest son of the late Rev. Francis John Poynton, rector of Kelston, near Bath, by his first wife Mary Morris, and was born on 24th June, 1855, at Burnington, near Shipton on Stour, Warwickshire, where his father, who three years later was presented to the living of Kelston, was then incumbent. He was educated at Sydney College, Bath, now Bath College, and entered the Somerset Light Infantry 12th November, 1873, being gazetted Captain 23rd May, 1883, and Major 23rd December, 1891. He served in the Kaffir and Zulu Campaign in 1878-9, and was with the Burmese Expedition of 1885-6, receiving on each occasion a medal with clasp. He retired from the Army in 1899, was called to the Bar at Lincoln's Inn in 1905, and for some years occupied a set of chambers at No. 8, Old Square. He married on 20th November, 1884, at Calcutta, Marian, second daughter of the late Rev. Henry Trail Simpson, rector of Adel, Yorkshire, author of "Archæologia Adelsensis," who survives him.

The son of a well-known antiquary, of whom a memorial notice appeared in The Genealogist on his death in 1903 (N.S., xx, p. 210), Major Poynton early in life displayed a strong liking for genealogical research, but his long service in the Army gave him little opportunity for the gratification of this taste until his retirement, after which he became a constant and diligent student at the Public Record Office, where he was much liked and is most sincerely regretted. He rendered considerable service to the authorities in the arrangement of the ancient Plea Rolls, of which he made a most careful study. The amount of work which he accomplished will probably never be fully known, for he was very reticent and the most modest of men. He was a frequent contributor to The Genealogist, and at the time of his death was engaged upon a paper of considerable importance which was to have appeared in the magazine. He contributed to volumes xv, xvi, and xvii of the New Series the valuable charters relating to the Priory of Sempringham which he discovered on the Memoranda Roll of the Exchequer.

Before concluding this brief notice, I wish to express my appreciation of much kind assistance in my editorial work received from him during many years.

RECORDS OF THE WORKSHOPS COMPANY OF CARPENTERS. Vol. III. Court Book, 1522-1573. Transcribed and edited by Flower Marsh, B.A., Oxford (printed for the Company at the University Press).

It is very satisfactory that notwithstanding the destruction of war, the Carpenters' Company are continuing the printing of their records, which are so valuable that it may be hoped that other and larger Companies will be induced to throw open their treasure houses in like manner. Mr. Flower Marsh, in his excellent introduction to the earliest Court Book, has not missed a single point in gathering together all the most important facts which can be gleaned from this ancient document, and has succeeded in giving a human interest to what would otherwise be a dry and barren statement of facts. He tells us that during the period covered by this book, 360 meetings of the Court are recorded, and proceeds to describe its work, both as a committee of management of the property of the Company, and as possessing judicial and disciplinary jurisdiction over members, with full powers to draw up regulations for the government of the building trade and dealing in timber in London. Some of these rules curiously resemble those of a modern trade union. There are several instances where the Court deals with complaints made by employers, as that referred to on page 47, where Sir Edward North objects to the way in which a house in Ivy Lane has been erected. The Court also settled disputes between members and outsiders, and punished with fine the utterance of "onmanerly words," two stormy petrels, Christopher Gibson and Richard Cobb, being frequently "called over the coals" for their unquiet behaviour. The Master and Wardens had absolute control over the taking and transferring of apprentices as well as over the conduct of apprentices themselves, with an ultimate reference to the Lord Mayor. The admission of freemen and the licences to take apprentices, which occur frequently, will interest genealogists, especially as the name and place of abode of the father of an apprentice is generally given; one of them resided at a place as far from London as a village in County Meath.

It should be noted that when an important regulation was made or decision taken, the actual signatures and marks of members of the Court are given.

On page 40 occurs this entry: "M^d at thys same courte was delyved in to the handes of laurans bardshawe (Bradshaw) the seale of oure Howsse & the dede of armes where by he shulde change the seale into another fasschon and our corporcion to translate into eynglys." An agreement with the Fishmongers that the latter should have "the ende of or gardyn" is entered in 1548-9; on page 67 there is reference to stuff bought and sold at the coronation of Queen Elizabeth, and in 1567 mention of a play called "the Story of Sampson," to be performed at the Red Lion in Stepney. A great rain and thunder is recorded as having taken place on All Souls Day, 1548.

In the introduction interesting biographical details are given concerning the more prominent members of the Company, among them being some who held the offices of "King's Carpenter" and "Surveyor of the King's Works." In an appendix are full lists of the Masters, Masters and Wardens, Beadles and Clerks during the period covered by this book. The indexes of names and places are as satisfactory as those contained in the Warden's Account Book, and the General Index will be found a complete guide to every subject touched upon in the volume.

Notes and Queries.

PHILIP JOHNSON, PRINCIPAL OF EDMUND HALL, OXFORD.—In the index to Lambeth Administrations, The Genealogist, O.S., vii, 275, there appears the name of John Jonson, May 2, 1576. The christian name should read Philip. This error would scarcely be worth noticing but for the fact that the entry evidently relates to Philip Johnson who was Principal of Edmund Hall, Oxford. Dr. Magrath tells me that nothing has hitherto been recorded of this Principal outside his Oxford career. In the Administration the intestate is described as Clerk, S.T.B., domestic chaplain to the Archbishop, and the grant is made to John Johnson of Kirkby Stephen, Westmorland, father of the deceased. The folio is 145 b. Gryndall and not 246 a. as printed.

In the Lambeth parish register, under April 1576, is an entry: "The xij daie was buried Mr. Phillip Johnson chapline to my Lord of canterburies grace."

THE COPLEYS OF ROUGHEY AND GATTON.

By V. C. SANBORN, of Kenilworth, Illinois.

The vicissitudes of the Roses of York and of Lancaster mark the fifteenth century in England. The baronage dwindled, but the commercial classes increased in power. Chivalry and feudalism waned. The discovery of movable types opened a wide door for literature. Whittington, Warwick, Caxton—these are a scant handful of the names which typify the epoch. The great London companies began to attract younger sons of the old landed classes.

Late in this fifteenth century, while the York and Lancaster struggles were raging to a close, there appears a Roger Copley at Roughey in Sussex, and at Gatton in Surrey. Pedigree-makers style him Sir Roger Copley, and though the honour of knighthood was probably never his, the name retains a flavour of romance, and calls to mind Addison's famous Sir Roger.

No modern pedigree, I think, traces the ancestry of this Roger Copley.¹ His descendants bore the arms of that Yorkshire family which was seated at Batley in the West Riding; and Elizabethan heralds agree that he was a son of Sir Richard Copley of Batley.

This Sir Richard Copley was twice married. His first wife was Margaret, daughter of Sir Richard Denton, and to this match the early heralds assign our Roger Copley.² The Rev. Joseph Hunter asserts that the only son of this first marriage was Lionel Copley, the heir of Batley; and that the younger sons, William, John, Oliver, Percival, Roger and Thomas, were born to Sir Richard Copley by his second wife.³ She was Elizabeth, daughter and sole heir to John Harrington of Doncaster, and granddaughter of Sir William Harrington of Brierley by his wife, Margaret, daughter of Sir Robert Nevile, and aunt and coheir of Margaret, Duchess of Exeter (wife of Thomas Beaufort).³

Harleian MS. 1982, among the Randle Holme Collection at the British Museum, is described in the Catalogue of 1808 as "An Heraldical Book in folio, written by many Hands, and relating to the descents

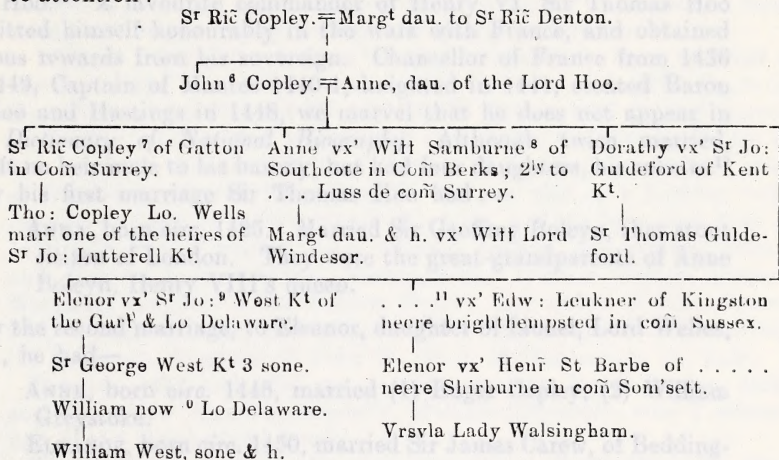

¹ This article was nearly ready for publication before I saw the Letters of Sir Thomas Copley. They were edited for the Roxburghe Club in 1897 by the late Richard Copley Christie, who had previously contributed a sketch of Sir Thomas for the Dictionary of National Biography. With all his care and erudition, Mr. Christie accepted some ancient errors in this confused and puzzling pedigree; and he apparently failed to search several original sources of information. His preface to the Letters contains a vast amount of Copley data, however, and his notes are always illuminating.

² Cf. Copley pedigrees in Visitation of Yorkshire, 1564 (Harleian Society, xvi, pp. 78-80) and in Foster's Visitations of Yorkshire, pp. 10 and 526. One pedigree states that Roger Copley, son of Sir Richard, died s.p. in his father's lifetime. Another credits Roger Copley with four sons. There is no doubt that Sir Richard Copley had a son Roger who died before 1490 and whose brother was William Copley of Doncaster and London. Our Roger Copley answers all these requirements, and circumstantial evidence thus proves him without doubt the son of Sir Richard.

³ Hunter's South Yorkshire, vol. i, pp. 40, 51; vol. ii, p. 402.

and armes of antient Shropshire families." Beginning at fo. 72 this MS. contains a fragment of what was apparently the field-book for a Visitation of Shropshire in 1590-1.⁴ The Catalogue states that this is a "Tract by the first Hand,⁵ entitled The Visitation of Shropshire; under which the second Randle Holme hath written thus 'taken 33 Q. Eliz.,' of which Visitation I knew not, before I saw this Remainder." On folio 115 b appears a Copley pedigree which is fuller than any I have seen of this early date.

As this descent has never been printed, I append a copy, in which some errors are indicated in the footnotes. The pedigree is, however, corroborated in the main by original records, and its age entitles it to attention:—

Concerning Sir Richard Copley of Batley we know but little. His will, made 16 July 1434, and proved at York 28 Sept. 1434, sheds scant genealogical light.¹² One of his sons was William Copley, of Doncaster and London, of whom we shall hear more in connection with his brother Roger. The will of this William Copley, made 15 March 1490 and proved in the Archbishop's Court on 21 December 1490, is full of genealogical detail. His brothers Oliver, Roger and Thomas had apparently predeceased him, for he left a bequest for Masses for their souls' repose.¹²

⁴ A paper in Collections of Shropshire Archaeological Society on Shropshire MSS. in British Museum says the county was not visited by the Heralds in either year.

⁵ Was this the first Randle Holme, 1571-1655?

⁶ This calls John (rectius Roger) Copley a son by the first marriage.

⁷ This was really Sir Roger Copley, knighted by Henry VIII, circ. 1527; see post.

⁸ See post for more of this Samborne match, and more about William Lusher.

⁹ Eleanor was the second wife of Thomas West, Lord Lawarr.

¹⁰ This fixes the approximate date of the pedigree, since this Lord Lawarr died in 1595.

¹¹ Margaret was the name of this daughter. See will of Edward Lewknor in Denham Parish Registers (Suffolk Green Books), pp. 88-93.

¹² For wills of Sir Richard Copley and William Copley, with genealogical notes, see Testamenta Eboracensia, vol. iv, pp. 47-50.

Roger Copley is called the sixth son of Sir Richard, and was probably born circ. 1430. The Copleys had some connection with London, for both Sir Richard and his son William died there and were interred in the Chapel of the Friars Carmelites in Fleet Street.¹³ To London our Roger Copley hied, to seek his fortune, and was apprenticed to Richard Claver, a London mercer.¹⁴ In 1456 Roger was admitted to the Mercers' Company, and apparently thrived at his trade, for in 1471 he was chosen one of the three Wardens of the Company.¹⁴

Before 1469¹⁵ he had married Anne, daughter and coheir of Sir Thomas Hoo, Baron of Hoo and Hastings, concerning whom there is little to add to Mr. W. D. Cooper's account of the families of Braose and Hoo.¹⁶ A favourite commander of Henry VI, Sir Thomas Hoo acquitted himself honourably in the wars with France, and obtained various rewards from his sovereign. Chancellor of France from 1436 to 1449, Captain of Mantes 1440-1, knighted in 1441, created Baron of Hoo and Hastings in 1448, we marvel that he does not appear in the Dictionary of National Biography. Although twice married, he left no heir male to his barony, but had four daughters, his coheirs.¹⁷

By his first marriage Sir Thomas Hoo had:—

1. ANNA, born circ. 1425. Married Sir Geoffrey Boleyn, that stout citizen of London. They were the great-grandparents of Anne Boleyn, Henry VIII's queen.

By the second marriage, to Eleanor, daughter of Lionel, Lord Welles, K.G., he had—

2. ANNE, born circ. 1448, married (1) Roger Copley, (2) William Greystoke.
3. ELEANOR, born circ. 1450, married Sir James Carew, of Beddington.
4. ELIZABETH, born circ. 1451, married (1) Thomas Massingberd,¹⁸ of London, son of Robert Massingberd,¹⁸ of Burgh in Lincolnshire; (2) Sir John Devenish, of Hellingly in Sussex.

Vain to query at this late date how the London mercer made this match. In trade we meet him occasionally on the Public Records, but never as a landowner except through his wife. No record is found of his being knighted, nor is he ever called "Sir Roger" except on the early pedigrees. By this marriage he acquired three manors: Roughhey or Roughway, near Horsham, in Sussex; Gatton, in Surrey; and The Maze in Southwark. The former I take to be an appanage of the Braose lands, and it is as "Roger Copley of Roughway" that we first

Roger Copley is called the sixth son of Sir Richard, and was probably born c. 1430. The Copleys had some connection with London, for both Sir Richard and his son William died there and were interred in the Chapel of the Friars Carmelites in Fleet Street.¹² To London our Roger Copley had to seek his fortune, and was apprenticed to Richard Gayer, a London merchant.¹³ In 1450 Roger was admitted to the Masters' Company, and apparently threw up his trade, for in 1471 he was chosen one of the three Wardens of the Company.¹⁴

Before 1468¹⁵ he had married Anne, daughter and coheiress of Sir Thomas Hood, Baron of Hood and Hastings, concerning whom there is little to add to Mr. W. D. Cooper's account of the family of Hood and Hood.¹⁶ A famous commander of Henry VI, Sir Thomas Hood acquired himself honourably in the wars with France, and obtained various rewards from his sovereign. Chamberlain of France from 1439 to 1442, Captain of Marston 1440-1, knighted in 1441, created Baron of Hood and Hastings in 1448, we marvel that he does not appear in the Dictionary of National Biography. Although twice married, he left no heir male to his barony, but had four daughters, his coheiress.¹⁷

By his first marriage Sir Thomas Hood had:—
1. Anne, born c. 1435. Married Sir Geoffrey Botolph, that stout citizen of London. They were the great-grandparents of Anne Botolph, Henry VIII's queen.

By the second marriage, to Eleanor, daughter of John, Lord Welles, R.G., he had—

2. Anne, born c. 1448, married (1) Roger Copley, (2) William Greylocke.
3. Eleanor, born c. 1450, married Sir James Gayer, of Bedding-ton.
4. Elizabeth, born c. 1451, married (1) Thomas Masingford,¹⁸ of London, son of Robert Masingford¹⁹ of Hough in Lancashire; (2) Sir John Trevelyan, of Hellingly in Sussex.

Vain to query at this late date how the London merchant made this match. In truth we meet him occasionally on the Public Record, but never as a husband except through his wife. No record is found of his being knighted, nor is he ever called "Sir Roger" except on the early pedigree. By this marriage he acquired two names: Roughney or Roughway, near Hingham in Sussex; Gatton, in Surrey; and The Maze in Southwark. The former I take to be an upsurge of the Rouse family, and it is as "Roger Copley of Roughway" that we first meet him in pedigrees of the Tudor period, but I find no record of how this manor was set off to him. Circ. 1472 John Timperley conveyed the manor of Gatton to trustees for the use of Roger Copley, his wife Anne, and their heirs.¹⁹ In the same year, Robert, brother and heir of William Lemyng, late of London, grocer, released the manors of Ewell and The Maze in Southwark to Roger Copley, William Copley and Thomas Massingberd.²⁰ The latter manor was parcel of the lands of Sir John Burcestre, as appears by Early Chancery Proceeding, bundle 40, no. 47.

By 1472, therefore, our London mercer was lord of three manors, yet he still plied his trade as late as 1482, when Robert Howeton of Barton on Humber, merchant, was called to answer in regard to a debt owing to "Roger Copley, citizen and mercer of London."²¹

William Copley, the brother of Roger, is said to have amassed a fortune in the law, and he was on the Commission for the Peace in Yorkshire in 1-5 Edward IV (1461-6).²² Before 1472 he had moved to London, and in that year among the pardons to the merchants of the staple is one to "William Copley of London, gentelman, alias of Barnbowe, alias of Doncastre."²³ He was also on a London commission de fossis et vallatis about this time, and we have seen that in 1472 two Surrey manors were released to him, his brother Roger, and Roger's brother-in-law, Massingberd. William Copley married Margaret, daughter of Sir William Ryther, and widow of John Grenefeld, of Barnbow, and died without issue. He is said to have married (1) Margaret, daughter of John St. Paul, of Gunnersby, co. Linc.

Between 1482 and 1488 our excellent mercer, Roger Copley, died, and his widow married, secondly, William Greystoke, who I assume was of the Cumberland family.

The following bill in chancery appears in Early Chancery Proceedings, bundle 137, No. 14. The calendar issued by the Public Record Office assigns this bill to the period from 1483-1496. I think the date was no later than 1484. The bill calls our good mercer merely "Roger Copley," without any indication of knighthood:—

To the most Revent Fader in God the Archebisschop of Cantbury and Chaunceler of Englund

The children of this first Roger Copley,²⁵ so far as ascertained, were :—

1. ROGER, born circ. 1470,²⁶ of West Hampnett and Roughhey in Sussex, and of Gatton and Southwark in Surrey. On Commission of Array, 1512. Sheriff of Surrey and Sussex, 5 and 6 Henry VIII (1513, 1514). Released as "late Sheriff," 7 Henry VIII, and called "Roger Copley of West Hampnett, alias of Suthwark." Knighted circ. 1527, and again Sheriff of Surrey and Sussex as Sir Roger Copley in 1529.²⁷ Married (1) Jane, daughter of Henry Lode of Kingsley in Hants, by whom he had several daughters; and (2) Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Shelley, of Michelgrove, co. Sussex, Justice of the Court of Common Pleas, by whom he had several daughters, and in 1534 a son and heir, Thomas Copley.²⁸ This was the wellknown Sir Thomas Copley, who styled himself Lord Welles, a sketch of whose life appears in the D.N.B. Sir

²⁵ Foster's Visitations of Yorkshire accredits to the first Roger Copley four sons, William, John, Richard and Henry. This is, I think, an error.

²⁶ Mr. Christie says he was born in 1473, but he bases this on the somewhat uncertain age given in an inquisition. As the first Roger Copley was married in 1468, it is probable that his eldest son was born not later than 1470.

²⁷ The Letters and Papers, Foreign and Domestic, of the Reign of Henry VIII contain many references to Roger Copley, of which these are a few noted.

²⁸ The Copley pedigree in Harleian MS. 1562, fo. 87 (Visitations of Sussex, Harleian Society, vol. liii, p. 111), calls the mercer "Sir Roger Copley of Roughway," and states that his son, "Sir Roger Copley, knighted at the Coronation of Henry VII," married Jane Lode. As this son was not born before 1470, the statement that he was knighted at fifteen bears improbability on its face. And an early Chancery Proceeding (cited in The Genealogist, N.S., vol. iv, pp. 75-7) circ. 1519, shows that at that date the son and heir of Anne Hoo was Roger Copley, an esquire and not a knight. See also the fines in Yorkshire Fines, vol. i, pp. 34-5, when in 1519-20 "Roger Copley, Esq., and Johanna his wife," with the other coheirs of Hoo, conveyed the manor of Barley, near Selby. The Sussex pedigree referred to ante now interpolates a generation, and gives as the son and heir of "Sir Roger Copley" and Jane Lode, a third Sir Roger Copley, who married Elizabeth Shelley. Truly a plethora of knights. This pedigree, with its errors, was copied by Berry in his Sussex Genealogies, p. 296. Mr. Watney's Copley pedigree in Surrey Arch. Coll., vol. xi, p. 180, accepts some of these errors and contains errors of its own. It is correct, however, in stating that the two last Sir Rogers were but one, and that the Lode and Shelley matches were his first and second marriages. No Inquisition Post Mortem of a Roger Copley is recorded before 3 Philip & Mary (1555-6). The Roger Copley who was Sheriff in 1513-14 was undoubtedly the son of the mercer, and a substantial squire. As Henry VIII became more enamoured of Anne Boleyn, it is probable that he knighted this cousin of hers circ. 1527, and made him again Sheriff in 1529.

The children of this first Roger Copley²² so far as ascertained, were:—
 1. Roger, born c. 1470²³ of West Hamphett and Roughney in Sussex, and of Gatton and Southwark in Surrey. On Commission of Array, 1512. Sheriff of Surrey and Sussex, 5 and 6 Henry VIII (1513, 1514). Released as "late Sheriff." 7
 Henry VIII, and called "Roger Copley of West Hamphett, alias of Southwark." Knighted c. 1527, and again Sheriff of Surrey and Sussex as Sir Roger Copley in 1533²⁴. Married
 (1) Jane, daughter of Henry Lode of Kingsley in Hants, by whom he had several daughters; and (2) Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Shelly, of Midselgrove, co. Sussex, Justice of the Court of Common Pleas by whom he had several daughters, and in 1534 a son and heir, Thomas Copley.²⁵
 This was the well-known Sir Thomas Copley, who styled himself
 Lord Welles, a sketch of whose life appears in the D.A.B. Sir

²² Foster's Pedigree of Lovelace mentions to the first Roger Copley four sons, William, John, Richard and Henry. This is a thick answer.

²³ Mr. Gifford says he was born in 1475 but he bases this on the somewhat uncertainly given in an induction. As the first Roger Copley was married in 1468, it is probable that his eldest son was born not later than 1470.

²⁴ The letters and papers of Roger Copley, of which there are a few notes.

²⁵ The Copley pedigree in Hartman MS. 1562, fo. 87 (Pedigree of Sussex Lancelot Society, vol. III, p. 111), calls the mother "Sir Roger Copley of Roughney," and states that his son, "Sir Roger Copley, knighted at the Coronation of Henry VII," married Jane Lode. As this son was not born before 1470, the statement that he was knighted at Henry's coronation is impossible on its face. And an early Chancery proceeding (cited in The Times, N.S. vol. ix, pp. 75-7) viz. 1515, shows that at that date the son and heir of Anne Lode was Roger Copley, an esquire and not a knight. See also the lines in Lovelace's vol. i, pp. 24-5, where in 1515-20 "Roger Copley, Esq., and Johannes his wife," with the other children of the deceased the manor of Harley, near Selby. The Sussex pedigree related in note now reproduces a generation and gives as the son and heir of "Sir Roger Copley," son Jane Lode, a third Sir Roger Copley, who married Elizabeth Shelly. Truly a pedigree of knights. This pedigree, Mr. Rogers copied in his History of Sussex, p. 286. Mr.
 Watney's Copley pedigree in Surrey Arch. Coll., vol. xi, p. 180, repeats some of these errors and contains errors of its own. It is correct, however, in stating that the two first Sir Rogers were not one and the same and that the Lode and Shelly matches were his first and second marriages. No induction Port Folio of a Roger Copley is recorded before 3 Philip & Mary (1555-6). The Roger Copley who was Sheriff in 1515-16 was undoubtedly the son of the manor, and a substantial esquire. As Henry VIII became more concerned of Anne Boleyn, it is probable that he knighted this cousin of hers c. 1527, and made him again
 Sheriff in 1529.

Roger Copley's will of 1549 was proved in P.C.C. (F. 38 Populwell)²⁹ His widow Elizabeth died 25 December 1559, and her will was also proved in P.C.C. (5 Mellershe).³⁰

2. RICHARD, born circ. 1472. Admitted to the Mercers' Company by patrimony in 1498. Married Margery, daughter of John Brocas of Beaurepaire, by his second wife Anne, daughter of John Rogers of Freefolke. Margery Brocas was a coheir to Mary (Kingston) Lisle, niece of the last Sir John Lisle of Wootton in the Isle of Wight.³¹ Richard Copley died s.p. before 1512,³² and his widow married (2) Michael Denys of Pucklechurch, co. Glouc. Michael Denys presented to Gatton Rectory in 1512, and he and his wife Margery quitclaimed to Roger Copley in 1518 their rights in Gatton manor, some part of which had perhaps been assigned to Margery for her dower. Michael and Margery Denys became the ancestors of the Dennis family in the Isle of Wight, who inherited a part of the Lisle estates.³³

3. WILLIAM, only known through being mentioned in his uncle William's will as a son of Roger Copley.

1. ANNE, born circ. 1474. Married first, in 1496, William, son of Drew Sambourne, of Southcot in Berks.³⁴ He died 20 October 1503, leaving an only daughter and heir, Margaret, who married William, second Lord Windsor. Anne (Copley) Sambourne survived her first husband, and married secondly William Lusher of Puttenham in Surrey,³⁵ and died 7 April 1535.³⁶

2. DOROTHY, born circ. 1475. Married Sir John Guldeford, of Kent, father of Sir Thomas Guldeford. I cannot attach these to the Guldeford pedigree.

3. ELEANOR, born circ. 1476. Married (as his second wife) Sir Thomas West, Lord Lawarr, and they had, besides other children, Sir George West, who died in 1538, leaving a son William

4. MARGARET, born circ. 1477. Married Edward Lewknor, of Kingston Buci, near Shoreham, in Sussex. See pedigree in Denham Parish Registers in the Suffolk Green Books. It is worth noting that Margaret (Copley) Lewknor was the grandmother of Ursula St. Barbe, the wife of Sir Francis Walsingham, Queen Elizabeth's famous minister.³⁸
5. ELIZABETH, born circ. 1479. Died unmarried in 1535, and her will was proved in P.C.C., 32 Hogen. See Letters of Thomas Copley, preface, p. xix.

One problem as to Roger Copley's children remains unsolved. The first Surrey Dallender is said in Harleian MS. 1561, fo. 127, to have been a son of "De la River of Bransby in Yorkshire," by his wife who is said to have been "sister of Roger Copley of Roughey." The Visitation of Yorkshire (Harleian Society, xvi, p. 95) states that Marmaduke de la River of Brandsby married Anne, sister of Sir Ralph Bulmer, and that their son Thomas de la River married "Elenor, daughter of Copley of Doncaster." Marmaduke de la River married in 1469-70, and died in 1489. His son Thomas (a minor in 1490 and ward of William Copley) must have been born circ. 1472, and his wife was probably not born earlier than that date. As the first Roger Copley of Roughey was born circ. 1430, the wife of Thomas de la River to have been "sister of Roger Copley of Roughey" must have been a daughter of the first Roger. But, except for Mundy's reference in Harleian MS. 1561 there is no record of such a daughter, and the only daughter Eleanor married Lord Lawarr. Who then was the wife of Thomas de la River? ³⁹

The Copleys of Gatton may easily be traced since Sir Thomas Copley, styled Lord Welles, and a pedigree (unindexed, by Dr. Marshall) appears in Mr. R. C. Christie's Letters of Sir Thomas Copley.

Several links with America appear in the Copley line. Thomas Copley, the Jesuit, grandson of this Sir Thomas Copley, has been identified with "Father Philip Fisher," one of the founders of Maryland. A great-grandson of Eleanor Copley, Thomas West, Lord Lawarr, was Governor of Virginia in 1609. Lionel Copley of Wadworth (in the eighth generation from Sir Richard Copley of Batley) was Governor ³⁷ He it was who presented to the Vicarage of Wherwell, Hants, in 1587, Stephen Bachiler, whose daughter Anne married the father of the first American Sambornes. For a definitive treatise on "The Barony of Delawarr," dealing with William West's restoration in blood, see J. H. Round's Peerage and Pedigree, vol. i, pp. 155-8.

³⁸ Mr. Watney's Copley pedigree, referred to ante, is mistaken as to the Copley ancestry of Lady Walsingham.

³⁹ Mr. Watney's Copley pedigree, referred to ante, states that Roger Dallender of Buckland married a daughter of the second Roger Copley of Roughey. This is, I think, an error.

West. This William West was adopted by his uncle (Thomas West, E.G., Lord Lanes) as his heir, attempted to poison him and was disinherited. He obtained a new estate to the title, was restored in blood by the House of Lords, and died Lord Lanes in 1395.²⁷

MARGARET, born c. 1417. Married Edward Lanes, of Kingston, near Shropshire, in Essex. See pedigree in Devonshire Family Papers in the British Museum. It is worth noting that Margaret (Copey) Lanes was the grand-mother of Ursula St. Barbe, the wife of Sir Francis Walsingham, Queen Elizabeth's famous minister.²⁸

G. ELIZABETH, born c. 1470. Died unmarried in 1535, and her will was proved in T.C.C., 31 Hogen. See letters of Thomas Copey, pedigree, p. xix.

One problem as to Roger Copey's children remains unsolved. The first survey Dallenor is said in Harleian MS. 1501, fo. 127, to have been a son of "the la River of Roughney in Yorkshyre," by his wife who is said to have been "sister of Roger Copey of Roughney." The Visitation of Yorkshyre Harleian Society, xvi, p. 95, states that Marmaduke de la River of Roughney married Anne, sister of Sir Ralph Botmer, and thus their son Thomas de la River married "Katherine, daughter of Copey of Bonchester." Marmaduke de la River married in 1468-70 and died in 1488. His son Thomas (a minor in 1470 and ward of William Copey) must have been born c. 1472, and his wife was probably not born earlier than that date. As the first Roger Copey of Roughney was born c. 1430, the wife of Thomas de la River to have been "sister of Roger Copey of Roughney" must have been a daughter of the first Roger. But, except for Mundy's reference in Harleian MS. 1501 there is no record of such a daughter, and the only daughter Eleanor married Lord Lanes. Who then was the wife of Thomas de la River?²⁹

The Copeys of Gatton may easily be traced since Sir Thomas Copey, styled Lord Wotton, and a pedigree (undated, by Dr. Marshall) appears in Mr. H. C. Christie's letters of Sir Thomas Copey. Several links with America appear in the Copey line. Thomas Copey, the second grandson of Sir Thomas Copey, has been identified with "Patrick Philip Fisher," one of the founders of Maryland. A great-grandson of Eleanor Copey, Thomas West Lord Lanes, was Governor of Virginia in 1608. Second Copey of Walsworth (in the eighth generation from Sir Richard Copey of Bath) was Governor of Maryland after the Restoration. The famous American portrait painter, John Singleton Copley, son of Richard Copley, and father of Lord Lyndhurst, is said to have belonged to an Irish branch of the Yorkshire Copleys.

²⁸ Mr. Watson's Copey pedigree, referred to above, is mistaken as to the Copey ancestry of Lady Walsingham.

²⁹ Mr. Watson's Copey pedigree, referred to above, states that Roger Dallenor of Bonchester married a daughter of the second Roger Copey of Roughney. This is, I think, an error.

It may be that a connection existed between the Copleys of Surrey and Sussex, and the New England Sambornes. It will be remembered that the father of the three first Sambornes of Hampton in New Hampshire married Anne Bachiler.⁴⁰ She was a daughter of that "notorious inconformist," Stephen Bachiler, who was presented to the vicarage of Wherwell in Hants by William West, Lord Lawarr, in 1587. This Lord Lawarr was a grandson of Eleanor, daughter of Roger Copley. Another daughter of Roger Copley, Anne, married William Sambourne, son of Drew Sambourne of Southcot. A son of Roger Copley, Richard, married Margery, daughter of John Brocas. By this match Richard Copley became the brother-in-law of Nicholas Samborne of Mapledurham, brother of Drew Sambourne of Southcot. The son of Nicholas Samborne of Mapledurham was the first John Samborne of Timsbury. Recent discoveries indicate that this John Samborne was perhaps the grandfather of that Samborne who married Anne Bachiler. The following sketch-pedigrees will make this involved connection more clear:—

⁴⁰ The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xiii, p. 152.

⁴¹ Perhaps a son of one of these married Anne Bachiler and was the father of the three New England Sambornes.

THE ASPINWALL AND ASPINALL FAMILIES OF LANCASHIRE.

By H. O. ASPINALL.

PART IV.

The ancient parish of Whalley, which lies from twenty to thirty miles north-east of Ormskirk, was originally one of the most extensive parishes in England. Dr. Whitaker, a Vicar of Whalley and of Blackburn in the early part of the nineteenth century, has given us in his History of Whalley a most valuable description of the parish, its places, families, and antiquities. In the second volume of his work there is an account of a place named Standen, with some notes and a pedigree of a family—"Aspinall of Standen."

The great de Lacy Inquisition of February 16th 1311¹⁰⁰ tells us that Henry de Lacy "held at Standene a capital messuage worth xij*l*., 80 acres of land in demean yearly worth xxvjs viij*d*., 36 acres of meadow yearly worth xxiijs., and several pastures yearly worth vs." This record alone is sufficient to show that Standen was a place of considerable antiquity. Dr. Whitaker gives many notes of a family which took the name of this place for its family name, and goes on to say:¹⁰¹ "At a later period Standen has been the seat of the family of Aspinall, a distinguished member of which has been noticed by Dr. Whitaker in his account of Clitheroe Church. Their house, a stately stone mansion, rebuilt in the last century, is pleasantly situate a mile to the north-east of the town. It was occupied for some time by the Viscount and Viscountess de Serrant, who both died here in 1796."

Appended to this statement are some two dozen brief footnotes, taken principally from Inquisitions post mortem, Plea rolls, etc. The latter it will presently be necessary to quote more fully. The footnotes all appear under the common heading, "Aspinall of Standen," but five or six of them refer to families at Netherdarwin and Blackburn.

In some of the earliest records in which an Aspinall of Standen is mentioned we find yet another variation in the orthography of the surname, and one that has an importance attached to it which does not attach to those other variants of the name Aspinwall which already have been noticed. The name as here spelt, "Aspenhalgh," or "Aspinhaugh," is itself a place-name, and it has a meaning quite different from that of Aspinwall.¹⁰² Dr. Whitaker explains the word "halgh" as being "the Scottish haugh, a flat spongy piece of ground"; and he quotes several names having this ending, amongst them Aspenhalgh, "the Halgh of the Aspens."¹⁰³ In another work, Three Lancashire

¹⁰⁰ Chetham Society's Publications, vol. lxxiv, O.S.

¹⁰¹ "History of Whalley," vol. ii.

¹⁰² See "The Genealogist," N.S., vol. xxxii, p. 145.

¹⁰³ "History of Whalley," vol. i.

The Documents of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Centuries, the Editor (John Harland, F.S.A.) explains Aspenhalgh as "the hough or hill of the Aspens or poplars."¹⁰⁴

In view of the possibility that this place-name might have been the original name from which the surname Aspinall was evolved, it became necessary to ascertain if a place "Aspenhalgh" actually existed. A careful search was made, and it was found that the name occurred in several localities in Lancashire at various dates between the years 1300 and 1500, but always as a surname. An examination of the works of the two writers quoted above failed to show that either of them had any definite knowledge of a place so named, nor was any mention of such a place discovered in any of the other numerous records searched. The termination "halgh" was noticed to be far from uncommon in Lancashire names. Its general pronunciation apparently was "haw." Our English forefathers often cut words short, and as they could not write were quite phonetic. A good example of this may be seen in the Ormskirk name Forshaw, which was originally "Four-oaks-halgh," if we may judge by the orthography of a record dated 1367, in which an Alan de Fourokeshagh is mentioned.¹⁰⁵ In some such manner as this the name Aspenhalgh would seem to have originated, for the evidence, though of a negative character, shows almost conclusively that it was only another variant and not itself a place-name.

The earliest mention which has been found of an Aspinall of Standen occurs in the "Act Book of Whalley, 1510-1538."¹⁰⁶ In this book, the name "Jacobus Aspenhalghe" is frequently recorded as juror for "Clidderow et Standene" at the General Visitations and Chapters which were held in the parish church of Whalley at intervals during these years. The following record, contained in the same volume, and the first in which he is named, also gives us some information of his family.

"Visitacio siue Capitulum generale celebrata in Ecclesia parochiali de Whalley, xiiij^o die mensis Aprilis anno domini millesimo quingentisimo xiiij^o, coram Christofero Smythe tunc commissario ipsam actualiter excercente. (Visitation, or General Chapter, held 13th April 1513, in Whalley Church, before Christopher Smith.)

Cause Instancionate inter partes.

Jacobus Aspenhalghe et Agnes uxor eius ad hos diem et locum Citati fuerunt ad Instanciam Emmote Whittaker de et in quandam Causa diffamationis."

The record (which is a somewhat lengthy one) goes on to give an account of the hearing of the case, during which Alice, Ellen, and Margery Aspinall, daughters of James and Agnes, were witnesses. Alice, the wife of Miles Leghe of Clitheroe, is also mentioned as being related by blood to Agnes. The case was finally referred to arbitration.

The records contained in the "Act Book of Whalley" are only the first of a series, and we obtain a considerable amount of information relating to the early history of this family. The further records will be given as nearly as possible in the order of their dates.

The Duchy of Lancaster Pleadings for 25 Henry VIII (1533-4)¹⁰⁷ contain a case: John, Abbot of Whalley, versus Thomas Bulcocke, John Rydehaulght and others, for non-payment of their tythes. It had been decreed that Bulcocke and Ridehaulght "sholde be at their electyons whyther thei wolde come to Walley. And there upon their knees desyre the sayed Abbott to forgywe theim their luteryous demeanour for not doying their dewtye to the Churche," or else both of them pay him 40s. sterling. But up to the present time they have done neither one thing nor the other, and the Abbot prays for Process of Privy Seal against them. During the progress of the case James Aspynhalgh and Myles Derby, "In Cliderow," were examined as witnesses.

The "Whalley Coucher"¹⁰⁸ relates that at the time of the Survey of Clitheroe taken 28 June, 30 Henry VIII (1538), "James Aspinough houldeth a house, a garden, 3 acres of arable land, and payeth yearly 12s 0d."

A record at the Public Record Office¹⁰⁹ states that James Aspenall of Overstanden filed a bill of complaint in Hilary term 1542 against Thomas Morley and Rafe Clough for entering his barn which he had by demise of the said Thomas, and taking forcible possession of, casting out and breaking to pieces "one great harke or chest standinge, worth 20s. and above, and also in the most spitefull maner that could be thei carried the said harke into the heywey three hundredth rodde from the said barne, and cast here a pece and there a pece that all the parisshe did wonder at it." And Thomas Morley withholds £3 from him, and Rafe Clough divers deeds, etc.

James Haspinalle (sic) sets forth the above as taking place last April and further says that Morley and Clough together with one Thomas Clerke have wrongfully entered 12 acres of his in Meyrley, co. Lanes., in June last against the King's peace and have ever since taken the issues to his great loss and damage.¹¹⁰

In the Visitation of Lancashire, by Richard St. George, 1613,¹¹¹ it is recorded that William Dewhurst married "Elyza., dau. of . . . Aspenhall of Standon, co. Lancaster." Their son, John Dewhurst, "now living 1613," was married, and his son and heir was William Dewhurst, "etat. 26 annor. 1613," who was also married and had a son John "et. 3 annor." The Whalley parish registers¹¹² contain a record of a marriage as follows:—

"De Nuptijs mens Ffebruarij 1544

Wiffmus Dewhurst et Elizabeth Aspinoughe. 15 die."

The Inquisition post mortem of Giles Colthurst of Lower Standen was taken 2nd April, 1 Mary (1553), and may be seen at the Public Record Office.¹¹³ The will of Giles Colthurst (recited in part in the inquisition), says, inter alia : "Also it is my will that John Coltehurst my brother, Christofer Parker of R . . . dam, James Aspenhalghe of Overstanden and Robert Parker of Broxeholme, feoffies of trust possessed and seased for me in a dede made and dated the 10th day of December Anno Regni Regis Edwardi nup R^e Anglie vjth Sexto more at large it dothe and may appere." . . .

In one of his footnotes Dr. Whitaker says, "James Aspinall of Overstanden was a trustee of Gyles Colthurst 10 Decr. 1552, and probably married his third daughter Elen."¹¹⁴ There is no evidence of any such marriage from the Inquisition post mortem, and at the date it was taken Ellen Colthurst was unmarried. The name of James Aspinall's wife as given in the record from the "Act Book of Whalley" was Agnes.

The year 1544 saw the foundation of a Grammar School in Clitheroe. The following extracts are from the Foundation Charter :¹¹⁵

"Philip and Mary, etc. To all whom these our present Letters Patent shall come, health.

"Know ye that we, at the humble petition, as well of the Inhabitants of the towne of Clitherow and parish of Whalley, in the County of Lancaster, as others very many more of our subjects of the whole country neighbouring there, for a Grammar School in Clitherow, within the parish of Whalley to be erected and established, for teaching, bringing up, and instructing of boys and young men, of our special grace, etc., grant and ordain, that from henceforth there shall be one grammar school of Mary Queene of England. . . .

"Know ye therefore that we have assigned, elected, named, and constituted our well beloved Richard Greenacres, Alexander Houghton, Gyles Parker, Edward Radcliffe, Thomas Greenacres and James Aspinall, inhabitants within the town of Clitherow and parish of Whalley to be the first rulers and governors of the possessions and revenues of the said school, etc.

"Witness ourselves, at Hampton Court, the xxix day of August, in the 1st and 2nd yeare of our reign."

Amongst the Lancashire Fines, or "Final Concords," for the period 1510-1558,¹¹⁶ we meet with the following record :—

M. 13. [21 March 1558.]

Between John Aspenall and William Dewhurst, plaintiffs, and Alexander Howghton, deforciant of the manor of Penhulton, with the appurtenances, and of 8 messuages, 6 cottages, 6 tofts, 8 gardens, 8 orchards, a windmill, 300 a. of land, 40 a. of meadow, 60 a. of pasture,

The Inquisition post mortem of Giles Colburn of Lower Standen was taken 2nd April 1553, and may be seen at the Public Record Office. The will of Giles Colburn (rected in part in the inquisition), says, inter alia: "Also it is my will that John Colburn my brother, Christopher Parker of R. . . . dam, James Aspinwall of Overstanton and Robert Parker of Broxholme, lessees of the trust of possession and assent for me in a lease made and dated the 10th day of November Anno Regni Regis Edwardi 6th R. Anglie vijth Sexto more at large in docket and may appear."

In one of his footnotes Mr. Whitaker says: "James Aspinwall of Overstanton was a trustee of Giles Colburn 10 Decr. 1553, and probably married his third daughter Ellen." There is no evidence of any such marriage from the Inquisition post mortem, and at the date it was taken Giles Colburn was unmarried. The name of James Aspinwall's wife as given in the record from the "Ass Book of Whalley" was Anne.

The year 1514 saw the foundation of a Grammar School in Clitheroe. The following extracts are from the Foundation Charter: "Philip and Mary etc. To all whom these our present letters Patent shall come, health."

"Know ye that we, at the humble petition, as well of the inhabitants of the town of Clitheroe and parish of Whalley, in the County of Lancaster, as others very many more of our subjects of the whole country neighbouring there, for a Grammar School in Clitheroe, within the parish of Whalley to be erected and established, for teaching, bringing up, and instructing of boys and young men, of our special grace, etc. grant and obtain, that from henceforth there shall be one grammar school of Mary Queens of England"

"Now ye sheweth that we have assigned, elected, named, and constituted our well beloved Richard Greenacre, Alexander Houghton, Giles Parker, Edward Haddiffe, Thomas Greenacre and James Aspinwall, inhabitants within the town of Clitheroe and parish of Whalley to be the first rulers and governors of the possessions and revenues of the said school, etc."

"Witness ourselves, at Hampton Court, the xix day of August, in the 1st and 2nd years of our reign."

Amongst the Lancashire fines, or "Fine Concordes" for the period 1540-1553, we meet with the following record:—

M. 13. [1st March 1553.]
Between John Aspinwall and William Dewhurst, plaintiffs, and Alexander Dewhurst, defendant of the manor of Poulton, with the appurtenances, and of 8 messuages, 6 cottages, 8 gardens, 8 orchards, a vineyard, 300 a. of land, 40 a. of meadow, 60 a. of pasture, 20 a. of wood, 100 a. of tubary, 40 a. of moss, 100 a. of moor, 100 a. of furze and heath, and 6s. 8d. of rent in Penhulton (Little Pendleton), Clidero, Wylpeshyre, and Rybchester.

Alexander remitted all right to John and William and to the heirs of John, for which John and William gave him £200.

The following abstracts have been obtained from two documents at the Public Record Office:—

"In Hilary term, 3 and 4 Phil. and Mary, 1557, Henry Colhurst gentleman, their Majesties Fermor of their Mille of Cliderowe, filed a bill of Complaint in the Duchy Chamber to the effect that, wheras by 'time wherof the memory of man ys not to the contrary the custom ys that all the Kinges and Queenes Majesties tenauntes of the said manour used to do their sute and grynde their corn at the said mille, and not els where so yt ys that one Hugh Standen, Edward Aspywall, John Balye thelder, James Hyrde, and Nycholas Dugdale, tenauntes of the said manour, myndinge the dysheryson of the Kinge and Queenes Majesties, have now of late refuced and denyed to do their sute and to grynde their corne at the said Mille of Clitherowe'; and praying that Letters of Privy Seal may be directed to the said persons commanding them to appear before the Court on a certain day and answer the premisses." ¹¹⁷

"William Starke of Twiston, gent., is tenant in common with James Harteley of Grenefyld, gent., Miles Aspinall of Mereley, gent., John Robyn of Colne, gent., and Richard Grymeshawe, gent., of one parcel of pasture and turbary called Twyston More in Twiston containing about 100 acres, which they and their ancestors have held time out of mind. When lately taking his turbary by certain men (named) he was vexed and stayed therein by said Hartley, Aspinall, and Robyn who commenced actions of trespass against him in the court baron of the Wapentake of Clitheroe. He maintains that tenants in common cannot sue other tenants in common." ¹¹⁸

The Duchy of Lancaster Pleadings at the Public Record Office include records of two cases: Alice Aspywall versus Edward Aspywall, April 1583; Edward Aspinwall versus James Aspywall and William Greenwood, October 1583, with defendant's reply in October 1586. These records are valuable, and as only a very small portion of the information which they contain has hitherto been printed, full copies of them have been made. They are as follows:—

To the Right honorable Sr Rauffe Sadler Knight Chauncello^r of the dutchie of Lancaster and one of her Ma^ties most honorable privie Counsell.

In most humble wise Complayninge Sheweth unto your honor your poore and dailie Suppliante Edward Aspinwall of Clitheroe in the Countie of Lancaster yoman That whereas one James Aspynewall late of over Standen in the said Countie yoman and Father of your said Suppliant was in his life tyme lawfullie Seased in his demesne as of ffee of and in xxxth acres of Land meadowe and pasture with the appteinncē or thereaboutē in Clitheroe afforesaid And he so beinge thereof Seased abowte the xxvijth yeare of the late Kinge of famous memorie Kinge Henrie the eight for dyvers good and Reasonable Causes him movinge and Especiallie for the preferment of your said Suppliant and of one Miles Aspynewall and Nicholas Aspynewall his brethren beinge naturall Children of the said James did by word openlie and publicklye in the p^sence of dyvers Credible and substanciall witnesses geve graunt and demise the said xxxth acres of land with the Appteinncē unto the said Miles Aspynewall and to yo^r said Supplyant To have and to hold to them and their assignes for and duringe the terme of one hundreth yeares from thensfurth fullie to be Complett and ended if the said Miles and your said Suppliant or eyther of them shuld so longe live. And did then also appointe that the said Miles and Edward and their assignes shulde therefore yearelye duringe the said terme yeld and paie unto the said Nicholas Aspynewall duringe his life and after his decease to the heires of the said James the some of twentie three shillings foure pence of good and lawfull monie of England at two sevall feastē in the yeare by even porciōns By force whereof the said Myles and your said Suppliant into the said xxxth acres of land Medow and pasture with the Appteinncēs Entered and were thereof possessed Accordinglye And whereas also the said James Aspynewall abowt the said xxvijth yeare of King Henry the eight was lawfullie possessed of and in one messuage and teñte with the Appteinncē in Mearley in the said Countie for dyvers yeares then Enduringe of the demyse and gr^{nt}te of one Thoms Moreley of Wenington in the said countie gentellman And he the said James so beinge thereof possessed abowt the same tyme did for the consideracons affo^rsaid by word and in the p^sence of the witnesses affo^rsaid assigne and Sett over all his Interest tytle and Estate of in and to the said messuage and teñte with the Appteinncē in Mearley affo^rsaid unto the said Myles Aspynewall and to your said Supplyante by force whereof the said Myles and your said Supplyante were thereof possessed accordinglye. After which the said James Aspynewall at overstanden afforesaid died after whose death the said Myles and yo^r said Supplyante beinge possessed aswell of the said xxxth Acres of land with the Appteinncē in Clitheroe affo^rsaid as of the said Messuage and teñte in Mearley in manner and forme affo^rsaid for their more quiet and better occupacōn thereof did conclud and agree betwene them selves about the xijth yeare of the late Kinge of famous memorie Kinge Edward the Sixte that your said Suppliant shuld solie to his owne use have hold and Enioye the said xxxth acres of land medow and pasture with the Appteinncē in Clitheroe affo^rsaid for and during all their terme and Interest of in and to the same and that in consideracōn thereof the said Myles Aspynewall shuld have hold and Enioye for and during the terme affo^rsaid the said messuag and teñte with the Appteinncē in Meareley solie to himselfe without Stopp lett or Interupcion of your said Supplyante, By force of which conclusion and agreement yo^r said Supplyant into the said xxx^{tie} acres of land with the Appteñne^{ce} in Clitheroe affo^rsaid Entered and was thereof solie possessed Accordingle and the said Some of twenty three shilling^e foure pence hath ever Sythens yearelie paid unto the said Nicholas Aspynewall according to the Appointment and Lymitacon of the said James Aspynewall father of your said Supplyante untill abowt two yeares now last past one John Aspynewall Eldest brother of yo^r said Supplyante and James Aspynewall Sonne of the said John ptinge that the said yearly Rent of twentie three shilling^e foure pence was due and payable unto them or unto the one of them did clayme to have of yo^r said Supplyant the said Rent and the Arerag^e thereof flo^r the which Sute and controuersie was likelie to have growen betwene yo^r said Supplyante and the said John and James for the same, but by the mediacon of diuers of theire kinsfolke^e and frinde they the said John and James and yo^r said Supplyant were contented to Submyt them Selves to the Arbitrament of Richard Shuttleworth of Greysin [sic] in the countie of Midde^e, Esquier, who did arbitrate and awarde that yo^r said Supplyant shuld content and paie unto the said John and James the Some of Sixe pounde^e of good and lawfull money of England and that the said John and James shuld quietlie pmytt and suffer yo^r said Supplyante to have and Enioye the said xxx^{tie} acres of land with the Appteñne^{ce} for and duringe his naturall life and that they or the Survivo^r of them shuld demyse and graunte the said xxx^{tie} acres of Land medowe and pasture wth the Appteñne^{ce} unto one Nicholas Aspinwall Eldest Sonne of yo^r said Supplyant for and uppon such consideracons [sic] and for such a terme or tyme as shuld be thought convenient by the said Richard Shuttelworth and Henry Farram [sic] of Colme in the said countie gentleman By force whereof yo^r said Supplyant thought himselfe assured to continue in quiet possession of the pmisses. But so it is if it maie please yo^r honor that the said James Aspinwall Sonne of the said John pceyving that yo^r said Suppliant had no other Interest in the said xxx^{tie} acres of land but by a Lease poll made by the said James his father and that the most pte of the witnesses present at the makinge thereof were dead did confederate himselfe wth one Alice Aspinwall Mawde Aspinwall and one Willim Greenwood who now of late that is to saie about the first daie of June last past have with force and Strengthend [sic] Entered into the said xxx^{tie} acres of Land wth the appteñne^{ce} and then and there have contrived amongst themselves certein feyned and Secrett estat^e to the intent to troble and vex yo^r said Supplyant wth mannie and sundry Sutes at the comon lawe And have also expulssed and put yo^r saide orato^r of and from the possession [sic] and occupacon of the pmisses. By reason whereof yo^r said Supplyant is liklie to be utterly undone unlesse Speedie Remedie be therein by yo^r honor pvided And although yo^r said Suppliant hath paid unto the said John and James the said Some of sixe pounde^e of good and lawfull money of England for the pformance of the said arbitrament and hath diuers and sundrie tymes in most gentle and frindin himself solely to himself without step or interruption of your said Suppliants. By force of which conclusion and agreement your said Suppliants into the said xxxth acres of land with the Appellancy in Glebe and Glebe and was thereof sole possessor and sole holder of the said three shilling four pence half over Bishops estate paid into the said Nicholas Aspinwall according to the Appointment and Ignition of the said James Aspinwall father of your said Suppliants until about two years ago last past one John Aspinwall eldest brother of your said Suppliants and James Aspinwall son of the said John pleading that the said yearly Rent of twelve three shilling four pence was due and payable unto them or unto the one of them his heirs to have of your said Suppliants the said Rent and the Appellancy thereof for the which Rent and conclusion was likely to have grown between your said Suppliants and the said John and James for the same but by the mediation of divers of their kindred and friends they the said John and James and your said Suppliants were concerned to submit their Selves to the Arbitrament of Richard Shuttleworth of Gressley (sic) in the county of Shropshire who did arbitrate and award that your said Suppliants should content and pay unto the said John and James the Rent of three pounds of good and lawful money of England and that the said John and James should provide your said Suppliants to have and Enjoy the said xxxth acres of land with the Appellancy for and during his natural life and that they or the Survivor of them should demise and grant the said xxxth acres of land meadows and pastures unto one Nicholas Aspinwall eldest Son of your said Suppliants for and upon such conditions (sic) and for such a term or terms as should be thought convenient by the said Richard Shuttleworth and Henry Farnham (sic) of Gressley in the said county of Shropshire By force whereof your said Suppliants thought themselves assured to continue in quiet possession of the premises. But so it is that it is made plain to your said Suppliants that the said James Aspinwall Son of the said John pleading that your said Suppliants had no other interest in the said xxxth acres of land but by a Lease hold made by the said James his father and that the most part of the witnesses present at the making thereof were dead did contravene himself wth one Alice Aspinwall Maide Aspinwall and one William Greenwood who now of late that is to say about the first date of June last past have with force and Wrongfulness (sic) thrust into the said xxxth acres of land wth the Appellancy and then and there have contrived amongst themselves certain favours and secret intent to the intent to trouble and vex your said Suppliants wth means and sundry Sutes at the common law And have also expelled and put your said Sutes out of and from the possession (sic) and occupancy of the premises. By reason whereof your said Suppliants is likely to be utterly undone unless Speedie Remedie be therein by your Honor provided. And although your said Suppliants hath paid unto the said John and James the said Rent of three pounds of good and lawful money of England for the performance of the said Arbitrament and hath divers and sundry times in most gentle and third-lie manner Required and desired aswell the said William Alice and Mawde to desist from their wrongfull vexacon of yo^r said Supplyant as also the said James to pforme the said arbitrament made by the said Richard Shuttellworth in manner and forme affo^rsaid yet that is to doe they and evy of them have hetherto denied and yet doe denye contrarie to all right equitie and good conscience and to the great Losse damag and Impoverishment of yo^r said Supplyant. In tender consideraçon whereof and for asmuch as yo^r said poore Suppliante Can have no Remedy against the 3d James by the Ordinarie Course of the comon Lawes for the pformance of the said arbitrament nor against the said Willm Greenwood Mawde Aspinwall Alice Aspinwall and the said James for their said wronges and Injuries done by them and everie of them unto yo^r said Suppliant by reason that yo^r said Supplyant can hardlie prove the said demise mad by the said James Aspinwall father of yo^r said Supplyant beinge by word onlie and very nere fiftie yeares agoe since the same was made otherwise then by the othe of the said James, Mawd, Alice and Willm who have often hard and ben Informed of the same by the witnesses that were present at the tyme of the doinge thereof And for asomuch [sic] Also as the said James Willm Mawd and Alice are of great wealth power and Streingthe and are greatlie frinded and verie nere allied to the most pte of the Freeholders w^{thin} the said Countie of Lancaster, By meanes wherof yo^r said poore orato^r is liklie to have no Indifferent triall for the Recovie of his right within the said countie, Maie it therefore please your hono^r the pmisses considered to graunt the Quens Ma^te most gracious proces of privie seale to be Directed unto the said James Aspinwall, Willm Greenwood, Mawde Aspinwall and Alice Aspinwall Comaundinge them and every of them thereby at A certein daie and under a certein paine therein by yo^r hono^r to be Lymitted and appointed to be and psonallie to appeare before yo^r hono^r in the dutchie Chambrre w^{thin} the pallace of Westm then and there to answe the pmisses and further to stand to such order rule and direction as to yo^r hono^r shall seme most mett and convenient And yo^r said orator shall daily praie to thallmightie god for the p^servaçon of yo^r hono^r in health long to contynue.

Letter dated 22 Sept., addressed

"For my respected Friend Mr Francis Roberts Register att his house in the Close at Sarum

"In his absence for his deputy.

"Everleigh.

"Mr. Roberts.

"I desire you to impart nothing of this ensuing business unto this casual bearer a quaker and fishman yt I met wth by chance and pray be as reserved & private in the acting of it unto all others as possibly you can. I request you to send mee a License for ye solemnization of matrimony betwixt myselfe & Lucy CHURCH puella of the same parish. I assure you upon the word of a christian that there is no impediment of precontract or otherwise to hinder it, wee are both at our owne disposal & no way preingaged. So yt you may (pro forma) desire any of your house to engage and passe theyr words without any danger. The truth is shee hath bin my guide and house keeper these 8 years whom I have made choice off, and her fidelity and care of mee in my brokennes of body hath bin such that I am resolved to requite her. I begin to look now in this crazing of health upon my owne convenience and shall not value ye disparagem^t of stooping so low in my choice. But to avoyd ye clamours and importunities of friends for ye present I earnestly conjure you to act yo^r part as privately as you can. Thus assuring mysele of your care herein I rest your assured friend Tho. ERNLE." 22 Sept.

"Seal up the licence and superscribe it too me and deliver it to this bearer. I have sent twenty shillings by him to be delivered to you for the charge of it."

On outside—

"Everleigh Septemb 22/68."

THE MOORES OF THE CITY OF DROGHEDA.

By V. HUSSEY WALSH.

The Moores, who were aldermen and merchants of the city of Drogheda, were a branch of the Moores of Barmeath. In the entail of his estates made by Michael Moore of Athboy, 14 Oct. 1574, he "left his lands if all his sons have no issue male, to the issue male of his uncle Richard Moore deceased, then to the heirs male of his grandfather William Moore, then to the heirs male of Moore of Berneth (Barmeath), then to the heirs male of Michael Moore of Drogheda merchant, then to the heirs male of Richard Moore of the Mooretown, then to the heirs general of his grandfather William Moore." (Cf. Pedigree of Moore of Athboy and Croyanstown, ante, p. 5.)

- I. MICHAEL MOORE, of Drogheda, merchant, who may have been a younger son of Richard Moore of Barmeath, made will 1597,¹ and had issue:—

1. Richard Moore, of Cottrellstown, Co. Louth,¹ pardoned for alienating lands at Callaghton, Co. Louth.²
2. Adam Moore (II), who follows.
1. Anne Moore.²

- II. ADAM MOORE, Alderman of Drogheda, was also owner of lands at Tallaghesker, Marlinstown, Cottrellstown, Hickston, Burr, Kennerstown, Stonehouse and Monasterboyce, Co. Louth, and Navan, Co. Meath,³ married³ Elizabeth, daughter of Alderman Christopher Worrall, of Drogheda, and died 14 Feb. 1638,³ leaving issue (with four other children):—

1. Michael Moore, of Tallaghesker, Co. Louth.
2. John (III), who follows.

- III. JOHN MOORE, of Drogheda, also of Cruicerath, Co. Louth, married Elinor, daughter and coheiress of Alderman Stephen Cormick or Carmyke, of Drogheda (he d. 1634). He forfeited Cruicerath, Co. Louth, Crogh and Mehill, Co. Meath, and three houses at Drogheda, 1656, but was restored 1663⁴; he made will 23 Aug. 1689,² and had issue:—

1. Andrew Moore, of Manchester, living 6 June 1694 at Manchester.
2. Michael Moore (IV), who follows.
 1. Margaret Moore.
 2. Bess Moore.

IV. MICHAEL MOORE, Alderman of Drogheda, married firstly Ellice, daughter of Alderman George Peppard, of Drogheda, by Christian, daughter of Bartholomew Moore, of Dowanstown, Co. Louth, and died 1737, leaving issue:—

1. Elinor Moore (coheir), married about 1728 Sir Edward Bellew, third Bart., of Barmeath, Co. Louth, son of Sir John Bellew, second Bart., of Barmeath, by Mary, daughter and heiress of Edward Taylor. Sir Edward Bellew, who was born about 1695, died in Flanders, Oct. 1741. Will dated 13 Aug. 1741, pr. 4 June 1742. They had issue.

He married secondly, by Prerogative Licence of 3 August 1695, at St. Michan's, Dublin, Alice, daughter of William Alcock, of Clough, Co. Waterford, and Wilton, Co. Wexford, by Jane, daughter of John Bamber, of Bamber Hall, Co. Lancaster, and had issue:—

2. Mary Moore (coheir), married Sir Gerald Aylmer, Knight, of Lyons, Co. Kildare, son of George Aylmer, of Lyons, Captain in Earl of Abercorn's Horse (King James II's Army), who was taken prisoner at Windmill Hill, but was exchanged in 1691. He made will 8th, proved 18th March 1729, and died 10 March 1729, leaving issue.

3. Jane Frances Moore (coheir), married Henry Dillon, of Belgard, Co. Dublin, and Belgart, co. Roscommon, son of Thomas Dillon, of Blackloon and Belgart, Co. Roscommon, by Catherine, daughter of Colonel John Talbot, of Belgard, Co. Dublin, and died 5 March 1762, leaving issue.

4. Elizabeth Moore (coheir), married 1736 John Coppinger, of Ballyvolane, Co. Cork, son of Stephen Coppinger, of Ballyvolane, Co. Cork, by Joanna, daughter of Stephen Goold, of Cork, and died 1770, having had issue:—

(1) Marianne, married 27 July 1767, Charles Howard, afterwards eleventh Duke of Norfolk, K.G., and died 22 May 1769, having given birth to a child stillborn.

5. Christian Moore (coheir), married Jan. 1739, James Butler, 9th Baron Cahir (b. 1 Aug. 1711, died s.p. 6 June 1786 at Lyons), son of Thomas 8th Baron Cahir, by Frances, daughter of Sir Theobald Butler, Solicitor-General for Ireland to James II, and died 20 July 1759 s.p.

* In Barry's James O'Connell, 1888, he is described as of Cahir.

AN ANCIENT FAMILY. A GENEALOGICAL STUDY SHOWING THE SAXON ORIGIN OF THE FAMILY OF INGPEN. By Arthur Robert Ingpen, K.C., LL.B. London (Longmans, Green & Co.).

The title given to this interesting book is not strictly accurate, for, as will be seen, the Saxon origin of the Ingpens is not a proved fact, but a possibility, or at best a probability. There is no doubt that the family took its cognomen from the Berkshire village now Inkpen, but originally Ingepenne, and it is curious that though the place name has been corrupted, the original form survives as a surname. The first certain member of the family is Hunfridus de Igepenna, who appears on the Pipe Roll of 23 Hen. II as having been amerced one mark for an unlawful disseisin. The author draws the conclusion that Humphrey was lord of the manor of Ingpen, which appears in Domesday as Hingepene and is there recorded as having been held in the time of King Edward by two freemen. That one of these freemen was ancestor of the Ingpens there does not appear to be proof beyond a statement in the fifteenth century cartulary of the Hills of Spaxton: "Memorandum quod infra villam de Inkepenne sunt duae principales tenure que inter quasdam nuncupantur duo maneria quorum unum est manerium ante tempus Conquestus de hereditati quondam Rogeri de Inkepenne et antecessorum suorum." This is supported by an argument that from the fact that in 1166 the name of Ingpen is not recorded among the fees enfeoffed before or since the death of Henry I, there had been no feoffment of the manor, and so it must have remained in possession of the pre-Conquest owners. This does not appear very convincing, but from the above-mentioned Humphrey to modern times the pedigree is, with two acknowledged difficulties, satisfactorily proved from records. The Testa de Nevill shows that before 1200 Nicholas de Ingepenne held half a fee in Ingepenne of the fee of Roger de Somery of the honour of Dudley and the inquisitions held on later members of the house of Somery prove that in 1273 and 1292 the Ingpens were tenants of the manor of Ingpen under them.

The male line of the elder branch of the family was first broken on the death of Sir Roger de Ingepenne, steward of Edmund Earl of Cornwall, and Sheriff of Cornwall in 1285 and 1302, which occurred in 1306, his estate passing to the son of his sister Alice, wife of Martin Paynel or Paganel, another Roger, who assumed the surname of Ingepenne, and increased the importance of the family by his marriage with Joan daughter and heir of Sir John de Halton. This elder branch acquired valuable estates in Cornwall, which passed through heiresses to the families of Fichet and Hill of Spaxton. The descent of the present family is made out from a certain Robert de Hida, believed to have been identical with a younger son of the Nicholas de Ingepenne who is mentioned above as tenant under Roger de Somery; his descendants at Andover and Winchester bore the name of Ingepenne, and there is little doubt that the identification is correct. The most important of these descendants, Roger de Ingepenne, Mayor of Winchester, who died about 1330, was a wealthy and famous merchant, concerning whose career and charitable gifts many interesting details are here supplied. His son John, whose will, in possession of Winchester College, is printed on p. 180 of the Appendix, married Isabella, daughter and heir of Richard de Coleshill, and the arms of Coleshill have since been borne quarterly with those of Ingpen. The pedigree of the Ingpens of Gavelacre, or Gallaker, is recorded in the Hampshire Visitations for 1531, 1575 and 1622-3. Again an heiress carried the landed estates to another family, and the line is traced through a younger son, Robert Ingpen, Rector of Ashurst in Kent 1593-1619, and here the second difficulty comes in, for it is doubtful as to which of his two sons was ancestor of the existing family.

In the Appendix are to be found copies of many original evidences, such as deeds in possession of Winchester College, inquisitions post mortem, and wills preserved at Winchester. There are also two chart pedigrees giving the result of the information contained in the work.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS. ST. JAMES PARISH REGISTERS. MARRIAGES, 1562-1800. BAPTISMS, 1558-1800. BURIALS, 1562-1800. Suffolk Green Books, No. XVII. Bury St. Edmunds (Paul & Mathew).

These three handsome volumes containing a transcript of the registers of the important parish of St. James, Bury, form a most welcome addition to the good work already accomplished in the Suffolk Green Books. The Editor, in his Preface, which is to be found in the volume of Marriages, carefully describes the original register books and gives some notes entered on fly leaves thereon, which are not printed among the entries. His taste for statistics is well known, and the population of Bury during the period covered by the transcript is briefly discussed. A visit of Queen Elizabeth to Bury in 1578, three visitations of the plague (in 1578, 1587 and 1637), and a great fire in 1608 are also noticed, and there are some interesting remarks on the continuity of families in Bury, the Haddocks and Hasteds being especially instanced. The curious Christian name Muroisco, Maurisco or Marisco, which occurs in Bury and the neighbourhood for about 140 years, is traced to a gipsy girl, one Muroisco Romana, who was married at Little Saxham in 1623.

The marriages during the Commonwealth are unusually full, and fill thirty-five pages of the printed transcript. The parentage of the married couples is generally recorded, together with the names of employers and the officiating justice of the peace, from which may be gleaned particulars relating to the residents of Bury during the period. On p. 42 an exception is taken to a marriage on the ground that the man was "a stranger heere and had 3 children which were a charge

BURY ST. EDMUNDS. ST. JAMES PARISH REGISTERS. MARRIAGES. 1552-1800. BAPTISMS. 1558-1800. BURIALS. 1562-1800. Suffolk Green Books No. XVII. Bury St. Edmunds (Paul & Mathew).

These three handsome volumes containing a transcript of the registers of the important parish of St. James, Bury, form a most welcome addition to the good work already accomplished in the Suffolk Green Books. The Editor, in his Preface, which is to be found in the volume of Marriages, carefully describes the original register books and gives some notes entered on it, leaves the reader, which are not printed among the entries. His table for statistics is well known, and the population of Bury during the period covered by the transcript is briefly discussed. A visit of Queen Elizabeth to Bury in 1578, three visitations of the plague (in 1578, 1587 and 1637), and a great fire in 1608 are also noticed, and there are some interesting remarks on the continuity of families in Bury, the Haddocks and Hasteds being especially instance. The curious Christian name Muriel, Muriel or Marice, which occurs in Bury and the neighbourhood for about 140 years, is traced to a gipsy girl, one Mariel Roman, who was married at Little Saxham in 1623.

The marriages during the Commonwealth are unusually full, and all thirty-five pages of the printed transcript. The percentage of the married couples is generally recorded, together with the names of employers and the officiating justice of the peace, from which may be gleaned particulars relating to the residents of Bury during the period. On p. 12 an exception is taken to a marriage on the ground that the man was "a stranger here and had a child which were a charge unto the towne of Thurston and likelie to be a charge unto this parish."

In the Suffolk Green Books the indexes are always a feature, and we have never seen better indexed parish registers than these. In each volume there is an index of persons married, baptized, or buried, an index of places mentioned, another of "other persons," i.e., of "such masters, ministers, parents and witnesses as chance to be named," and, as well, a useful general index which refers to various local events and curious terms. In the volumes of Baptisms and Burials yet another index is supplied of titles and trades, and here under the entries "Esquires," "Gentlemen and Gentlewomen," an almost complete list of the gentle families in the town and neighbourhood will be found. The term "Master or Mr" is included under "Gentlemen" in the volume of Baptisms, but not unfortunately in that of Burials, except in some few cases. The volume of Marriages contains no index of titles and trades.

Under Baptisms from 1784 to the end, the mother's maiden surname is given in brackets, a great help to genealogical research. This is so also with the Burials in the case of the burial of children. About the period of the Restoration in the burial entries of men, the Christian names of their wives are given, which is unusual. "Joan, wife of John Smith" is common enough, but not the converse.

There are numerous instances of burials and even marriages from the jail, and where the prisoners were of superior social position the Editor suggests that their offences were chiefly religious or political. This was probably so in the case of the Rookwoods and some other families known to be at variance with the Government, but in the majority of cases debt may be surmised to be the reason of imprisonment.

There are numerous instances of curious surnames such as Beast, Calf, Germany, Graygoose, Greengrass, Little Proud, Slapp, Tipple and Waistcoat. The first of these seems to be a variant of Best, and Waistcoat of Westcott. Rookard is probably equivalent to Rookwood.

THE MANORIAL SOCIETY'S PUBLICATIONS.—No. 9. MODUS TENENDI CUR' BARON' CUM VISU FRANCI PLEGII. A REPRINT OF THE FIRST EDITION A.D. 1510.

It will be most instructive to students of legal history and to antiquaries to compare this reprint with the 1650 edition of the same work reproduced in facsimile by the Manorial Society some years ago. The original work, of which this is a copy from a print of the first edition preserved in the British Museum, was printed in 1510 "at ye sygne of the Sonne" in Fleet Street, by Wynkyn de Worde. An introductory note, which is a model of concise explanation, has been written by the Registrar of the Society, Mr. Charles Greenwood, who draws attention to the fact that this first edition contains a series of forms for common use which do not appear in that of 1650, and which were no doubt collected by the unknown author from rolls dating from a period long anterior to 1510. Translations have been provided of those portions of the work which are in Latin.

ELLIN FAMILY AND CONNECTIONS, OF WOMERSLEY, SHEFFIELD, YORK, ETC. Compiled by Thomas William Skevington. Bradford (printed by G. F. Sewell).

This pamphlet contains four tabular pedigrees of different branches of the family of Ellin, together with copies of the evidences from which they have been compiled. These include wills proved at York, extracts from several Yorkshire and Derbyshire parish registers, together with some monumental inscriptions and family memoranda.

THE WILL OF ELLIS COOK, OF SOUTHAMPTON LONG ISLAND (d. 1679).

Edited by Albert Stanburrough Cook, Professor of the English Language and Literature in Yale University. (Privately printed at New Haven, U.S.A.)

The short will of Ellis Cook, dated 5 September 1663 and proved in America 8 July 1679, is made the text for some interesting family notes. The place in England from which the testator's ancestors came is unknown, but his wife Martha was daughter of John Cooper, of Olney, Bucks, who emigrated to Massachusetts in 1635, and who may have descended from the same stock as the poet Cowper, for Cooper and Cowper are, of course, only different forms of the same surname.

Notes and Queries.

RICHARDS OF KENTISBURY, CO. DEVON.—I gave an account of this family in the Genealogist, N.S., vol. xxvii, pp. 78-84, but I was not then aware of a monumental inscription in Kentisbury Church which throws some additional light on the history, and which has now been brought to my notice and kindly transcribed for me by the Rev. J. O. Openshaw, Rector of Kentisbury.

The monument, originally erected on the north wall of the chancel, but since 1874 transferred to the tower, is in memory of Richard Richards, rector of Combe Martin and Kentisbury, and his first wife, Elizabeth Hancock (see my account, pp. 78, 79), and was erected in token of the love and respect of their eldest son. It describes Richards in Latin as Master of Arts and states that he had been rector of Kentisbury and Combe Martin for 36 years (i.e., dating from his presentation to Combe Martin) and died in his climacteric year on Ash Wednesday, 1632 (sc. 163 $\frac{1}{2}$) which had been the day of his birth 63 years before. He was according to this born on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 8th 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ (and was 16 $\frac{1}{2}$ and not 19 at his matriculation at Oxford on 4th Nov. 1586) and died on Ash Wednesday, March 6th 163 $\frac{1}{2}$. The monument further states that Elizabeth Hancock bore him 5 sons and 3 daughters, and that she gave birth to her youngest daughter and herself died on 1st April 1618. When I wrote my account I knew of only one daughter. I also took the view that Richard Richards' youngest sons, Robert (born 1608) and Nathaniel (born 1611), were by his second wife. This view is now shown to have been a mistake: all the children were by Elizabeth Hancock. Accordingly for "half-brother" I should have written "brother" (pp. 80, 81, 83).

The following is a copy of the inscription:—

HERBERT SON OF AUBRI.

By W. H. B. BIRD.

Among the under tenants in Lincolnshire whose names are found in Domesday Book is one Herbert, a man of the Archbishop's, holding one carucate in Stallingborough, one carucate in Rigsby, and the important manor of Lissington, with inland and soke in Swinthorp, Snelland, Holton and Bekering, returned as two carucates in demesne and five more held by villeins, bordars and sokemen, all these being part of the fief of the Archbishop of York. Some thirty years later the Lindsey Survey gives the name of Herbert filius Albri as tenant of Lissington and its dependencies under the Archbishop. The Archbishop is there put down as tenant of three carucates and six bovates in Rigsby, and of six bovates only in Stallingborough (no longer a whole carucate), his under tenant in either not being mentioned. That the Herbert of Domesday and of the latter survey are one and the same appears from a statement in the Testa de Nevill,¹ that Herbert filius Aubri was the Archbishop's original feoffee in Lissington, at a date evidently earlier than 1086. His heirs were still in possession in 1212.

One word, before we proceed further, concerning Herbert's father. Mr. Greenstreet, assuming a nominative case upon Latin analogy, called him Alber. He has also translated Herbert's contemporary in Lincolnshire, Alan filius Landri, as son of Landrus. But Alan's father is in fact Latinised as Landreus or Landricus, shewing that Landri is not to be regarded as a Latin genitive, but an indeclinable name in the vernacular. And similarly I have ventured to call Herbert son of Aubri, supposing that his father's name was that which is familiar to us owing especially to its prevalence in the noble family of Vere, appearing in Latin either as Alfredus or Albericus. I notice also that Mr. Greenstreet assigned to Herbert an estate in Lissington and Pendicus, treating the latter, both in text and index, as a place name. There seems to be no such place; and I would suggest that the word is really pendiciis, which may be found in the supplement to Ducange, and here stands for the "inland" and "soke" of Domesday.

Recently, when discussing the origin of Herbert the Chamberlain of Scotland,² I hazarded the statement that, if a descendant, he was not the representative of Herbert son of Aubri, though at Swinthorp and Snelland there was very close local connection between the lords of Wickenby and Lissington. As it happens, one is able, without personally searching the archives of the Archbishopric, to trace the descent of Lissington and Rigsby for several generations.

Herbert, it seems, was succeeded by his son Gilbert, who as Gillebertus filius Hereberti gave lands in Lissington to the abbey of Louth Park

HERBERT SON OF AUBRI

By W. H. R. HARR.

Among the under tenants in Lincolnshire whose names are found in Domesday Book is one Herbert, a man of the Archbishop, holding one carucate in Stallingborough, one carucate in Rigby, and the important manor of Lasington, with inland and sokn in Swinthrop, Snelland, Holton and Bekering, returned as two carucates in Normans and five more held by William, Robert and Robert, all three being part of the fee of the Archbishop of York. Some thirty years later the Landsey Survey gives the name of Herbert filius Herberti as tenant of Lasington and its dependences under the Archbishop. The Archbishop is there put down as tenant of three carucates and six bovates in Rigby, and of six bovates only in Stallingborough (no longer a whole carucate), his under tenant in either not being mentioned. That the Herbert of Domesday and of the latter survey are one and the same appears from a statement in the Testa de Waverley that Herbert filius Herberti was the Archbishop's original feeholder in Lasington, at a date evidently earlier than 1086. His heirs were still in possession in 1212. One word, before we proceed further, concerning Herbert's father. Mr. Greenstreet, assuming a nominative case upon Latin analogy, called him Herbert. He has also translated Herbert's contemporary in Lincolnshire, Alan filius Landi, as son of Landi. But Alan's father is in fact Latinised as Landius or Landinus, showing that Landi is not to be regarded as a Latin genitive, but an indeclinable name in the vernacular. And similarly I have ventured to call Herbert son of Aubri, supposing that his father's name was that which is familiar to us owing especially to its prevalence in the noble family of Vere, appearing in Latin either as Walterus or Walter. I notice also that Mr. Greenstreet assigned to Herbert an estate in Lasington and Pendragon, treating the latter both in text and index, as a place name. There seems to be no such place; and I would suggest that the word is really pendragon, which may be found in the supplement to Domesday, and here stands for the "inland" and "sokn" of Domesday. Recently, when discussing the origin of Herbert the Chamberlain of Snelland, I extracted the statement that, if a descendant, he was not the representative of Herbert son of Aubri, though at Swinthrop and Snelland there was very close local connection between the lords of Wickonby and Lasington. As it happens, one is able, without personally searching the archives of the Archbishopric, to trace the descent of Lasington and Rigby for several generations. Herbert, it seems, was succeeded by his son Robert, who as Willelmus Robertus gave lands in Lasington to the abbey of Bouth Park.

founded in 1139, the gift being confirmed by King Henry II.³ It is however possible that there were two Herberts and that Gilbert was son of the second. At all events he was living as late as 1166, when he is returned as tenant of two knights' fees under the Archbishop of York.⁴ Gilbert in his turn (or perhaps a second Gilbert) was succeeded by a son Herbert, who was recently dead in 1185, leaving a widow and seven children,⁵ the firstborn son being ten years of age. At this date the see of York was vacant; the King was therefore entitled to the wardship of the heir and to the marriage of the widow. Her name is not given; but we learn that she was the niece (or granddaughter) of Geoffrey Neville, was then aged thirty, and had been married to Geoffrey de Turs⁶; also that she held no land but her dower, that is to say she was no heiress, and had no maritagium. Curiously enough the only place mentioned is Risebi (Rigsby); and it does not appear that she held dower or jointure of Geoffrey's lands.

The heir's name is not given either, but his identity is in no doubt. Ten years and some months later, in November 1195, when he would just be of age, Gilbert de Righesbi is party to a fine of the advowson of Alford,⁷ and in subsequent years, down to October 1226, to other fines of property in Rigsby, Stallingborough and elsewhere. In a charter and fine of 1202 to Thomas de Bellew of eight bovates of land in Stalingeburg and Hegling, to be held of him by half a knight's fee,⁸ he is obliging enough to establish his pedigree by a warranty against the heirs of Gilbert his grandfather. Two other Stallingborough deeds of his, to Geoffrey Castilun and his wife and to Selby Abbey respectively, are in the Selby Coucher Book.⁹ In 1208 he fined for dower of Albrea widow of Robert de Rigglesby in Rigsby, having been sued by William de Sulenn or Sulinges, her second husband.¹⁰

In November of that year, for the first time, Elizabeth his wife is joined with him in a fine,¹¹ assuring land in Frieston to the prior and church of St. James there. Mr. Massingberd has identified this lady with one of the coheirs of Luke de Lec, Leik or Lech, pointing out that in 7 John Gilbert is patron of a mediety of Leake church,¹² and adding that in 1272 John de Riggeby and Robert de Lek jointly presented to Leverton church. Luke himself occurs in 3 John.¹³ Lucy and Elizabeth are mentioned in 1221 as his heirs, in an exchange of property at Wrangel between the Abbot of Waltham and Simon Breton,¹⁴ but the record does not give their husbands' names. Elizabeth is again joined with her husband in a fine of property at Leake in October 1226¹⁵; and was, I suppose, the Elizabeth "de Leke" who in the seventh year of Bishop Grosseteste (1241-2) joined with Thomas de Karun in presenting Henry de Riggesby to a mediety of Leverton church.¹⁶ The *Testa de Nevill*¹⁷ names Gilbert as tenant in 1212 of a small estate in Leverton and Leake, the thirty seventh part of one knight's fee held of the honour of Richmond, as well as of a knight's fee in Rigsby, five bovates of land in Hekeling and Cle, and six bovates in Stallingborough. According to the Red Book of the Exchequer he held two knights' fees of the Archbishop,¹⁸ besides the thirty seventh part of a fee in Leverton, Frieston and Leake; but another inquisition of the knights' fees of the Archbishopric, printed as an appendix to Kirkby's Quest (Yorkshire) by the Surtees Society, attributes to him one knight's fee only in Riggeby, Walle (sic), Lissington and Stalingburg. He gave to the priory of St. Katherine without Lincoln a messuage and one carucate of land in Alford¹⁹; and witnessed an undated charter of Robert Chamberlain to Kirkstead Abbey.²⁰

⁵ Rotulus de Dominabus. The land was taken into the King's hand at the feast of St. Botolph last, June 1184.

These notes are proof sufficient, I think, that Gilbert de Riggesby was the representative of Herbert son of Aubri; and at first sight the pedigree seems plain enough, thus:

Further consideration may suggest a doubt whether in this table we have all the generations. The last Gilbert's birth we can date with certainty. The first Herbert was presumably born (to mark the extreme limits) between 1130 and 1165—most probably about 1150-1160. If born in 1160, he would be of age at about the time that Thomas of Bayeux, his patron, became Archbishop of York. Even so there is an average of thirty eight years between each of these four generations²¹; and for aught we know Herbert may have been a good deal older. The dates therefore make it at least as probable that one or even two more generations intervene between Herbert and Gilbert; and so far as other evidence goes, it is quite possible that the true succession was Herbert, Herbert, Gilbert, Herbert, Gilbert—or Herbert, Gilbert, Gilbert, Herbert, Gilbert—or even Herbert, Herbert, Gilbert, Gilbert, Herbert, Gilbert.

Between 1235 and 1243 Gilbert was succeeded by Thomas de Riggesby, but how they were related I have found no evidence to shew. By the later returns of the Testa de Nevill Thomas is found to hold one knight's fee of the Archbishop in Lissinton,²² and one in Ryggesby, Aleby, etc., or (on another page) in Riggesby, Allesby, Toutheby, Aufford, Welle and Sutton.²³ Geoffrey Casteln holds of him one fourth of a knight's fee in "Faldingburg" in Yarborough Wapentake,²⁴ which appears to be an error for Stallingborough. Thomas is named also as one of several joint tenants of a small property, the fortieth part of one knight's fee, in Leverton near Leake.²⁵ An extract from the rolls of Archbishop Gray, cited by the editor of Kirkby's Quest in a note to the return already mentioned, shews that in May 1245 Thomas was dead, that Sir Walter de Ludham had the wardship of his lands, and Sir William de Wydinton had secured the marriage of the heir for a niece (or granddaughter) of his own, the daughter of Simon de Gringetorp.

John, son of Thomas de Riggesby, who by two deeds²⁶ confirmed gifts of property in Lissington, made by his ancestors and by tenants of theirs to the Abbey of Louth Park, and released to the Abbey certain services, was perhaps (though not necessarily) the heir just mentioned. It is evident from these deeds that he was in the direct line of succession. From the Hundred Rolls²⁷ we learn that twice at least between 1267 and 1272 he fined for respite of taking knighthood; and Mr. Massingberd tells us that in 1272 he was joint patron of Leverton church (Lincoln Cathedral Charters, p. 186).

John must have died in or before 1280; for inquisitions of 8 and 9 Edward I, taken after the death of Peter de Sabandia,²⁸ name Thomas de Riggesby as tenant of the fortieth part—or elsewhere the eleventh part—of a knight's fee in Leverton and Leake. As Thomas son of John de Riggesby,²⁹ he confirmed to the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln gifts of lands in Lissington made by his ancestors to the house of

Between 1236 and 1243 Gilbert was succeeded by Thomas de Higgesby, but how they were related I have found no evidence to show. By the later returns of the Testa de Willelmo Thomas is found to hold one knight's fee of the Archbishop in Lissington²² and one in Higgesby, Alsby, etc., or (on another page) in Higgesby, Alsby, Tonsbury, Aulford, Welle and Sinton.²³ Geoffrey Casteln holds of him one fourth of a knight's fee in "Laidingburg" in Yarborough Wapentake²⁴ which appears to be an error for Hellingborough. Thomas is named also as one of several joint tenants of a small property, the fourth part of one knight's fee in Laverton near Leake.²⁵ An extract from the rolls of Archbishop Gray, cited by the editor of Kirby's Quest in a note to the return already mentioned, shows that in May 1246 Thomas was dead, that Sir Walter de Latham had the wardship of his lands, and Sir William de Wynton had secured the marriage of the heir for a niece (or granddaughter) of his own, the daughter of Simon de Gintegot.²⁶

John, son of Thomas de Higgesby, who by two deeds²⁷ confirmed gifts of property in Lissington, made by his ancestors and by tenants of theirs to the Abbey of South Park, and released to the Abbey certain services, was perhaps (though not necessarily) the heir just mentioned. It is evident from these deeds that he was in the direct line of succession. From the Hundred Rolls²⁸ we learn that twice at least between 1267 and 1272 he had for respite of taking knighthood; and Mr. Massingham tells us that in 1272 he was joint patron of Laverton church (Lincoln Cathedral Chapter, p. 186).

John must have died in or before 1280; for indications of 8 and 9 Edward I taken after the death of Peter de Sabaria²⁹ name Thomas de Higgesby as tenant of the fourth part—or elsewhere the eleventh part—of a knight's fee in Laverton and Leake. Thomas de Riggesby (1243 ?) = . . .
 John son of Thomas de Riggesby, = . . .

 Thomas, son of John de Riggesby, 1280.

Just at this time, by a fine of 12 Edward I, a messuage, fifteen tofts, a windmill, two carucates and four virgates of land, three acres of meadow, four acres of wood, two acres of pasture and 20*s.* of rent in Brunne (Bourn) by Caxton in Cambridgeshire are assured to a Thomas son of John de Riggesby. Ten years later Thomas de Riggesby and Maud his wife recovered damages for false imprisonment against the under sheriff, arising out of an affair at Caxton³⁰; and Thomas occurs again in the Close Roll of 1301 as a landowner at Bourn. Lysons indeed, in his Cambridgeshire, tells us that "the manor of Bourn" became the property of the Riggesby family, but the returns printed in the Feudal Aids hardly bear out his statement. In 1316 Ralph de Rigesby is one of the joint tenants or parceners of a manor there, and that not the most considerable; the name is not found in 1303 or 1346. Ralph was witness to a deed at Arrington in 1320,³¹ and in 1 Edward III was suing his bailiff at Bourn for an account.³² Thirteen years later, Thomas de Riggesby was plaintiff in a similar suit, the bailiff being Simon son of Clement de Riggesby. The latter was outlawed as a fugitive from justice, but the outlawry was annulled in 1341.³³ In this record the venue was in Lincolnshire; and there can be little doubt that these Riggesbys were also of Rigsby and Lissington. Thomas Riggesby of Long Stowe is party to a fine of property in Bourn and Long Stowe in 15 Richard II; and in an inquisition of Henry VII's time³⁴ there is mention of a manor in Bourn called Rikesby, then held by a family named Elys.

To return to Lincolnshire, Thomas de Riggesby occurs again in 19 Edward I³⁵ as entitled to a rent in Saleby. In 1298, upon the accession of Archbishop Newark, he or another Thomas, then a knight, did homage for one knight's fee in Ryggesby, Lissyngton, Stalynburg, Swaby, Welle, Hoyton, Alworth, Stouyeby (sic), Sutton and Aleby, and again in 1300 and 1318 upon the accession of Archbishops Corbridge and Melton, as appears by extracts from their Registers cited in the note referred to above. In 1302³⁶ Thomas de Riggesby, Alan his son and Simon de Riggesby, with other defendants, are sued by Roger de Croxeby for taking his goods at East Rasen. In 1336 the Abbot of Louth Park is suing Thomas de Riggesby "of

St. Giles without Lincoln, and made them a release of a tenth of 14th suits of court, etc. We thus get a further scrap of pedigree:

Just at this time, by a fine of 12 Edward I, a messuage, fifteen acres of a windmill, two carucates and four virgates of land, three acres of meadow, four acres of wood, two acres of pasture and 30s. of rent in Broune (Bourn) by Guxton in Cambridgeshire are assented to a Thomas son of John de Riggsey. Ten years later Thomas de Riggsey and his wife recovered damages for false imprisonment against the under sheriff, arising out of an arrest at Guxton¹⁸; and Thomas occurs again in the Close Roll of 1301 as landowner at Bourn. It seems indeed in his Cambridgeshire, tells us that "the manor of Bourn" became the property of the Riggsey family, but the returns printed in the Feudal this hardly bear out his statement. In 1316 Ralph de Riggsey is one of the joint tenants or partners of a manor there, and that not the most considerable; the name is not found in 1303 or 1316. Ralph was witness to a deed at Arrington in 1320¹⁹; and in 1 Edward III was suing his bailiff at Bourn for an account.²⁰ Thirteen years later Thomas de Riggsey was plaintiff in a similar suit, the bailiff being Simon son of Clement de Riggsey. The latter was outlawed as a fugitive from justice, but the outlawry was annulled in 1341²¹. In this record the name was in Lancashire; and there can be little doubt that these Riggseys were also of Riggsey and Linsington. Thomas Riggsey of Long Grove is party to a fine of property in Bourn and Long Grove in 15 Richard II; and in an inscription of Henry VII's time²² there is mention of a manor in Bourn called Riggsey, then held by a family named Ellys.

To return to Lancashire, Thomas de Riggsey occurs again in 12 Edward I²³ as granted to a rent in Saleby. In 1296, upon the accession of Archbishop Newark, he or another Thomas, then a knight, did homage for one knight's fee in Riggsey, Linsington, Staphurgh, Swaby, Walsle, Hopton, Alwerth, Skewby (sic), Statten and Alby, and again in 1300 and 1318 upon the accession of Archbishop Corbridge and Melton, as appears by extracts from their Registers cited in the note referred to above. Lissington" and Alan his brother for trespass.³⁷ If we may assume that the Alan of these two suits was the same, and was a grown man at the date of the first suit, this will throw back the birth of his father to (say) about 1255, and will tend to identify him, though not conclusively, with Thomas son of John. A record of February 1327 designates Thomas as the successor of Gilbert de Riggesby eighty years before.³⁸ In fact, however, he was then no longer living; for in November 1326 Ralph his son and heir did homage for a knight's fee and a half in Rigsby and Lissington with the members, namely Bleby, Walle (sic), Houton, Aleford, Toutheby, Sutton, Swaby, Amby, Sauthorp and Roldeston by Suwell. In 1332 Ralph was dead, and Thomas, his son and heir, did homage in his turn.³⁹

Meanwhile the returns of 1303⁴⁰ shew the Rigsby inheritance in Lincolnshire markedly diminished. The knight's fee in Rigsby, once held by a former Thomas, has passed to other names. The Abbot of Selby is tenant of Castelun's fourth part of a fee in Stallingborough. More than half the knight's fee in Lissington is also in the clutch of the dead hand. Thomas de Riggesby still holds almost half a fee there; the Abbot of Louth Park more than one third; the rest is shared between the Chapter of Lincoln and the priors of Bollington and Sixhill. That Riggesby retained a mesne lordship in Alford and Welle appears from inquisitions of 5 and 14 Edward II and 19 Edward III⁴¹; in Rigsby also, as the evidence of the Archbishops' Registers seems to shew. Sir Thomas de Riggesby knight witnesses a deed, also of 14 Edward II.⁴² In 1346 a Thomas de Riggesby is still tenant of the remnant of Lissington; but in 1428⁴³ his name is replaced by that of Dame Eleanor de Toutheby.

It was, I suppose, Thomas the brother of Alan who occurs as the husband of Isabel daughter and coheir of William de Denom and Isabel his wife, tenants of several manors in Northumberland and Durham. Some account of the Denoms may be found in Surtees' History of Durham,⁴⁴ and in Hodgson's Northumberland.⁴⁵ It seems that William

A record of February 1237 designates Thomas as the successor of Gilbert de Riggisby eight years before.²⁸ In fact, however, he was then no longer living; for in November 1232 Ralph his son and heir did homage for a knight's fee and a half in Riggisby and Lasington with the members, namely, Hedy, Walle (wid. Henton), Alford, Toubedy, Sutton, Swaby, Amy, Sautorp and Robeston by Sewell. In 1232 Ralph was dead, and Thomas, his son and heir, did homage in his turn.²⁹

Meanwhile the returns of 1309³⁰ show the Riggisby inheritance in Lincolnshire markedly diminished. The knight's fee in Riggisby, once held by a former Thomas, has passed to other names. Ralph de Riggisby still holds almost half a fee there; the Abbot of South Park more than one third; the rest is shared between the Chapter of Lincoln and the priors of Bellingham and Six-bill. ROBERT DE BEAUCHAMP II in 1106 held in chief seventeen knights' fees. Sherriff of Dorset and Somerset in 9 and 22-29 Henry II. Perhaps grandson of Robert I. considering their dates. (The Genealogist, N.S., vol. ix, p. 58.)

I MURIEL DE BEAUCHAMP, 3rd daughter of Robert I. (Veneror).

⁴⁶ By her, it is said, but my search among the Feet of Fines has been unsuccessful.

took his mother's surname, but called himself sometimes Robert fitz Simon. Was in ward to Hubert de Burgh the Justiciary in 7 John. Called son and heir of Simon de Valletort in 1 John. Of age before 13 John. Died about 34 Hen. III, before 1 Feb. 1251-2.

 ROBERT DE BEAUCHAMP IV,=Alice de Mohun, daur.
 died before 50 Hen. III. of Reginald de Mohun, of Dunster.

The parentage of Robert de Beauchamp III, according to the foregoing pedigree, seems to be contradicted by the following descent given in Plantagenet-Harrison's Collections¹ in the Public Record Office based on a suit (Coram Rege, Trinity 9 Hen. III, Rot. 21, m. 12) which related to lands in Shepperton, Middlesex:—

JOHN DE BEAUCHAMP.

 ROBERT DE BEAUCHAMP jun'r

called his father to warrant two carucates in Shepperton claimed by John de Vautort, brother and heir of Richard de V., son and heir of John de Vautort, who was seised of them temp. King John.

The particulars here given as to Robert de Beauchamp, senior, seem to identify him with Robert III of Mr. Batten's pedigree, in addition to which we find the succession of the two Roberts and a connection with the de Vautort family.

A point of more interest to me is the statement of Mr. Batten that Robert de Beauchamp IV, by a fine levied 32 Henry III, in which he was deforciant, and the Prior of Sandelford, Berks, plaintiff, granted to the Prior and his successors two quarters of corn yearly from his (Robert's) Manor of Maidencote in that county. The grant was accompanied with a proviso for increasing the amount mentioned, if at any time the lands which Sibill his aunt ("amita") held in the vill of Maidencote as her portion of the inheritance of her mother, Alice de Colville, should devolve on Robert or his heirs.

Now in some way which I do not understand, these Beauchamps and the Birminghams of Birmingham were jointly concerned in the tenure of Maidencote and of Dorton in Buckinghamshire, thus:—

¹ My reference is to Vol. i, p. 148, but I think the authorities at the Public Record Office have altered some of the numbers.

Maidencote.—In about 1230-1240 Robert de Beauchamp and William de Birmingham held at Maydencote one fee of what was the fee of William de Breuse of the Honour "de Bretyennio" (Testa de Neville, p. 126). William de Braose had married Eve Marshall, sister and (in her issue) coheir of Anselm Marshall, and William had been killed by Llewelyn in 14 Hen. III (1229-1230).

In 1299-1300, Thomas de Birmingham was of Maidencote,² as also in 1316,³ his interest being, I think, for life.

In 1370, Fulk de Birmingham alienated half Maidencote.⁴

In 1428 John de Tiptoft held half a fee in Maidencote lately held by John de Beauchamp.⁵

Dorton (Bucks).—In 1241-1245 the Testa de Neville shows Robert de Beauchamp and Sibill Birmingham holding Dorton of old feoffment, it being one fee held in lordship of the Honour of Gifford of which Crendon is the head (caput) and Walter Marshall Earl of Pembroke the lord. The date is fixed by the fact that Walter Marshall was Earl of Pembroke from June 1241 to November 1245.

Subsequently there are many evidences of the Birmingham interest in Dorton, and :—

In 1316 William de Birmingham and Simon de Aston were lords of Dorton.⁶

In 1346 Margaret de Beauchamp holds half a fee in Dorton which Simon de Aston formerly held.⁷

In 1361 Cecily Beauchamp, elder sister and coheiress of John Beauchamp, great-great-grandson and representative of Robert Beauchamp IV, is stated by Mr. Batten to have held Dorton.

The following explanation of the foregoing facts is suggested : Early in the thirteenth century a Beauchamp and a Birmingham married two Marshall sisters, each of whom inherited or received as portion half of Maidencote, and half of Dorton. This is especially probable in the case of the Birminghams, whose Arms—Azure, a bend lozengy Or,⁸ are almost identical with the ancient Marshall coat—Gules, a bend lozengy Or. It also seems likely that Sibill, the aunt of Robert Beauchamp IV was Sibill Birmingham. But who was Alice de Colville her mother ?

It may be well to add that Mr. Batten's pedigree of the descendants of Robert Beauchamp IV seems to be contradicted by the pedigree from the Plea Rolls given by General Wrottesley in The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xvi, p. 159, and the differences are fundamental. Mr. Batten assigns to Robert Beauchamp IV a son John Beauchamp who died in 1283 leaving (with others) a daughter Beatrix who married Peter ⁸ They also used Per pale indented, but that is another story, and the bend lozengy seems to have been used by them at an earlier date than the other.

Corbet and died s.p. But the Plea Roll pedigree makes Beatrix the daughter of a Humphrey Beauchamp, whose parentage is not given. Mr. Batten gives three Johns in succession from John, son of Robert, the last being John Beauchamp who held Shepton Beauchamp and died 1361 leaving two sisters and coheiresses, Cecily and Eleanor. But the Plea Roll pedigree states that William Beauchamp was brother of the above-mentioned Humphrey and had a son John, father of John the last of Shepton, and that the sisters and coheiresses were Cecily and Margaret.

I must leave the antiquaries of Somerset to overhaul the pedigree of this ancient family, in the hope that they may not only throw light on the connection between it and the family of Birmingham, but also on the origin of the Beauchamp shield of plain Vair.

Light is thrown on the later part of the pedigree by General Wrottesley in The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xvi, p. 43, where one of his Plea Roll pedigrees gives the descendants of Humfrey Beauchamp, of Ryme, Dorset. This Humfrey was evidently the Humfrey Beauchamp of Ryme who was, according to Mr. Batten, a younger son of Robert Beauchamp IV. Humfrey's descendants are given in the male line for three generations ending with Thomas, whose sisters and coheiresses married respectively (Robert) Chalons and William Fortescue. A Chalons pedigree in the same volume (p. 41) shows that there was a near connection between the Vautort and Chalons families. To this I may add that the widow of William de Birmingham killed at Evesham married Peter Chalons, of the same family.

NEVILL OF ROLLESTON, GROVE AND THORNEY.

By CANON E. R. NEVILL, F.R.Hist. Soc.

The Rev. W. O. Massingberd, in working out his pedigree of the Nevills of Rolleston, South Leverton and Grove, in The Genealogist, expressed in a private letter to me a difficulty as to the affiliation of Robert of Rolleston, the Squire of the body to Henry V, to William of Pykhal. I think the following De Banco entry is fairly conclusive:—"Michaelmas, 3 Henry IV (1402), m. 261, Linc. and Ebor. Robert son of William Nevill chivaler gave the King 20/- for licence to conclude with William Nevill of Roldeston chivaler & Elizabeth his wife as to the Manor of Sutton, co. Linc., & the Manor of Yarnwyk, co. York, & he has ingress."

Another doubtful point has been whether William of 1377 was the son of Thomas of 1351. The following entry, which would have pleased Mr. Massingberd, settles this too. "Pat. Rolls, 26 Ap. 1371: Protection for William de Nevill of Fencotes, son and heir of Thomas de Nevill of Rolston, Chivaler, going to sea in the King's service in company of John de Nevill the King's Admiral."

The first note I can find of South Leverton is "William Neville of South Leverton & William Clark of Bessall, co. York, chapman, 10 marcs debt. De Banco. Easter, 13 Hen. VI, m. 186*d*, Notts & Ebor."

Another person who has not hitherto come into the Grove pedigree is the wife of Thomas Nevill, son of William of South Leverton, and she is called Blanch. In a De Banco roll of 18 Edward IV (1479) she is called daughter of Richard Joye and wife of (1) Roger Joye, (2) of Thomas Neville.

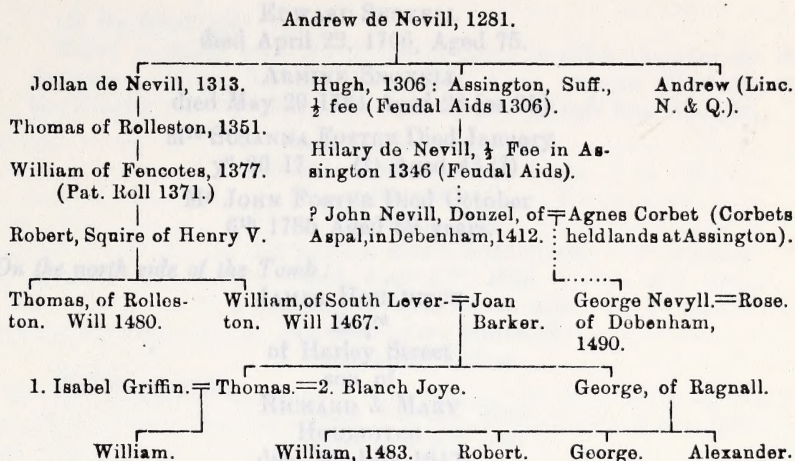

Another roll of the same year gives this:—"Dorset. Blanche Nevill v. John Boreham for depasturing cattle on Blanche's land at Pyddlington, nr. Corfe Castel."

In 1485 she appears again ("Materials for a History of Henry VII," i, 142, Rolls Series):—"Blaunch Nevyll late wife of Roger Iyve (sic) and John Perneys & Alice his wife, dau. & heir of the said Roger, petition the King in Parliament praying that a revocery which had been fraudulently obtained from the said Roger Iyve may be declared void."

Early Chancery Proceedings $\frac{216}{63}$ (1493-1500) gives us a last glimpse of her, as a widow for the second time: "Blanch, late wife of Thomas Nevill Esq. & previously the wife of Roger Joye Esq. v. Alexander son of William son & heir & Exor. of the said Thomas. Award relating to complainant's jointure charged on lands in Rampton, Laun, Dunham, E. Drayton & Sutton on Trent, Notts." This establishes three links of Hunter's pedigree in Fam. Minorum Gentium; but the next document gives us a lady hitherto unknown in the Grove pedigree. The ordinary story given by county historians and pedigrees beloved of those gentlemen is that Sir William Neville—but let me quote Harl. MS. 9822 in all its amplitude:—"William, 2nd son of Thomas of Rolston, Knt., married Maud Parker of S. Leverton in whose right he was seised of S. Leverton Lordship." It also gives a manifestly wrong coat of eleven quarters beginning 1, Gules, a canton Ermine; 2, Old Nevill, etc. By Maud Parker William is stated to have been father of Thomas of South Leverton and George of Ragnall. Other authorities call the wife of Sir William Nevill "Elizabeth Barker."

Early Chancery Proceedings $\frac{62}{158}$ however give us quite another lady as the wife of Sir William of South Leverton:—"1483 (22 Ed. IV). William, Robert, George and Alexander, sons of George, son of Johane Nevill v. William son of Thomas Nevill the other son of the said Johane. Messuage and land in South Leverton, Rampton and Laneham." In other words, if Maud Parker or Elizabeth Barker handed over South Leverton to William Nevill she must have died childless and Joan would be a second wife; but I think Maud was really Joan Barker if that story is true.

I append Hunter's pedigree with my additions, and the proof of William 1377 as son of Thomas 1351, hitherto unverified.

THE HOULDITCH MONUMENT AT HAMPSTEAD.

The inscriptions on this monument, which stands surrounded by railings on the south side of the Parish Church of St. John, Hampstead, are already much damaged by time and weather, and as they are of some interest it may be well to print them before they become entirely obliterated.

The tomb originally belonged, as will be seen from the wills abstracted below, to Edward Snoxell of Hampstead, whose wife was interred there in 1761, his brother, William Snoxell, in 1748, his son Armine Snoxell in 1764, and he himself in 1766. It subsequently passed to his son-in-law, John Foster of Long Acre, Coachmaker, and later to Richard Houlditch, who had married Mary, sister to John Foster.

I desire to express my indebtedness to Mr. A. Ridley Bax, F.S.A., for his kind assistance in the task of deciphering these inscriptions. Some of the dates on the top of the monument are not quite certain, that part of the tomb being much more worn than the sides.

Richard Houlditch, who died 14 Dec. 1794, aged 64, and was interred in this vault, is believed to be identical with a Richard Houlditch, who possessed a freehold estate at Hayes in Middlesex, left to him by his father, Abraham Houlditch, of Beaufort Buildings, in the parish of St. Clement Danes, Gent., whose will dated 4 Sept., was proved 7 Sept. 1763 (P.C.C. 435 Caesar). This Abraham Houlditch was probably son of another Abraham, who was the elder of the two sons of Captain Abraham Houlditch, R.N., Governor of Cape Coast Castle. Captain Houlditch² was of Mile End in Stepney and Totnes, co. Devon. According to his marriage licence (Faculty Office, to be mar. at St. Magnus, London), he was 23 years of age 12 Nov. 1661, and so was born about 1638. His wife was Elizabeth, daughter of Nathaniel Moorcocke, of Ratcliff, co. Middx., Gent., by Elizabeth his wife; she, who was aged 18, 12 Nov. 1661, survived her husband, and proved his will, dated 1 Feb. 1677-8, on 20 Feb. following, as executrix (P.C.C. 14 Reeve). Captain Houlditch was buried at Stepney 7 Feb. 1677-8.

Richard Houlditch of Hampstead, who died 14 Dec. 1794, by his wife, Mary Foster, who died 16 Dec. 1794, and was buried at Hampstead, had issue :—

1. Richard Houlditch of Hampstead, born about 1759, died 31 Aug. 1848 in his 90th year, buried at Hampstead; mar. Mary Anne . . ., she died 7 July 1855, aged 85, buried at Hampstead. They had with other issue, a daughter, Mary Anne, mar. 1st at St. John's Hampstead, 6 Aug. 1833, James Mallock of 78 Harley Street, London, who was born 1796, and died 25 Oct. 1846. She married 2dly in 1847, Charles Petersdorff, Serjeant-at-Law, afterwards of 78 Harley Street.
2. John Houlditch, of Harley Street, Esq., born c. 1767, died 29 Dec. 1845, aged 78, bur. at Hampstead. He probably entered the business of his uncle, John Foster (see will of the latter).
3. James Houlditch, of Harley Street, Esq., born c. 1769, died 3 July 1843, aged 74, buried at Hampstead.
4. Thomas Houlditch, Captain R.N., lost in the East Indies, 1790.
5. Edward Houlditch; he probably entered the business of his uncle, John Foster (see will of the latter).

² On 18 May 1667 Captain Houlditch was Commander of the Royal Company's ship "Goulden Lyon" (see will of William Harrison, seaman, proved P.C.C. 27 Jan. 1667-8, 5 Hene). He may have been son of William Houlditch of Totnes, whose wife Agnes administered to his estate P.C.C. 12 Feb. 1645-6. The will of another Abraham Holditch, of Totnes, merchant, dated 18 March 1666-7, was proved P.C.C. 8 June 1667 (P.C.C. 81 Carr.). He died s.p. His will mentions his manor of Broadmayne, co. Dorset, his manor of Gaston in Totnes, his brother Master Jacob Holditch, and Philip, son of the said Jacob; also "my loving kinsman Mr Phillip Holditch, son of Mr Walter Holditch, my late brother deceased." The will of Walter Holditch, who was of Exeter, merchant, dated 11 Sept. was proved P.C.C. 26 Oct. 1660 (185 Nabbs) and that of his son Philip, dated 25 Sept. 1673 was proved P.C.C. 29 Oct. 1684 (126 Hare). This Philip was also of Exeter; he left to his half-brother Walter Holditch their father's signet ring, and "the Coat of Arms of our family." Admon. of the goods of Isaac Houlditch was granted P.C.C. 8 June 1657 to his brother Abraham Houlditch; whether this was the merchant of Totnes, or the Commander of the "Goulden Lyon," is uncertain.

6. Henry Houlditch (youngest child), Captain Queen's 2nd Regt., died in the West Indies 14 April 1795.
1. Anne, mentioned in the will of her uncle, John Foster, and probably identical with "my grand-daughter, Ann Houlditch, daughter to my son Richard Houlditch," mentioned in the will³ of Abraham Houlditch of Beaufort Buildings, dated 4 Sept. 1763.

THE ASPINWALL AND ASPINALL FAMILIES OF LANCASHIRE.

By H. O. ASPINALL.

PART V.

The pedigree of Houghton of Pendleton shows that two marriages were contracted during the latter half of the sixteenth century between members of the Houghton and Aspinall families. A portion of the pedigree, as given by Dr. Whitaker,¹²⁰ will be found below: a few dates have been added from a later history.¹²¹

HOUGHTON OF LITTLE PENDLETON.

 John Houghton, = (1) Elizabeth occurs c. 1482-1536.

The evidence of these marriages is contained in the following Houghton records :—

closes called the Over and Lower Thornehill of the annual value of 46s. 8d; a messuage in Cliderow now in the occupation of William Stanley worth yearly 8s. 8d., and another messuage in Cliderowe in the tenure of William Whitehead of the annual value of 10s. 4d. and a parcel of land in Cliderowe in the tenure of George Derwardin worth yearly 5s. and another parcel of land in the vill' of Cliderowe in the tenure of Thomas Waddington worth yearly 18d. and a watermill in Penhulton called Penhulton Mill worth yearly 26s. 8d. (the manor being worth yearly £6. 12. 2). To have and to hold to the said Roger Shireborne, John Aspinall, Thomas Holden, Edward Marsden of the chief lords of the fee to the use of the said Alexander Houghton and Maud his wife, daughter of the said James Aspinall for the term of their lives, without any impediment, and after their deaths to their lawful issue and for default of such issue to the heirs of the said Alexander for ever.

The said Alexander constitutes William Dewhurst and Miles Aspinall his attorneys to take seisin of the said premises and deliver them to Roger Shireborne and the others. (No date.)¹²³

In the name of God Amen ye 8th day of May in the year 1577 I Alexander Houghton of Penhulton in the Co. of Lanc. Esqr make my last Will and Testament in manner and forme following

To Mary Hoghton and Katherine Hoghton daughters of the Exors of this my last Will equally to be divided amongst them Saving y^t my will is that the said Mary shall have of my goods 40th more than any of the rest of her sisters. Itm. I constitute my Cosyn John Hoghton sonne of Henery Hoghton my brother and Agnes now his wife my true and lawfull Executors of this my last Will and Testament.¹²⁴

John Hoghton, of Penhulton, gent.

Inquisition taken at Preston in Amounderness 4 June, 25 Elizabeth.

. The jurors further say that a certain Alexander Hoghton, deceased, uncle of said John, was seised in his demesne, as of fee, of and in divers closes of land called the Oxeheighe, the Heighfelde, and the Cloughe, the Wynner heye, the Barker Crofte, the Upper Thornehill and the Lower Thornhill in Penhulton, and so being seised by his deed dated 24 August 11 Eliz. confirmed the said premises among others to Robert Shireburne, son of Hugh Shireburne, of same county, gent., Edward Marsden of Colne, John Seller of Reade, William Shuttleworth, and Thomas Holden, son and heir of Owen Holden, of Witton, to the use of Agnes, late the wife of the said John Hoghton by the name of Agnes Aspinall, for the life of the said Agnes for and in consideration of her jointure, and afterwards Agnes took as husband the said John Hoghton and they were seised of the said premises John as free tenant and Agnes by reversion after John's death. The said Agnes still survives.

¹²⁴ British Museum, Addl. MS. 32104, f. 140, No. 597.

John Hoghton died 16 March last past and Mary and Katherine Hoghton are daughters and coheirs of said John, Mary being now aged 10 years, 6 months, 3 weeks, 3 days, and Katherine 6 years, 6 months, 3 weeks.¹²⁵

We see from the above that Maud was the wife of Alexander in 1569, and that Agnes had married John before 1573 (the year in which her eldest daughter Mary was born). Dr. Whitaker concludes his note on James Aspinall of Magna Mearley by saying: "His daughter Maud was the wife of Alexander Houghton esq., second son of John, grandson of Sir Henry Houghton."¹²⁶ The Catholic Record Society also has a note saying that Alexander Houghton of Pendleton Hall married "Maud, d. of John Aspinall of Standen Hall in Pendleton."¹²⁷ Both these statements are inaccurate. The undated grant quoted above shows she was the daughter of James, whose son and heir was John Aspinall: the Inquisition taken after the death of James Aspinall of Magna Mearley shows he had no son, nor is any daughter Maud mentioned in it, though four other daughters are named.¹²⁸ The Indenture shows that Maud was "now wife" of Alexander in 1569, whereas Maud the daughter of John was unmarried in 1583, as we may see by the lawsuit brought by Edward against James Aspinall in that year.¹²⁹ It does not transpire who Agnes was.

The parish registers of Clitheroe commence in 1570. These have not yet been printed, but the present writer has recently extracted from them about one hundred entries of Aspinall births, deaths, and marriages. Particulars of these will be given in the next issue of this magazine.

The Register of the University of Oxford, 1571-1622, contains several interesting records:—

In connection with a list of students of Brasenose College, dated about 1565-6, there is a note—"In this Brasenose list between Stubber-siche and Jenkynne, at the end of one page and the beginning of the next, ten names are found, which are written in a later hand, and seem to belong to a later date than the list." The last of these ten names is "Aspinal. Alexander, Lancs., aetat. 20."¹³⁰

In the Lists of Matriculations¹³¹ we find:—

The parish registers of Clitheroe show that "Brianus Aspinall filius Richi Aspinall de Clyderow" was baptised on the 9th April 1587, but nothing further relating to him has been found.

In the Shakespeare Museum in Henley Street, Stratford on Avon, when the present writer visited it in 1914, there was in one of the cases "a tracing of the signature of Mr. Alexander Aspinall, 'Schole-master' of the Free Grammar Schoole, Stratford upon Avon, upon the counterpart of a lease, dated 25 March 32 Eliz. (1590) from the Bailiff and Burgesses of Stratford upon Avon to the said Alexander Aspinall of 'that theire Tenemente & Romes of howsinge scituate & beinge wthin the chapell yarde of Stratford afforeseyd withe the Cole howsse & gardein thereunto adioyned' for twentyone years, paying forty shillings yearly. Misc. Docs., vol. iii, No. 8 Corp. Records."

The parish registers of Stratford¹³⁴ record his marriage: "1594, October 24. Alexander Aspynall & Anne Shaw."

A description of the seal of the borough of Stretford upon Avon, Warwick, with a list of burgesses, is given in the Visitation of Warwick,¹³⁵ "of wch sayd Borough of Stretford at the tyme of this present visitation 27 Augusti A^o 1619," Alexander Aspinall is declared to have been one of the burgesses.

The parish registers of Stratford¹³⁶ contain two further entries amongst the burials :—

1623. Novr. 30. Anna vxor M^{ri} Alexandri Aspinall.

1623-4. Feby. 4. Mr. Alexander Aspinall.

The list of wills at Worcester¹³⁷ shows that letters of administration were taken out after his death, and the following particulars have been obtained from the Probate Registry at Worcester :—

Administration of the goods of Alexander Aspinall late of Stretford in the County of Warwick and Diocese of Worcester deceased granted at Worcester on the third day of March 1623 to Alexander Aspinall of Cletheroe, in the County of Lancaster, Yeoman, the Uncle of the said deceased.

This would probably be the Alexander Aspinall who was at Oxford between 1601 and 1604-5, and it seems likely that the Alexander who was there from 1573 to 1578 was the uncle who administered his estate. The records above quoted appear to show that Alexander the younger was schoolmaster at the Grammar School at Stratford from 1590 to 1623-4. It was at this school, as most authorities surmise, that Shakespeare was educated between the years 1571 and 1582, but he had left Stratford for London before Alexander Aspinall commenced his duties there. Shakespeare returned to his native town in later years however, and he was buried at the parish church there in 1616. It would be interesting to know if any relationship existed between Anne Shaw and that "Shaw, an intimate friend of the poet's, and one of the witnesses of his will," mentioned by Clive Holland in his description of Warwickshire. The old Grammar School, founded in 1481, is still one of the most interesting sights of that interesting town, and visitors are allowed to go over the quaint old building, and are even permitted to peep through a small trapdoor, to let them see the scholars at their studies.

Abstracts of three further records have been obtained from the Public Record Office :—

6 February 1585-6.

Answer by Henry Ratcliffe, Esq., Richard Greenacres, and Alexander Greenacres, three of the defendants to the Bill of Complaint of Christopher Nowell, James Aspinall, Thomas Whitehead, and the inhabitants of Clitheroe and the parish of Whalley, co. Lanes., admitting that letters patent were granted by Philip and Mary to the Free Grammar School of Clitheroe endowing it with lands of the Crown, but not to the yearly value of £60, but only to the value of £20 1s. 8d., and they believe that the tenants of the said lands are to enjoy the same in the same way as before the grant. They say it may be true that some of the first governors of the said school were akin to one another, "whereby it is manifest that the said complainants shewe themselves to be very ungratefull persons in that they mislike of the late Quene Maries election choise and constitucon of the said first governors," and they say these governors were of the most substantial inhabitants of Clitheroe, and defendants were not of these first governors, and if they did not perform the trusts in them reposed, these defendants, as their successors, are not responsible.

The Inquisition Post Mortem of Miles Aspinall of Great Mearley was taken in 1616, ten years almost to a day after the date of his death, as given in the Inquisition. An abstract of it is given below:—¹⁴⁹

Duchy of Lancaster Inquisitions Post Mortem, vol. xxii, No. 97.

Miles Aspinall of Great Mearley.

Inquisition taken at Blackburne 4 Oct. 14 James (1616) before Ed. Rigby, Esq., Escheator, after the death of Miles Aspinall, late of Great Mearley, by the oath of Edward Gellibrand of Romsgreave, Richard Houghton of Rodles, Richard Diccinson of Tockeholes, Nicholas Witton of the same, Richard Lawe of Blackburne, Richard Barker of Tockholes, Thomas Osbaldestone of Mellor, Robert Barker of Weetley, John Rodes of Ribchester, Thurstan Maudesley of Blackburn, Peter Haworth of Netherderwin, James Cundcliffe of the same, William Ouldham of Oswaldtwistley, George Harwood of Fenisccliffe, and Lawrence Ainsworth of Livesay, gentlemen. Who say that Miles Aspinall was seised in fee of 1 messuage, 1 garden, 1 orchard, 30 acres of land, 6 acres of meadow, and 10 acres of pasture in Great Mearley. So seised by Indenture dated 10 Nov. 15 Eliz. (1573), he demised the aforesaid premises to Thomas Holden, son and heir of Evan Holden of Witton for a term of 41 years; by which Indenture (here recited) it appears that Thomas Morley, late of Wennington, Esq., deceased, on 10 April 26 Henry VIII (1535) demised to James Aspinall a messuage and certain lands in Great Mearley for a term of 51 years, and the said James since that time hath demised all his interest in the same to the said Miles Aspinall, viz. on 9 Nov. 6 Edw. VI (1552), and Thomas Morley of Wennington, son of the said Thomas, by Deed dated 19 Mar. 4 Eliz. (1561-2) demised to the said Miles all the said premises and the reversions to the same for a term of 41 years, after the term of 51 years should have expired, for an annual rent of 37s. After which the said Miles demised the premises to Thomas Holden.

The premises in Great Mearley are held of the King, as of his Duchy of Lancaster, by the 20th part of a knight's fee and 3d. rent, and are worth per annum (clear) 37s.

Miles Aspinall died 1 Oct. 4 James (1606) and James Aspinall his son and next heir is aged at the time of taking this Inquisition 50 years and more.

Miles Aspinall of Magna Mearley had a son Edmond who entered the service of the East India Company, and went out to India and Sumatra with the fleet which sailed under Captain Downton in 1614. The Inquisition Post Mortem of Miles Aspinall of Great Mealey was taken in 1816, ten years almost to a day after the date of his death, as given in the Inquisition. An abstract of it is given below:—¹⁰¹

Duchy of Lancaster Inquisitions Post Mortem, vol. xxi, No. 97.

Miles Aspinall of Great Mealey.

Inquisition taken at Blackburn 4 Oct. 14 James (1816) before Ed. Ripby Esq., Recorder after the death of Miles Aspinall, late of Great Mealey, by the oath of Edward Gellibrand of Romsey, Richard Houghton of Rodley, Richard Dickinson of Tokeholes, Nicholas Winton of the same, Richard Lawe of Blackburn, Richard Barker of Tokeholes, Thomas Galsworthy of Mellor, Robert Barker of Westley, John Roddy of Ribblesdale, Thomas Maudslay of Blackburn, Peter Harwood of Ribblesdale, James Caudwell of the same, William Ouldham of Oswaldtwistle, George Harwood of Farncliffe, and Lawrence Almsworth of Liversay, gentlemen. Who say that Miles Aspinall was seized in fee of 1 messuage, 1 garden, 1 orchard, 30 acres of land, 6 acres of meadow, and 10 acres of pasture in Great Mealey. So seized by indenture dated 10 Nov. 1813. He devised the aforesaid premises to Thomas Holden, son and heir of Evan Holden of Winton for a term of 41 years; by which indenture (here recited) it appears that Thomas Mealey, late of Warrington, Esq., deceased, on 10 April 36 Henry VIII (1535) devised to James Aspinall a messuage and certain lands in Great Mealey for a term of 51 years, and the said James states that him had devised all his interest in the same to the said Miles Aspinall, viz. on 9 Nov. 5 Edw. VI (1553), and Thomas Mealey of Warrington, son of the said Thomas, by deed dated 19 Mar. 4 Eliz. (1562) devised to the said Miles all the said premises and the reversions to the same for a term of 41 years, after the term of 51 years should have expired, for an annual rent of 37s. After which the said Miles devised the premises to Thomas Holden.

The premises in Great Mealey are held of the King, as of his Duchy of Lancaster, by the 20th part of a knight's fee and 3d rent, and are worth per annum (clear) 37s.

Miles Aspinall died 1 Oct. 4 James (1606) and James Aspinall his son and next heir is aged at the time of taking this Inquisition 50 years and more.

Miles Aspinall of Manx Mealey had a son Edmund who entered the service of the East India Company, and went out to India and Sumatra with the fleet which sailed under Captain Bownton in 1814. This fleet, which consisted of four vessels, left Dover Road on the 17th March, reached the Cape of Good Hope on the 15th June, "where we were welcomed with a great storm," and eventually arrived at Surat on the 15th of October. Captain Downton had not long been there before the hostility of the Portuguese made itself felt, and about Christmas a fleet of six galleons, sixty frigates and smaller vessels, with a force of Europeans and natives more than a dozen times as strong as Downton's arrived in the river. Downton had to be constantly on the alert to guard his fleet from attempts to board by day and from fireships by night. In spite of the heavy odds, the attacks were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy, both in ships and men whilst the damage to Downton's fleet was insignificant. By the middle of February the enemy had had enough of it and withdrew his remaining ships and forces, leaving the field clear for the English, who thereby gained great prestige with the Nabob of Surat and his court. An account of this adventurous voyage is given in "Purchas His Pilgrimes."

The records of the East India Company¹⁵⁰ give the following information of Edmond Aspinall. In the Court Minutes for 1614 there is an entry:—"Jan'y 20. Freedom to Edmond Aspinall, factor." He sailed from England, as we have seen, in March. A letter dated 26 Decr. 1614 tells us that Thomas Elkington, Edmond Aspinall and others were left at Surat; and on the 1st of March 1615 we have a letter from Edmond Aspinall himself to the East India Company, giving an account of what had happened to him since he left England. From this we learn that about the end of September it had "pleased God to visit me with a sickness so that for the space of five weeks and more I was accounted in respect as a dead man." After some months, during which there is occasional mention of him, a letter from John Sanderofte and Edmond Aspinall, dated 15 Octr. 1615 from Tekoe, announces that they had arrived at Sumatra on the 15th April. A further letter from them, dated 13 Novr. from the same place, gives us the last news we have of Edmond Aspinall from these records. As Danvers relates, "he was one of those who went to Achin and Tiku in the Hector but after that he disappears from view." In another place we find that the Hector "sank at Bantam in the carining."

Edmond Aspinall's disappearance from view was due to his death, as we may learn from the records at Somerset House, where his will is filed. An abstract of it has been printed,¹⁵¹ and is as follows:—

Edmond Aspinall at Priaman, 31 Decr. 1615, proved 20 Sept. 1617.

I give unto my friend William Leighton, late the Secretary to the Rt. Hon. East India Company, twentyfive pounds according to the note set down in their book at my departure from England. I give unto William Aspinall of Blackwell Hall, clothier, all the remainder due unto me in the hands of the Rt. Hon. East India Company of my wages due in England. I would entreat Mr. John Myller and Mr. John Sanderofte to make sale (of certain oriental goods), and to send the proceeds thereof unto Mr. Francis Saddler, Sec. to the Rt. Hon. East India Co. and to Mr. Atkinson servant to the said Company, also the proceeds of my apparel and other goods whatsoever; out of which I give unto Mr. Atkinsonne six pounds and unto Mr. Sadler forty shillings; the remainder of all those goods I give unto the youngest daughter of my brother James Aspnall of Merley in the Co. of Lancaster, gentleman. I give unto Mr. Sandercroft one diamond ring and unto Mr. John Myller one ring with nine rubies. Also I give unto Thomas Brighous one "Tapsell Chist" of clothes, unto Robert Burdon one gown. I desire Mr. John Myllerd and Mr. John Sandercroft to send to Mr. Saddler and Mr. Atkinsonne the rest of my wages due here unto me, either in goods or per exchange as they shall think fitting.

Also what I have set down in a former will, made at my coming out of England, my will is that, according to the said [will], the said land mentioned therein may take effect, and for debts standing out due unto me I desire John Halstede of Merle do enjoy and recover one debt due unto me by Sir Robert Young, knight, and one debt due unto me by Laurence Halsted of London, merchant, for four pieces velvet he had of Henry Nowell of mine; all other debts, as well beyond the sea as in England, I freely give unto the abovesaid William Aspinall.

Commission issued to William Aspinall of Standinge, Lanes., a cousin, James Aspinall, the brother, renouncing. (Weldon, 83.)

James Aspinall of Mearley was a juror at Whalley at the Inquisitions post mortem of Henry Brotherton of Howeliffe on the 6th May 1620; of John Holgate of Folerigge (Whalley parish) on the 6th March 1620-1; and of Dorothy Whipp, widow (daughter of Thomas Catterall of Little Mitton) on the 5th April 1621.¹⁵² His name also appears in the following record:—

Lists of Esquires and Gentlemen in Cheshire and Lancashire who refused the order of Knighthood at the Coronation of Charles I.:

Hundred de Blackburn. Compositions made at Blackburn the XVth daie of Sept. Anno Septimo Caroli Rege 1631. James Aspinall of Mierley, gent., xiiij*li*. vjs. viij*d*.¹⁵³

The Chester Marriage Licences for the period 1616-1621¹⁵⁴ show that a licence was issued:—

15 Octr. 1621. Francis Webster of Padiham, Lanc., and Katherine Aspinall. At Padiham.

The marriage is not recorded at Padiham, but it will be seen by the next record that it was duly solemnized.

The Inquisition post mortem of James Aspinall of Great Mearley was taken 8th September 1635. Dr. Whitaker's note of this Inquisition¹⁵⁵ is unreliable, and several errors appear in it. The following abstract has been made from the original record at the Public Record Office.

James Aspinall.

Lancs. Inquisition taken at Blackburn, co. Lancs., 8 Sept., 11 Charles I (1635) before Hugh Rigby Esqr., the King's escheator there to enquire after the death of James Aspinall, late of Great Mearley, co. Lancs., deceased. The jurors [named, amongst them Miles Aspinall, gent.] say that at his death the said James was seised in his demesne, as of fee, of and in one messuage & 50 acres of land, meadow & pasture, with appurtenances in Mearley; and of one cottage & one acre of land in Mearley in the tenure of Anne Slater; and of another cottage & garden in Mearley in the tenure of John Hemywey; and of and in the reversion of a messuage and 26 acres of land, meadow and pasture in Mearley after the death of the longest liver of Ralph Avison, John Avison, Alice Avison, widow, which same messuage & land Ralph Avison holds in his own right for the lives of the said Ralph, John & Alice and the longest liver of them.

By Indenture dated 19 July, 18 Jas. I, made at Mearley the said James Aspinall (in consideration of £450 paid to him by John Halstead, of Mearley, and of a marriage had between said John Halstead and Agnes, one of the daughters of the said James Aspinall) infeoffed William Dewhurst, gent., John Parker, gent., Ambrose Walton, yeoman, & Peter Ormerod, yeoman, to the use of the said James for life and after his death, as respecting one moiety of the said premises, excepting the tenement of Ralph Avison and the cottage in the tenure of Anne Slater, to the use of John Halstead and Agnes his wife, for their lives and as regarding the other moiety and said exceptions to the use of Anne Aspinall, wife of said James, for life, and after her death, to the use of the said John Halstead and Agnes and their male issue in tail male, in default to their female issue, in default to the issue of Agnes by any other husband, in default to the male issue of the said James Aspinall, in default to the use of Catherine Aspinall, another daughter of the said James, and her male issue, in default to the right heirs of said James.

The jurors say that the said James Aspinall died on 30th April, 11 Charles I at Great Mearley and Anne, his wife, survives him and lives at Great Mearley. They say that John Halstead died at Mearley on 1st April, 8 Charles I, and Agnes, his wife, survives him.

They say that the said Agnes, late the wife of John Halstead, the said Catherine, wife of Francis Webster are daughters and heirs of said James, and Thomas Rigby, as son and heir of Mary, another daughter of the said James, and John Ryley, as son and heir of Margaret, another daughter of the said James, are his next heirs, Agnes being now aged 40 years and more, Catherine 30 years and more, Thomas Rigby 20 years and more, and John Ryley 15 years, one month, two days. Thomas Ryley, father of John Ryley, died at Hapton, co. Lancs. before the date of this inquisition.

They say that the said premises were held of the King as of his Duchy of Lancaster by knight service that is by the twentieth part

James Aspinwall.

Lancs. Inquisition taken at Blackburn, co. Lancs., 8 Sept. 11 Charles I (1635) before Hugh Rigby Esqr., the King's escheator there, to enquire after the death of James Aspinwall, late of Great Mesbury, co. Lancs., deceased. The jurors [named, amongst them Miles Aspinwall, gent.] say that at his death the said James was seized in his demesne, as of fee, and in one messuage & 30 acres of land, meadow & pasture, with appurtenances in Mesbury; and of one cottage & one acre of land in Mesbury in the tenure of Anne Slater; and of another cottage & garden in Mesbury in the tenure of John Henryway; and of and in the reversion of a messuage and 20 acres of land, meadow and pasture in Mesbury after the death of the longest liver of Ralph Avison, John Avison, Alice Avison, widow, which same messuage & land Ralph Avison holds in his own right for the lives of the said Ralph, John & Alice and the longest liver of them.

By Indenture dated 19 July, 18 Jas. I, made at Mesbury the said James Aspinwall (in consideration of £100 paid to him by John Halsested, of Mesbury, and of a marriage had between said John Halsested and Agnes, one of the daughters of the said James Aspinwall) indebted William Dwyer, gent., John Parker, gent., Ambrose Walton, yeoman, & Peter Gurnered, yeoman, to the use of the said James for life and after his death, as respecting one moiety of the said premises, excepting the tenement of Ralph Avison and the cottage in the tenure of Anne Slater, to the use of John Halsested and Agnes his wife, for their lives and extending the other moiety and said exceptions to the use of Anne Aspinwall, wife of said James, for life, and after her death, to the use of the said John Halsested and Agnes and their male issue in tail male, in default to their female issue, in default to the issue of Agnes by any other husband, in default to the male issue of the said James Aspinwall, in default to the use of Catherine Aspinwall, another daughter of the said James, and her male issue, in default to the right heirs of said James.

The jurors say that the said James Aspinwall died on 30th April, 11 Charles I at Great Mesbury and Anne, his wife, survives him and lives at Great Mesbury. They say that John Halsested died at Mesbury on 1st April, 8 Charles I, and Agnes, his wife, survives him.

They say that the said Agnes, late the wife of John Halsested, the said Catherine, wife of Francis Webster are daughters and heirs of said James, and Thomas Rigby, as son and heir of Mary, another daughter of the said James, and John Ryley, as son and heir of Margaret, another daughter of the said James, are his next heirs, Agnes being now aged 40 years and more, Catherine 30 years and more, Thomas Rigby 20 years and more, and John Ryley 15 years, one month, two days. Thomas Rigby, father of John Rigby, died at Hapton, co. Lancs. before the date of this inquisition.

They say that the said premises were held of the King as of his Duchy of Lancaster by knight service that is by the twentieth part of one knight's fee & by rent of 3*d.* a year and are worth in all issues beyond reprisals, 30*s.* 6*d.*

They say that at the time of his death James Aspinall had no other lands or messuages, etc., in co. Lancs.

The will of James Aspinall, of Over Standen, co. Lancs., dated 1632, is filed at Chester.¹⁵⁶

A record relating to the "Assessment of the Clergy of Lancashire for Ship Money," dated 1635,¹⁵⁷ throws an interesting light upon the financial condition of the church at Clitheroe about this time:—

"Cliderow. Our Minister hath neyther parsonage nor Vicarage, but only a Chappelrie within the Rectorie of Whalley. We with the Parish^{ers} doe maintain our Minister out of our owne goods saveinge that he hath payd him yerely £4 by the Vicar of Whalley and £3 at the hand of the Auditor for the County, so that we understood his yerely maintenance to be so little and his estate soe poore that we did not assesse him at all towards the said Ship of War.

Cliderow 1 March 1635-6. Signed—

Richard Dugdale	John Kinge	William Hird
John Aspinall	William Baley	William Paitefield W.P."

The Inquisition post mortem of John Aspinall of Standen was taken at Blackburn in 1641. A copy of this record, made from the original at the Public Record Office, is given below. Dr. Whitaker has a very brief note of it,¹⁵⁸ but no copy or abstract has hitherto been printed.

THE PEDIGREE OF THE LATE HENRY HAWARDEN- GELLIBRAND-FAZAKERLEY AND THE DESCENT TO HIM OF FAZAKERLEY HALL, GELLIBRAND HALL AND LOWER HOUSE IN WIDNES.

By V. HUSSEY WALSH.

I. FAZAKERLEY OF FAZAKERLEY.

It is not an easy matter to write this family history in war time. I made several extracts from the family papers in 1892 which were then in the possession of the late Mrs. Everard Evered, who was the only surviving daughter of Henry Hawarden-Gellibrand-Fazakerley. They are now the property of her son, Captain Robert Evered, and are stored away in the bank during his absence at the Front. I have marked all the extracts from these papers with an asterisk. I am deeply indebted to the Editor of the Victoria History of Lancashire for his very able summary of the family history which I have consulted down to 1500, and have also made many extracts from the publications of the Chetham Society, and of the Lancashire and Cheshire Record Society. The Catholic Record Society has also been of very great help for the post-Reformation period when the Fazakerleys, Gellibrands and Hawardens adhered to that old Faith which they had inherited from their forefathers. The earlier generations have certainly existed, but their connection in this pedigree is tentative. The early history of the Manor is obscure, but the pedigree which is in Captain Evered's possession gives as the first known ancestor,

I. RICHARD FAZAKERLEY, Lord of Fazakerley,* Co. Lancaster, in the days of Henry III, c. A.D. 1240, who had issue:—

II. HENRY DE FAZAKERLEY, his son and heir, who in 1276 recovered possession of half a messuage and 15 acres of land in Walton.¹ He had issue:—

III. RICHARD DE FAZAKERLEY, was one of the tenants of Richard de Walton in 1292.² He and his son Henry were witnesses to a grant by Richard Lord of Walton to Robert Cawdran of land in Fazakerley with free entry to moor and wood and other easements.³ He had issue:—

1. Henry Fazakerley (IV), who follows.

2. Richard Fazakerley, to whom his brother Henry granted lands adjoining the field of Fazakerley with housebote and heybote and quittance of passage in the wood of Walton.⁴

¹ Assize Rolls 405, m. 3 d. This reference and several others which follow have been taken from the Victoria History of Lancashire, vol. iii.

² Assize Roll 408 m. 61 d. 23.

³ Harl. MSS. 2042, fo. 157.

⁴ Ibid., fo. 154 b.

3. Robert Fazakerley, to whom his brother Henry granted lands in Fazakerley in the Little Ley from the lane to the ditch of the Bancroft with easements in Walton.⁵ He made a grant in the vill of Walton with various easements to which his brother Richard was witness.⁶

IV. HENRY DE FAZAKERLEY, of Fazakerley.* He was living

1 Ed. II (1307), and had issue :—

1. Robert (V), who follows.
2. Richard de Fazakerley, mentioned in deeds of 1323 and 1329 as son of Henry.⁷
3. Henry de Fazakerley.⁸

V. ROBERT DE FAZAKERLEY, of Fazakerley, gave a portion of a meadow to Richard son of John, son of Margery de Fazakerley in 1315.⁹ Lord of Fazakerley 2 Ed. III.* Robert, son of Henry de Fazakerley, was a plaintiff concerning land in Walton in 1352, Simon de Walton being the defendant.¹⁰ He had issue :—

1. Hugh de Fazakerley (V), who follows.

VI. HUGH DE FAZAKERLEY, Lord of Fazakerley, living 49 Ed. III

(1375).* In 1356 Hugh son of Robert, son of Henry de Fazakerley, brought a suit against Robert son of William de Walton.¹¹ He accompanied the Duke of Lancaster to Brittany from about 1356 to 1359.¹² He married Isabel, who in 1379, as widow of Hugh de Fazakerley, gave a release of actions to John de Taylor and Henry de Fazakerley, the executors. (Townley MSS. G.C. n. 2491.) She was perhaps the Isabel, widow of John de Toxteth, who in 1419 was bound to Robert and John de Fazakerley (ibid., 2831.) The whole of this period is extremely confusing as there were several collateral branches of the family besides the main stem dwelling in Fazakerley, and they are all quoted side by side in volume iii of the Victoria History of Lancashire. Thus Richard son of Henry, son of Robert de Fazakerley was plaintiff in a case about 1352 (Duchy of Lancaster Assize Rolls, 2 m. ii). Three years later Robert de Fazakerley was plaintiff in a case in which Richard son of John de Fazakerley was one of the defendants (Duchy of Lancaster Assize Rolls, R. 4, m. 20). Henry, son of Robert, took action against the same defendant in the following year (ibid., R. 5, m. 1), and at the same time another Henry, the son of Richard, was plaintiff against John son of Richard, son of John (R. 5 m., 14 d). In these circumstances one may be forgiven for assuming that the family pedigree was based upon some evidence which we do not possess and that its conclusion that Roger Fazakerley, the next most prominent member of the family, was the son of Hugh is probably correct.

VII. ROGER FAZAKERLEY, Lord of Fazakerley, is stated to have lived 18 Richard II (1394).^{*} In any case, according to an inquisition taken 8 Richard II (6 March 1385) on the death of Thomas de Lathom,¹³ he married Joan, his second wife and widow, said to have been the second daughter of Hugh Venables, of Kinderton.¹⁴ Letters of protection were granted to both of them by the Duke of Lancaster in 1382.¹⁵ In the same year the Bishop of Lichfield allowed him to have divine service in every oratory within his manors in the diocese.¹⁶ Roger de Fazakerley and Joan his wife received a third part of the manor of Huyton 20 Aug. 1384.¹⁷ His widow Joan married thirdly, Sir Nicholas Haryngton, of Tarleton, and by fine 1397 remitted to Margaret de Lathom and her heirs the moiety of the manor of Huyton.¹⁸ His son:—

VIII. ROBERT DE FAZAKERLEY, of Fazakerley, married Ellen, daughter of Robert de Walton, who claimed her father's estate from John, Robert's bastard son, and obtained a third part by virtue of a settlement made about 1380 by her father before John's birth.¹⁹ In August 1412, Robert, with a hundred others, came in warlike array to the Manor of Walton and dispossessed John, taking away all his goods and chattels. The dispute was not settled until 1426-7, when a third part was awarded Robert de Fazakerley and Ellen his wife in lieu of her marriage portion.²⁰ They had issue:—

IX. ROGER FAZAKERLEY DE FAZAKERLEY, is described in 1593 as son and heir of Ellen, daughter of Robert de Walton.²¹ He was living 7 Hen. VI,* and had issue:—

X. THOMAS FAZAKERLEY, of Fazakerley and Walton, who in 1476 is described as son and heir of the late Roger Fazakerley of West Derby, released to William, son of John Lightwood

4. Rev. Harry Walter Sargent, born 9 July 1825, died 8 July 1867. Educated at Rugby School; Fellow of Merton Coll., Oxford, 1848-1867; Incumbent of St. John the Baptist, Oxford, 1855. M.I. at Lavington, where he was buried.

5. Horace George Sargent, died unmarried at Putney Heath, 24 Oct. 1851.

1. Julia Mary, born 1836, died at San Remo, 20 Dec. 1911; married at St. John the Baptist, Oxford (by Bishop Wilberforce), 5 June 1865, Rev. John Richard Turner Eaton,¹¹ Fellow and Tutor of Merton College, Oxford. They had issue.

D. SIR CHARLES SARGENT, born 1821, died aged 79, 21 June 1900. Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge; 5th Wrangler 1843; called to the Bar, Lincoln's Inn, 21 Nov. 1848; Chief Justice Ionian Islands, 1860-66; Knighted, 1860; Justice of Supreme Court of Bombay, 1866-82; Chief Justice there, 1882-95. He married at St. James', Piccadilly, 6 Oct. 1855, his cousin, Geraldine Harriet, daughter of John Unwin of the Treasury, by Rosamund Sargent his wife (see p. 192). She died 20 Nov. 1893. They had issue:—

1. Harry Garton Sargent (E).

1. Rosamund Evelyn Margaret, married in Bombay Cathedral . . . 1895, John Mackenzie Ryrie, of Arbutnot, Ewart & Co.

E. HARRY GARTON SARGENT, born 11 Feb. 1859; Magd. Coll. Oxf. 1876; married 8 June 1883 at St. Peter's, Cranley Gardens, Kensington, Henrietta Sarah Studd Finis, daughter of Charles Mackinnon, younger, of Corrie, Isle of Skye. She was born 29 Jan. 1857. They have issue:—

Orme Garton Sargent, born 31 Oct. 1884. Clerk in the Foreign Office, 1906. Acting Third Secretary in the Diplomatic Service, 1911.

NOTES TO THE PEDIGREE.

¹ John Sargent "the younger" was the principal beneficiary and residuary legatee of his kinsman, George Arnold, alderman and draper of the City of London, whose will, dated 14 November 1739, he proved, as sole executor, 1 July 1751 (P.C.C. 197, Busby). It was not till 1777 that the name of Arnold was taken by his son, who was to succeed to the Halstead estate. The petition for the royal licence recites that whereas "George Arnold late Alderman did by his will give a very considerable Real & Personal Estate, the Petitioner, John Sargent, out of a gratefull remembrance of his kind benefactor, the said George Arnold, is desirous that his eldest son and heir," etc., etc.

² The tutor at Eton of both George Arnold (whose "leaving" portrait is still to be seen in the Provost's Lodge) and John Sargent was John Hayward Roberts, elected Provost in 1781, and grandfather of the Captain John Walter Roberts, who in 1825 became the husband of George's niece, Frances Sargent. Valedictory lines he addressed to his pupil in 1763 were (see A. C. Benson's Fasti Etonenses, p. 219) included in a published volume of his miscellaneous poems. The lines to George's memory, by his brother John, on his death forty years later, may perhaps be recorded here:—

To the Memory of G. A. Arnold Esq^{re} | of Halsted Place, Kent, who departed
this life suddenly 18th August 1805.

Oh, blest with all that makes it joy to live,
Wealth, knowledge, friends, and all the world can give,
Midst such choice blessings 'twas thy happier lot
Still to possess it, as possessing not,
Still through this vale of tears with faith to roam
And like a Pilgrim eye thy distant home,
Then bid us grieve, but with a Christian's grief
And in thy pure example seek relief,
For say—can Death too sudden him surprise
Who lives to God, who in his Saviour dies?

³ John Sargent was returned as M.P. for the Cinque Port of Seaford, 26 June 1790, but vacated his seat in November 1793 on being appointed Chief Clerk of the Ordnance by his friend, Charles, third Duke of Richmond, then Master-General of the Ordnance, and was not re-elected, but on 15 Feb. 1794 he was returned as M.P. for Queenborough, and was again returned 27 May 1796, sitting up to the General Election of 1802 when he was defeated by a small majority, but on 17 Dec. 1802 he was returned M.P. for Bodmin in Cornwall. In the interval he had resigned his place in the Ordnance Office for that of Joint Secretary to the Treasury, which he gave up in 1804 to Mr. Huskisson, then Member for Chichester, and he retired altogether from public life in 1806.

In 1784 he published a dramatic poem entitled "The Mine," which saw several editions and was several times reprinted, and he subsequently wrote two historic odes, "The Vision of Stonehenge," and "Mary Queen of Scots."

⁴ Thomas Hayley, the poet (1745-1820), whose life-long friendship with the Sargent-Arnold brothers probably began at Eton, where they had the same tutor, tells in his Memoir, which is mainly an autobiography, that it was he who first introduced to John Sargent Miss Bettesworth, and his name is found as witnessing their marriage in 1778. To this Memoir, published in two quarto volumes in 1823, John Sargent and his son contributed an account of the poet's last days.

Richard Bettesworth was grandson of Richard Bettesworth, Rector of Turwick, and great-grandson of the Rev. Edward Pelling, D.D., Prebendary of Westminster, and from 1691 Rector of Petworth, a stout defender of the Anglican Church, whose "Ancient and Modern Delusions" related to "Errors now prevailing in the Church of Rome" (1679), while "The Good Old Way" (1680) was equally aimed at dissenters. (See D.N.B., xlv, 274.)

⁷ She kept house for Bishop Wilberforce for twenty years, having previously, until the death of her eldest daughter, done so for her Manning son-in-law.

* The tutor at Eton of both George Arnold (whose "Leaving" portrait is still to be seen in the Provost's Lodge) and John Sargent was John Hayward Roberts, elected Provost in 1781, and grandfather of the Captain John Roberts, who in 1825 became the husband of George's niece, Frances Sargent. Valuable lines he addressed to his pupil in 1793 were (see A. C. Benson's Book of Hours, p. 219) included in a published volume of his miscellaneous poems. The lines to George's memory, by his brother John, on his death forty years later, may perhaps be recorded here:—

To the memory of G. A. Arnold Esq. of Alstead Place, Kent, who departed this life unlamented 18th August 1805.

Oh, blest with all that makes it joy to live,
Wealth, knowledge, friends, and all the world can give,
Midst such choice blessings 'twas thy happier lot
Still to possess it, as possessing not,
Still through the vale of tears with faith to roam,
And like a pilgrim eye thy distant home,
Then did we grieve, but with a Christian's grief
And in thy pure example seek relief.
For say—can Death too sudden thus surprise
Who lives to God, who in his Saviour dies?

* John Sargent was returned as M.P. for the Cinque Port of Seaford, 28 June 1790, but vacated his seat in November 1793 on being appointed Chief Clerk of the Ordnance by his friend, Charles, third Duke of Richmond, then Master-General of the Ordnance, and was not re-elected, but on 15 Feb. 1794 he was returned as M.P. for Queensborough, and was again returned 27 May 1796, sitting up to the General Election of 1802 when he was defeated by a small majority, but on 17 Dec. 1802 he was returned M.P. for Bodmin in Cornwall. In the interval he had resigned his place in the Ordnance Office for that of Joint Secretary to the Treasury, which he gave up in 1804 to Mr. Hookman, then Member for Winchester, and he retired altogether from public life in 1806.

In 1781 he published a dramatic poem entitled "The Mine," which saw several editions and was several times reprinted, and he subsequently wrote two historic tales, "The Vision of St. Dunstons," and "Mary Queen of Scots."

* Thomas Hayley, the poet (1743-1820), whose life-long friendship with the Sargent-Arnold brothers probably began at Eton, where they had the same tutor, tells in his Memoirs, which is mainly an autobiography, that it was in the first introduction to John Sargent Miss Hollesworth, and the name is found as witnessing their marriage in 1778. To this Memoirs published in two quarto volumes in 1823, John Sargent and his son contributed an account of the poet's last days.

Richard Hollesworth was grandson of Richard Hollesworth, Doctor of Theology, and great-grandson of the Rev. Edward Folliott, D.D., Archbishop of York, and from 1694 Rector of Foston, a short distance to the Anglian Church, whence "Angels and Robins" Johnson's "Robins" related to "Robins now prevailing in the Church of Rome" (1670) while "The Good Old Way" (1680) was equally aimed at dissenters. (See D.N.B., xlv, 274.)

* The Gleaner Register contains the following entry: "Nov. 2. George, son of John and Charlotte Sargent, unfortunately shot by the Alban a Booby, Nov. 1. 1807 in Toplece (i.e., Toplece Farm) was buried, aged 25 years." The Gleaner Register tells that on 16 November 1807 was buried James Allan of Gleaner, a Quaker, who shot and killed Captain George Sargent.

* The Memoirs of the Missionary Henry Martyn (1781-1812), published by the Rev. John Sargent in 1816, enjoyed several subsequent editions, and in 1837 his "Journals and Letters," were edited by Samuel Wilberforce. Prompted in both instances by Charles Martyn, John Sargent wrote also a Memoir of Thomas Threlkeld, Threlkeld who worked in India as a Chaplain of the Honourable East India Company, this appearing only in 1833, the year of the author's death. This Memoir was later of James Threlkeld (1801-52), last Governor of the North-Western Province, whose record is in the D.N.B., vol. lvi, p. 202.

* She had been for Richard Wilberforce for twenty years, having previously, until the death of her first husband, been so for her marriage and in law.

⁸ In the South Chapel of Lavington Church are the following inscriptions:—

This brass records the most dear Memory of Samuel Wilberforce D.D. Lord Bishop of Winchester Prelate of the Most Noble Order of the Garter XXVIII years a Bishop in the Church of God. He was born September
VII MDCCCV died July XIX MDCCCLXXXIII.

Erected by his three surviving sons.

Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a Crown of life.

This brass and the window over it record the most dear Memory of Emily wife of Samuel Wilberforce and elder daughter of John Sargent and Mary his wife. She was born April XXV MDCCCVII married June XI MDCCCXXVIII died March X MDCCCXLI leaving to mourn always their loss her husband and five children.

Them which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him.

The window above is a Rachel one, the subjects being: Jacob osculatus est Rachel; Rachel duxit uxorem; Mortua est Rachel; Ego sum Resurrectio et Vita. The corresponding West window was similarly treated, and contains subjects illustrative of the Resurrection: Puella tibi dico surge (Mar. v. 41); Adolesceens dico surge (Luc. vii, 14); Lazare veni foras (Joh. xi, 43), with the verse from Joh. v. 28: Omnes qui in monumentis sunt audient vocem filii Dei et procedent.

Of the three sons, now no longer "surviving," of whom two left a mark upon their day, and all three married and left children, there is no call to speak, since their record is to hand in Burke's Landed Gentry. Of the five children recorded in 1841, the other two were Herbert William, born 20 June 1833, Lieut. R.N., who died 28 February 1856, from the effects of the Black Sea and Baltic campaigns, and Emily Charlotte, who in 1851 became the wife of Henry John Pye, Barrister-at-Law, of Clifton Hall, Tamworth. She died s.p., aged 86, 16 Jan. 1917. Her husband (1827-1903) was a grandson of Henry James Pye (1748-1813) somehow, like his father, M.P. for Co. Berks, who in 1790 achieved his ambition of being appointed Poet Laureate.

In the south wall of the Chapel are two narrow lights containing coats of arms illustrating the descent of the Woollavington estate. This was acquired by Giles Garton, second son of William Garton of Billingham, who, at his death four years later in 1593, is described as of Woollavington, Eastdean, and Graffham. His grandson, Henry Garton, M.P. for Arundel in 1640 (died, and buried in the Temple Church, 30 October 1641), had an only child, Mary, with whom it passed to her husband, Robert Orme. The grandson of Robert Orme, also M.P. for Arundel, and Gentleman Usher to the Princess of Wales, Garton Orme, who died in 1758, had by his first marriage with Charlotte, daughter of Jonas Hanway, again an only child, Charlotte Orme, who became the wife of Richard Bettesworth, of Petworth, and the mother of Charlotte Bettesworth, who brought the property to her husband, John Sargent. The Garton arms appear as Sable, three palmers' staves, one in pale and two in saltire Argent banded Or. The Orme arms are Argent, a chevron between three escallops Gules. Those of Bettesworth, Azure a lion rampant per fesse Or and Argent. Those of Sargent figure as Argent, a chevron between three dolphins naant Sable. The coat of Wilberforce, Argent an eagle displayed Sable, wings inverted, beak and legs proper, appears with an impalement of six quarterings.

For the Garton and Orme pedigree, and the history of the manors, see Elwes and Robinson's "History of Castles, Mansions and Manors of W. Sussex," 4to, 1876, and Dallaway's "Western Sussex," volume ii, 1819.

Garton Orme, Mrs. Bettesworth's father, married in 1728, soon after the death of his first wife, Anne, daughter of Rev. Daniel Lafitte, Rector of Lavington, a worthy presumably of Huguenot refugee origin, but his will dated 13 April 1730, shortly before his death (P.C.C. 194, Auber) tells only of his invalided wife and two daughters, Anne Orme and Elizabeth Lafitte.

The Wilberforces were doubly connected by marriage with Bird and Thornton. William Wilberforce (bapt. at St. Mary's, Beverley, 27 November 1690) had, by his marriage in 1711, with Sarah, daughter of John Thornton, of Hull, (1) William Wilberforce, who married Hannah his cousin german, daughter of Robert Thornton, of Clapham, but died s.p. in 1777; (2) Robert Wilberforce (1728-68), father by his marriage with Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Bird, of the great William Wilberforce (1759-1833), the father, by his marriage with Barbara, daughter of Isaac Spooner, of four sons, William, Robert Isaac, Samuel, and Henry William; and (3) Judith Wilberforce, who by her marriage with Alderman John Bird, was the mother of Hannah Bird, the mother by her marriage with the Rev. Robert Sumner, Vicar of Kenilworth and of Stoneleigh in Warwickshire, of two distinguished sons, (1) John Bird Sumner (1780-1862), who became Bishop of Chester in 1828, and in 1848 Archbishop of Canterbury, and (2) Charles Richard Sumner (1790-1874) who became Bishop of Llandaff in 1826 and in the following year, at the age of only thirty-seven, Bishop of Winchester. Bishop Wilberforce's predecessor in the See of Winchester was therefore his second cousin. Archbishop Tait's wife, one of a trio of devoted women known to some of their friends as "the three Catherines," was his cousin german, Catherine Tait's father Isaac Spooner, and Barbara, the Bishop's mother, being two of the nine children of Isaac Spooner, of Elmdon, Warwickshire, by Barbara his wife, who was daughter of Sir Henry Gough, Bart., and sister of the first Lord Calthorpe. It was in 1856 that Archibald Campbell Tait (1811-1882) was consecrated to the See of London, and in 1868 that he was on Dr. Longley's death called to the Primacy. On the death of Archbishop Sumner in 1862, and the translation of Archbishop Longley from York to Canterbury, he had been offered but declined the York Archbishopric.

Of the Thornton cousinhood William Wilberforce's contemporaries were the four children of John Thornton (1720-90), son of the Robert Thornton (1692-1748) already named as the father of Hannah Wilberforce. They were (1) Samuel Thornton (1755-1838), who bestowed his christian name upon the Bishop, William Wilberforce's colleague in the representation of Kingston-upon-Hull, and for fifty-three years a Director of the Bank of England; (2) Robert Thornton (1759-1826), M.P. for Colchester; (3) Henry Thornton (1760-1815), M.P. for Southwark, eminent alike as economist and philanthropist, a leader in the Evangelical world and the most influential member of the "Clapham Sect," and throughout life on most intimate terms with William Wilberforce, in whose house he died; and (4) Jane who in 1789 became the wife of Alexander, Earl of Leven and Melville. Samuel and Henry Thornton are memorialized in the D.N.B.

⁹ They had five sons and four daughters, of whom three, who died young, lie buried in Lavington Churchyard:—

John William, born 14 July 1835. D. 24 Febr. 1847.

Mary Florence, b. 14 Febr. 1837. D. 15 Oct. 1841.

Ambrose Newman, b. 26 March 1841. D. 9 April 1842.

¹⁰ Henry Edward Manning (1808-1892) was the eighth and youngest child born to William Manning (1764-1835) of his second marriage in 1792 with Mary (born 1771, died 1847), daughter of Henry Lannoy Hunter, of Beach Hill, near Reading, by a wife who was of Huguenot refugee origin, Eleanor Bosanquet (1715-86). Mr. Manning was by a previous marriage connected both with the Sargents and Wilberforces, his first wife having been Mrs. John Sargent's aunt, Elizabeth, a daughter of Abel Smith, and sister of Robert, first Lord Carrington.

The family pedigree of Charles John Laprimaudaye (1805-58), who was some-while Archdeacon Manning's curate at Lavington, and one of his closest friends, was given in The Genealogist of January 1907 (N.S., vol. xxiii, pp. 171-173). To him, and to Robert Isaac Wilberforce (1802-57) Manning's special confidant and dearest friend of all, Rome alike proved fatal. The latter died in 1857 of gastric fever contracted while a student at the Accademia Ecclesiastica, and there is a tablet to his memory in the church of S. Maria sopra Minerva. C. J. Laprimaudaye's death at the Collegio Pio from smallpox followed on 20 Jan. 1858, and to his memory there is a tablet in the church of S. Maria del Popolo.

¹¹ John Richard Turner Eaton, born 1825, matric. at Lincoln College, Oxford, 1842; Fellow and Tutor of Merton College, 1847-65; Select Preacher, 1868; Bampton Lecturer, 1872; Whyte's Professor of Moral Philosophy, 1874-78; Rector of Lapworth, 1864-78; Rector of Denton, Norfolk, 1877-79; of Alvechurch, 1879-86; of Churchleach, 1886-91; and of Denton, 1891-96. He died at Bourne-mouth, 11 November 1911, aged 86.

LE STRANGE RECORDS. A CHRONICLE OF THE EARLY LE STRANGES OF NORFOLK AND THE MARCH OF WALES, A.D. 1100—1310, WITH THE LINES OF KNOCKIN AND BLACKMERE CONTINUED TO THEIR EXTINCTION. By Hamon Le Strange, M.A., F.S.A. London (Longmans, Green & Co.)

It is now more than half a century ago since Eyton in his Antiquities of Shropshire disproved the legendary descent of the house of Le Strange from a certain Guy, living about 1137, said to have been son of John, "Duke" of Brittany. After his manner the great antiquary was not satisfied with mere destructive criticism, but with great perseverance and much searching of charters succeeded in tracing the true ancestor of the family in one Rollandus, Ruallus or Rualdus, styled "Extraneus," living temp. Henry I, and who by his wife Matilda, daughter of a Domesday tenant at Hunstanton in Norfolk, was father of four sons, John, Hamon, Guy and Ralph. All of these sons were in the reign of the second Henry enfeoffed of valuable manors in Shropshire, in the near neighbourhood of the Fitz Alans, with whom their descendants were closely associated both in Norfolk and Shropshire for many centuries. The author of this work follows Eyton closely, but adds much interesting information which has been discovered in recent years, and gives in extenso the charters which were as a rule only abstracted by Eyton. Most excellent photographic reproductions of the more important of these charters have been supplied as illustrations, the value of the book to antiquaries being thus greatly enhanced.

Among recent discoveries is an undated charter, about 1122, given in Round's Calendar of Documents preserved in France, by which Alan, son of Flaad, the ancestor of the Fitz Alans, grants to the Abbey of St. Florent in Anjou, the church and tithes of Sporle in Norfolk, one of the witnesses being Riuallonus Extraneus, probably identical with the above mentioned Rollandus. The author makes the very likely suggestion that Riuallonus may have been related to, or nearly connected with, Alan fitz Flaad, who came, as Mr. Round has shown, from Dol, on the borders of Brittany, and that thus there may be a grain of truth in the old legend after all. Other discoveries are the marriage of Hamon le Strange, the crusader of 1270, with Isabella d'Ybelin Queen of Cyprus, and the fact that a daughter of John le Strange (V) of Knockin was grandmother of Owen Glendower. Much use has been made of the valuable collection of muniments preserved at Hunstanton, which, as Mr. le Strange tells us, have never been thoroughly examined, notwithstanding that they have been described in the third Report of the Historical Manuscripts Commission. The public records have also been carefully searched, and the career of each member of the family told down to 1310. No less than four baronies by writ were in possession of this house, whose unfailing loyalty to the Plantagenet sovereigns is remarkable, and over and over again a Le Strange was intrusted with the defence of the Welsh march. Perhaps the most distinguished member of the family was Roger Le Strange of Ellesmere, and the prominent part which he took in the campaign of 1282-3 against the younger Llewelyn is very well described. He is proved to have been in command at Orewin Bridge, a point which had been doubtful, and his dispatch to Edward I sent with the head of Llewelyn has been reproduced as an illustration. It is interesting to note that Stephen de Frankton, who slew the Prince, was a retainer of Roger's.

The chapter which treats of the heraldic bearings of the family, with its well executed illustrations of seals, is very interesting and instructive, as it shows clearly the differences in use to indicate cadency. Few families can be proved to have borne arms at an earlier period. Among the deeds reproduced is that which effected the curious transaction by which John le Strange (VI) of Knockin conveyed in 1309 the estate of Hunstanton to his brother Hamon, the founder of a line which lasted longer in male descent than any of the Shropshire branches, and the property is still in possession of Hamon's descendant.

Very few errors have been detected, but in the tabular pedigree of Le Strange of Blackmere on p. 288, John, second Baron Strange of Blackmere is incorrectly said to have died s.p., and the line of descent between him and his children has been omitted.

THE ENGLISH ANCESTRY OF THE AMERICAN SANBORNS. A SUPPLEMENT TO THE SAMBORNE-SANBORN GENEALOGY. By V. C. Sanborn of Kenilworth, Illinois. (Privately printed for the Author.)

Those who possess Mr. Sanborn's Samborne-Sanborn Genealogy, will be glad to have these additional notes on that branch of the family which was settled in Somerset. When Mr. Sanborn wrote in 1899 it was thought that John, William and Stephen Samborne, who emigrated to America with their maternal grandfather, Stephen Bachiler, a noted Puritan divine, were sprung from the Sambornes living at Andover, but the author now gives in this Supplement his reasons for thinking that it is more probable that they came from the Somerset line, whose pedigree is here set out much more fully than in the original work. Extracts from many records have been supplied, including Samborne wills in P.C.C., and at Wells, extracts from the registers of Timsbury, Somerset and Clatford, Hants, and the Inquisitions taken in 1542 on the death of Mary, widow of Sir Thomas Lysle, Knt.

In the Clatford register, the Puritan Rector there is in his burial entry in 1608 styled "The Reverend Father Mr Anthonie Gattonby," a most unusual mode of description at that period. Anthony Gattonby's wife was a Samborne, and she was probably nearly related to the emigrants, which perhaps accounts for the marriage of their father to Stephen Bachiler's daughter, it being proved that the two divines family told down to 1310. No less than four baronies by writ were in possession of this house, whose unflinching loyalty to the Plantagenets is remarkable, and over and over again the Strange was interested with the defence of the Welsh march. Perhaps the most distinguished member of the family was Roger le Strange of Eghenore, and the prominent part which he took in the campaign of 1282-3 against the younger Llewelyn is very well described. He is proved to have been in command at Otterin Bridge, a point which had been doubtful, and his dispatch to Edward I sent with the head of Llewelyn has been reproduced as an illustration. It is interesting to note that Stephen de Frankton, who slew the Prince, was a retainer of Roger's.

The chapter which treats of the heraldic bearings of the family, with its well executed illustrations of seals, is very interesting and instructive, as it shows clearly the differences in use to indicate cadency. Few families can be proved to have borne arms at an earlier period. Among the deeds reproduced is that which effected the curious transaction by which John le Strange (VI) of Knockin conveyed in 1309 the estate of Hunstanton to his brother Hamon, the founder of a line which lasted longer in male descent than any of the Shropshire branches, and the property is still in possession of Hamon's descendant.

Very few errors have been detected, but in the tabular pedigree of le Strange of Blackmore on p. 328, John, second Baron Strange of Blackmore is incorrectly said to have died s.p., and the line of descent between him and his children has been omitted.

THE ENGLISH ANCESTRY OF THE AMERICAN SARBORES. A SUPPLEMENT TO THE SARBORE-SARBORE GENEALOGY. BY V. C. SARBORE OF KENILWORTH, ILLINOIS. (Privately printed for the Author.)

Those who possess Mr. Sarbores' Sarbores-Genealogy will be glad to have these additional notes on that branch of the family which was settled in Somerset. When Mr. Sarbores wrote in 1899 it was thought that John, William and Stephen Sarbores, who emigrated to America with their maternal grandfather, Stephen Bachelier, a noted Puritan divine, were sprung from the Sarbores living at Ashover, but the author now gives in this Supplement his reasons for thinking that it is more probable that they came from the Somerset line, whose pedigree is here set out much more fully than in the original work. Extensive form many reasons have been supplied, including Sarbores' will in 1700, and at Wells, extracts from the registers of Tisbury, Somerset and Clevedon, Hants, and the inquiries taken in 1813 on the death of Mary, widow of Sir Thomas Lynde, Bart.

In the Clevedon register the Puritan doctor there is in his burial entry in 1608 styled "The Reverend Father Mr. Anthony Gattorby," a most unusual mode of designation at that period. Anthony Gattorby's wife was a Sarbores, and she was probably nearly related to the Sarbores, which perhaps accounts for the marriage of their father to Stephen Bachelier's daughter, it being proved that the two divines were closely associated. Though he has still failed to prove conclusively the parentage of these emigrants to New England, Mr. Sanborn has evidently come much nearer in his attempt to do so, and we hope that some record may in time be discovered which will clench the matter.

Notes and Queries.

MARY, LADY GOWER.—In the parish registers of Kildwick, near Keighley, West Riding of Yorkshire, now being printed by the Yorkshire Register Society, occurs this entry among the burials:—

1651, July 17. Maria, uxor et domina Thomæ Gower, militis de Stichm.

Her will appears to be at Somerset House, and the following is an abstract which was printed in Yorks Record Series, vol. ix:—

The Will of Lady Mary Gower (Grey, 159).

13 June 1651. Mary Gower, now wife of Sir Thomas Gower, of Stittnam Knight and Baronet. Whereas by certain writings before my marriage with Sir Thomas Gower and by his consent and privity I did grant all and most of my estate to certain friends in trust to be disposed as I should appoint. I give all my goods unto my only daughter Mary Topham, now wife of Francis Topham of Upper Bradley gent. saving some part. I give to Mary, Elizabeth and Frances Spenser 3 of the daughters of Mr George Spenser and Mary His wife, my grandchild £200 equally. To Grace Spenser another of their daughters £50. To Olfie Spenser another daughter £30. To Mary Preston my sister's daughter 20 nobles. To my cosens Edward Godbed and William Godbed 20 nobles. Mrs Mary Topham my said daughter sole executrix. Pr. 13 Aug. 1655 by Mary Topham, daughter.

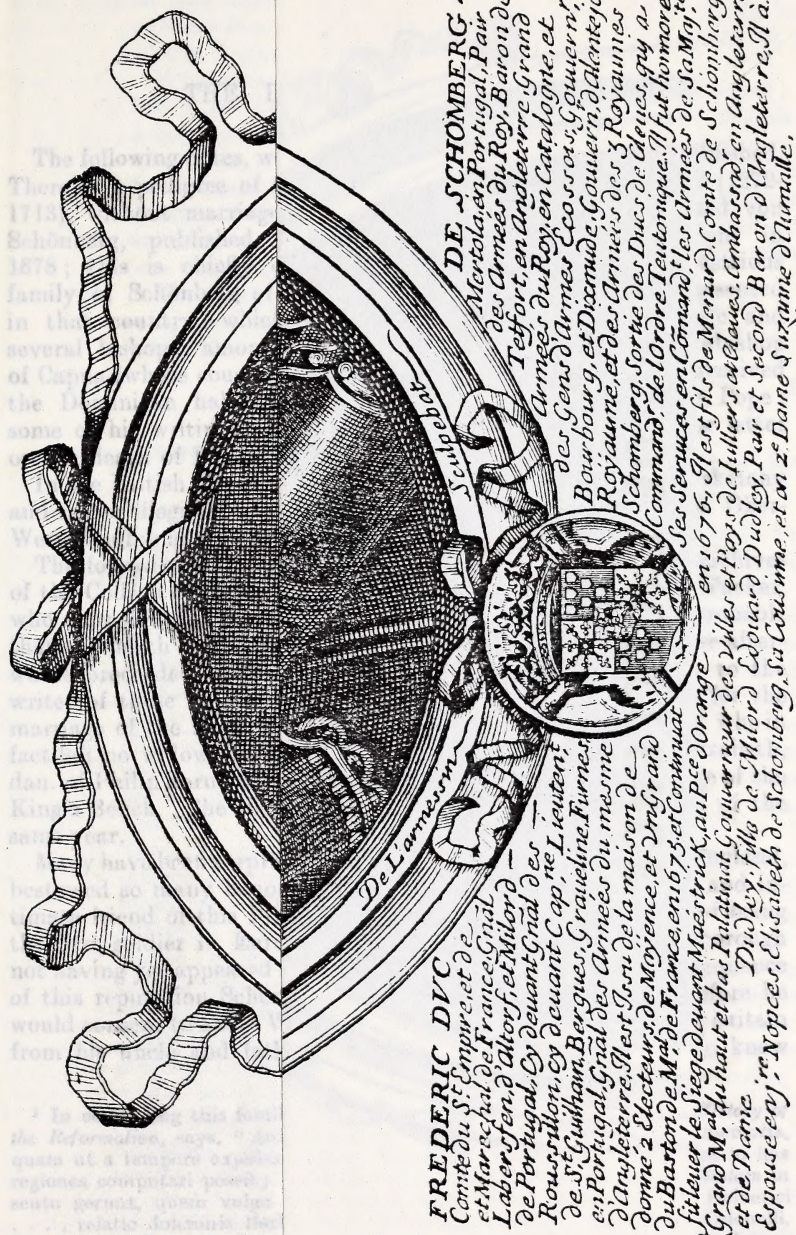

She must have been the second wife of Sir Thomas Gower, of Stittenham, who married firstly, 1604, Anne, daughter and heir of John D'Oyley, and was created a baronet 2 June 1620, being ancestor of the Dukes of Sutherland.

Lady Mary Gower, according to her will, had been previously married, but it is curious that there is no mention in any of the Peerages or Baronetages of this second marriage. Was it a secret one and not acknowledged? She appears to have died in the lifetime of her husband.

THE DUKES OF SCHOMBERG.

The following notes, we believe, have never been printed or published. There is a pedigree of this family, Schomberg of Ober-Wesel (1272-1713), without marriages, printed in a large work by Bernard von Schönberg, published in Leipsic by Giesecke and Derrient in 1878; this is chiefly concerned with the ancient and illustrious family of Schönberg of Ross-Schönberg in Saxony, still represented in that country,¹ which has given two Marshals to France and several bishops, amongst whom was Nicholas Cardinal Archbishop of Capua (whose cousin Catherine Boria married Luther); he received the Dominican habit from Savonorola, and nearly became Pope; some of his writings are still extant, amongst which is a fine letter on the death of Blessed Sir Thomas More.

In the British Museum (Ad. MSS. 24,593, pp. 23-30) are some sketchy and rather illegible pencilled notes, by the Rev. T. Hunter, on Ober-Wesel Church and some of the Schomberg monuments.

The following Arms and Pedigree were extracted from the archives of the College of Arms by the late Somerset Herald, Stephen Tucker, who warned the writer they had not been "passed"; it is probable that the death of the Duke stopped the work, which was never afterwards proceeded with. The late Colonel Chester, in a letter to the writer of these notes, asserted that there was no foundation for the marriage of the third Duke with the widow of Sir Ralph Box, who in fact left no widow, having died two months after his wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Philip Jermyn, then Serjeant-at-law, afterwards a Judge of the King's Bench. She died 25 Jan. 1693-4. He died 23 March of the same year.

Many have been surprised that William of Orange, as King of England, bestowed so many honours on a foreigner; the duke, a close and intimate friend of this Prince, had at this time the reputation of being the first soldier in Europe, the genius of Berwick and Marlborough not having yet appeared above the horizon, and possibly in consequence of this reputation Schomberg bargained for these dignities before he would consent to assist William in wresting the Crowns of Great Britain from his uncle and father-in-law. It would be interesting to know why he chose these titles; he was appointed Recorder of Harwich 31 May 1689; having been born at Heidelberg in 1615, he was only seventy-five, not eighty-two, when he met his death at the Battle of the Boyne in 1690.

Schomberg was by no means a stranger to this country; his father had been Ambassador here, and had married an English wife.² As a boy he had stayed at least once with his grandmother in England; he was in constant communication with Charles II, at whose Court he resided for a time, and who is said to have conferred upon him the Barony of Tetford in 1673,³ at about which time he was commanding an army under Prince Rupert, near Great Yarmouth, when England was preparing to invade Holland.

The patent is so drawn, that as the late Clarencieux, G. E. Cokayne, said, there may be some one now, living in Germany or elsewhere, entitled to these honours.

TESTAMENT OF CHARLES, DUKE OF SCHOMBERG.

P.C.C., 197 Coker.

(Translated out of French.)

The will of the High and Mighty Lord Charles Duke de Schonberg Lieutenant General of the armies of His Majesty of Great Britaine in the year 1693 (first Indiction) and the 14th of October at Turin in the palace of the Count Duquesne in the parish of St. Eusebius the Lodging of the afternamed Lord Duke the Testator before me Notary Ducall Royall and Collegiated Proctor of the Sovereign Senate of Piemont and in the Presence of the Lord Cornelius Count de Nassau D'averquerque a Hollander, Mr. John de Bordieu,⁴ Minister of the said Lord Duke de Schonberg Abraham Beneset Duteron secretary of the same Lord, Phillip Loyd physitian, Paul Artand chyrurgion, Paul Sancerre also chyrurgion, David Castres chief of the kitchen, to the said Lord and John Janbert witnesses called holding each in his hand

⁴ John Dubourdieu was pastor of the French Church in the Savoy; he was also chaplain to the House of Schomberg and was in attendance on the Duke when he was killed in the Battle of the Boyne. Duke Charles was buried at Lausanne, but his chaplain brought over his heart to be buried in the Savoy Chapel, over which a stone slab was placed with an inscription, now lost—perhaps some of our readers can supply it.

John Dubourdieu has often been confused with another member of the same family, Jean Armand Dubourdieu, also pastor of the Savoy. Agnew, in his French Protestant Exiles, has shown that they were distinct persons; both came from Montpellier, but their relationship is at present doubtful. Jean Armand matriculated at Gloucester Hall, Oxford, 14 February 1693-4, aged sixteen (see Foster's Alumni Oxonienses, where it is stated that he was chaplain to the factory at Smyrna). He was presented by the Duke of Devonshire, to whom he was chaplain, to the rectory of Sawtry Moyns, near Peterborough, in 1701, and held the living until his death which took place at his lodgings in Green Street, near Leicester Fields, 25 March 1727 (see Foster, who states that he was buried 27 March in St. Martin's Churchyard). The following admon. granted P.C.C., 11 July 1727, probably relates to his estate:—"Admon. of the goods of John Armand Dubourdieu, late of St. Martin's in the Fields, to Peter Quantitean, a creditor; Margaret, Henrietta and Samuel Dubourdieu, the children of the deceased, not appearing; Esther Dubourdieu, a daughter, renouncing." It is believed that Samuel is an error for Saumarez; a Saumarez Dubourdieu was minister of the Protestant church at Lisbon.

a lighted wax candle it being late at night ; Whereas there is nothing in the world more certain than death nor anything more uncertain than the hour of its coming and that therefore every prudent person ought to dispose of the estate which it hath pleased God to give him in this world whilst he hath the full disposition of his senses for to avoid all manner of contestations among his heirs Which the high and mighty Lord Duke de Schonberg Marquis of Harwich Earl of Brentford and Baron de Teys Count of the Holy Empire Lieutenant General of His Majesty of Great Britaine Collonell of the First Regiment of English Guards and Chief Generall of His Troops in Piemont prudently considering now in this city, sound (through the Grace of God) of his senses sight memory and understanding nevertheless seized with infirmity by reason of his wounds received in the army hath resolved to make his last and valid Testament and disposition of his last will nuncupative without being write though ["sic" in register] reduced in manner following. And in the first place he hath most humbly begged pardon to the sovereign God his Creator for all his sinns and trespasses most humbly beseeching him to grant remission thereof by the meritts of the death and passion of our lord Jesus Christ his Saviour He hath bequeathed &c. to the poor of the Reformed Religion which are now in this city the summe of 500 livres money of France for to be distributed unto them presently after his death by the persons to whom such pious legacies doth belong Moreover he hath bequeathed and doth bequeath to the poor of the said Religion of the City of London the like summe of 500 livres French money payable three months after his decease and which shall be distributed to the said poor by the Committy of the said City. Moreover he hath bequeathed &c. to the High and Mighty Lord Frederick Count de Schonberg his brother the summe of 1000 crowns which he will to be paid unto him by his heire hereafter named within six months after his decease and that in consideration of that summe he shall not nor may not pretend or demand any other thing upon his goods and Estate by him left, being askt by me underwritten notary if he will bequeath any thing to the poor of the Hospitall of the Lords Knights of St. Maurice and Lazarus and to the poor orphan maidens of this city, he answered that he doth bequeath to each of the said bodyes 10 crownes for each payable after his decease reserving to himself if he hath time by way of codicill to make such other bequests as he shall think fitt in all and every other his estate actions names or titles rights and pretensions in whatsoever they may or doe consist my said Lord Duke de Schonberg Testator hath named and doth name with his own mouth for his Heire Universall the High and Mighty Lord Menard de Schonberg Duke of Leinster Grandee of Portugall and Generall of the Forces of England and Scotland his brother, by whom he will that what he hath above ordered be fully executed. And what is above my said Lord Duke de Schonberg hath declared to be, and that he doth will the same to be his last testament and disposition of last will nuncupative without writing which he willet shall avale by way of testament codicill gift by reason of death and by all other the best means which it may or can be valid

THE PEDIGREE OF THE LATE HENRY HAWARDEN-
GILLIBRAND-FAZAKERLEY AND THE DESCENT TO HIM
OF FAZAKERLEY HALL, GILLIBRAND HALL AND LOWER HOUSE IN WIDNES.

By V. HUSSEY WALSH.

II. GILLIBRAND OF CHORLEY.

The Gillibrand family has been settled in Lancashire since the Conquest, if we are to believe an old Latin document quoted in St. George's Visitation of Lancashire:—"Copia extractus veteris Rentalli dat' est 13 die Julii A^o regni Will'i Conquest' quinto, quod propter antiquitatem vix legi potest, in nulla re differens nec aliena ab illo dicto vetere rentali nisi quod possessores et teñta transmutantur Nicholaio Gilibrond de Astleigh in Comit' Lancast' gentleman (sic in MS.) suorumque heredum."⁴¹ The Visitation of 1613 gives the arms of the family as:—Argent, two swords in their scabbards in saltire Sable, hilts Gules, guards Or.

Three principal branches of the family settled in different parts of Lancashire. The ancestors of the Gillibrands of Peel Hall were tenants of Peel under the Abbey of Cockersand as far back as 1286, when John Gillibrand and Margery his wife demanded against Richard, son of Alexander de Astley, the third part of the messuage here as the wife's dower.⁴² In 1292 John, son of John Gilibrand held the estate under the Abbey of Cockersand by the free rent of 2s. yearly.⁴³ The pedigree of this family is given on p. 447 of the third volume of the Victoria History of Lancashire down to 1665, when Ralph Gillibrand of Peel Hall entered his pedigree back to his great-great-grandfather, Nicholas Gillibrand.

Notes on the Gillibrands of Rams Grove will be found in Abram's History of Blackburn, pp. 629-630; their pedigree was entered in the Visitation of 1665 by Jonathan Gillibrand, Vicar of Leigh, back to his grandfather Thomas Gillibrand of Rams Grove in 1610.

The earliest mention of the Gillibrands of Chorley occurs about 1430, when Humphrey Gillibrand was holding a small portion of the Hospitallers' land by the rent of 4d. He married Elizabeth . . . and died about 1441, leaving issue, a son, John. In this year Eaveshey was divided between Humphrey Gillibrand, Richard Crosse and William Woodward, John the son and heir of Humphrey Gillibrand assenting.⁴⁴ An additional agreement was made in 1441 between Richard Crosse on the one side and Elizabeth, widow of Humphrey Gillibrand, and John her son on the other, by which the former took the north part of this land and the latter the south.⁴⁵

I. JOHN GILLIBRAND, who was probably the grandson of John Gillibrand, the son of Humphrey, is described as of Chorley Hall, aged 55, 28 April, 30 Hen. VIII (Lancashire and Cheshire Record Society, vol. xxxv, p. 94).⁴⁶ He was the holder of a third of Eveshey, together with Henry Breres, 4d., Alexander Street, 4d., and James Crosse, 4d.⁴⁷ His son:—

II. THOMAS GILLIBRAND, of Chorley Hall,⁴⁸ married Agnes, daughter of William Fleetwood, of Heskin, by Helen, daughter of Gilbert Standish, and had issue:—⁴⁶

1. John (III), who follows.

1. Elizabeth, who married Laurence Breres, of Walton Hall, son of Roger Breres, of Walton-juxta-Liverpool, by Blanch, daughter and coheir of Richard Crosse, of Liverpool and Crosse Hall, by Elizabeth, daughter and coheir of Roger Walton, Lord of Walton. (J.G.)

III. JOHN GILLIBRAND, of Chorley, married Jane, daughter of Richard Urmston, of Westleigh, co. Lancaster.^{46 48} His widow was paying her fines for recusancy, 20 Jac. I (1621-2 and 1628), (J.G.) They had issue:—

1. Thomas (IV), who follows.

2. Richard, of Chorley, a recusant in 1622.

1. Agnes, married Thomas Worthington,⁴⁶ of Crashaw. (J.G.)

2. Margaret, married Edward Durning, of Bispham in the parish of Eccles.⁴⁶

3. Elizabeth, married William Tootell, of Lower Healey Hall,⁴⁶ son of Hugh Tootell, of Lower Healey Hall, by Alice, daughter of Thomas Anderton, of Horwich.⁴⁹

IV. THOMAS GILLIBRAND, of Chorley Hall, aged 31 in 1613,⁴⁶ married Anne, daughter of William Blundell, of Crosby Hall, by Emilia, daughter of Edward Norreys, of Speke Hall. Both he and his wife were convicted Recusants,⁵⁰ and he was one of the more considerable landowners in 1628. In 1631 he was called upon to pay £10 for having refused knighthood.⁵¹ Some interesting details are afforded by the narrative of two of his daughters who became nuns at Louvain in 1643. "Their mother, Anne Blundell, of Crosby, was brought up a good Catholic, but her husband was not. When he sued her for marriage she told him plainly that he would never have to look to her unless he would become a Catholic. He then, God's grace concurring, being perhaps well minded before, became a Catholic, and as they were married by a priest he continued ever afterwards a most good and constant Catholic. At the Convent, on his daughters' profession, he promised to give £400 apiece, but had difficulty in doing so, for after this it happened that their parents were extremely plundered, as others of that same miserable time of war in England, and were fain to leave their house which was taken from them, as also they lost their estate and Mr. Gillibrand was forced to fly into Wales. There he lived in poverty, yet content to suffer for God. Their mother went and lived with her daughter who was then newly married, also in poverty, but with content to suffer for her conscience, being a Catholic."⁵² Their estates were sequestrated and ultimately forfeited during the Commonwealth period.⁵³ His will was dated 10th April, proved at Leyland 15 Aug. 1667.⁵⁴ They had issue:—

1. John (V), who follows.
2. William, died unmarried.
3. Thomas, died in infancy. (J.G.)
1. Anne, married firstly, William Hesketh, of North Meols Hall; secondly, Richard Girlington, of Great Worth, a convicted Recusant in 1667,⁵⁵ who died at Withnell and was buried at Brindle, 23 March 1698, son of John Girlington, younger son of John Girlington, of Girlington and Thurland Castle.⁵⁶
2. Elizabeth, O.S.A., professed 10 Feb. 1643 at St. Monica's, Louvain. (J.G.)
3. Margaret, O.S.A., professed at St. Monica's, 10 Feb. 1643, died 1678, aged 52. (J.G.)

V. JOHN GILLIBRAND, of Chorley Hall, aged 48 in 1664, married firstly, Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Chorley, of Chorley, by Elizabeth, daughter of John Ditchfield, of Ditton Hall⁵⁷ (marriage articles dated 14 Aug. 1652).⁵⁴ She was baptized 20 Dec. 1621, and was buried at Chorley 18 Oct. 1661.⁵⁴ He married secondly, Anne, widow of William Hawkeshead⁵⁴ (a recusant), who executed a release to John Gillibrand, son and heir of John Gillibrand, deceased, 10 July 1680.

⁵⁹ Ibid., p. 304.

⁶⁰ Blundell's Diary, p. 180, refers to the wedding day.

⁶¹ His will was proved at Chester in 1718. The will of Margaret his relict, afterwards wife of John Gillibrand, was proved there, 31 Oct. 1744. See an article on "The True Descent of Brooke of Astley," The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xiii, p. 227, where there are abstracts of these wills.

⁶² He was an upright and conscientious lawyer, and was much trusted by Catholics (Blundell's Diary, p. 117). He registered his estate as a Catholic Non-juror in 1717, and returned lands, messuages, etc., in Chorley, in the parish of Croston, in Skelmersdale in the parish of Ormskirk, in Thistleton and Thornton leased by Thomas Worthington, of Blainscow, Esq., deceased, the Hall of Blainscow in the township of Coppull and parish of Standish, and the Hall of Chorley, in Chorley, in the possession of his son Thomas. The latter at the same time registered his estate as a Catholic Non-juror, and mentions his wife Alice. (J.G.)

John Gillibrand died 23 June 1670. Will dated 16 June 1670, proved at Chester 30 Sept. following. By his first wife he had issue:—

1. Thomas, bapt. at Chorley 7 Oct. 1655.²² Renounced his inheritance to enter the Society of Jesus, but died at Lige at the close of the Novitiate, 1678.²³

Lancaster, bapt. at Chorley 19 Jan. 1658.³¹ married first, Mary, daughter of Sir William Selby, of Biddleston Hall, co. Northumberland, Bart., High Sheriff of his county, by Ellen, daughter of Sir Thomas Hargreaves, of Hargreaves Castle, co. Northumberland, first Bart. (J.G.); secondly, 20 Aug. 1717,³² Margaret, daughter and wife of Thomas Garsbrook, of Garsbrook and Astley, and widow of Richard Brooke,³³ of Astley Hall, the younger son of Sir Peter Brooke, of More Hall, Cheshire, Bart. His will was dated 17 April 1732, and he was buried at Chorley 20 April 1732.³⁴ By his first wife he had issue:—

²² Foley, "Records of the Society of Jesus," vol. vii. p. 203.

²³ Ibid., p. 204.

²⁴ Blundell's Diary, p. 186, refers to the wedding day.

²⁵ His will was proved at Chester in 1718. The will of Margaret his mother afterwards wife of John Gillibrand, was proved there, 31 Oct. 1744. See an article on "The True Descendants of Brooke of Astley," The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xiii. p. 227.

²⁶ He was an upright and conscientious lawyer, and was much trusted by Catholics (Blundell's Diary, p. 117). He registered his estate as a Catholic Non-juror in 1717, and refused to take oaths, etc., in Chorley in the parish of St. Michael in the parish of Ormskirk, in Thurstleton and Thornton parishes, in the township of Coppen and parish of Standish, and the Hall of Standish in the township of Coppen and parish of Standish, and the Hall of Standish in the township of Coppen and parish of Standish. The latter at the same time registered his estate as a Catholic Non-juror, and mentions his wife Alice. (J.G.)

VII. THOMAS GILLIBRAND, of Chorley Hall, married (articles dated 29 Oct. 1706) 21 Nov. 1706, Alice, daughter of John Westby, of Upper Rawcliffe Hall. He died at Chorley 19 Oct. 1733. M.I.  6. Alice, mar. . . . Burchall.

VIII. THOMAS GILLIBRAND, born 2 Dec. 1714, bapt. after Dec. 4 (godmother, Mrs. Nicholas Blundell of Crosby, Blundell's Diary, p. 131); of Chorley Hall, buried at Chorley 11 Oct. 1775. Admon. granted 26 March 1776 to William Gillibrand, his brother,⁵⁴ who succeeded him.

IX. WILLIAM GILLIBRAND, of Chorley, born 11 and bapt. 13 Dec. 1715 at Chorley,⁵⁴ entered the Society of Jesus, 1735, and in due course came to the Mission in Lancashire. In 1749 he was appointed to Slate Delph in Wheelton,⁶⁴ whence he appears to have come to Southworth Hall. In 1762 or 1763 he went to Exeter, was Superior of that district in 1765, and after five years removed to Tusmore, co. Oxon., where he was in 1773. Upon the death of his elder brother he succeeded to the family estates in Lancashire and went to reside at ⁶³ He rebuilt Chorley Hall in 1808 at a cost of £15,000, and subsequently it became known as Gillibrand Hall. It is a spacious and elegant mansion, standing in a richly-wooded park, about a mile to the south-west of Chorley. The principal front consists of a centre and two wings, with a balcony supported by columns, the entrance being at the right through a handsome portico. (J.G.)

III. THE FAMILY OF HAWARDEN OF WIDNES.

The Lancashire family of Hawarden was represented in the seventeenth century by two main branches. The Hawardens of Woolston were, according to Flower, a branch of the Hawardens of Hawarden, co. Flint, but Mr. Gillow, in his historical introduction to the Catholic registers commenced in the hall at Woolston (C.R.S., vol. xvii, 479-507), points out that it is almost certain from the armorial quarterings that the family derived from the de Ardernes of Harden or Hawarden Hall, co. Chester, a baronial and picturesque erection now in ruins. In 1401 Hugh de Wolston was in possession of the Manor of Woolston.⁶⁵ Through the marriage of his daughter Annabel (or Elizabeth) to John de Arderne, son of John de Arderne, of Hawarden, co. Chester, by his marriage with Amery, daughter and heiress of John Legh, of High Legh,⁶⁶ the manor of Woolston passed to the Hawardens. In 1432, John Hawarden & Elizabeth his wife were freeholders in Poulton and Woolston.⁶⁷ This family is extinct since the death of Adam Hawarden, of Woolston, 6 Feb. 1596-7, his only son having predeceased him.⁶⁸ Elizabeth, his daughter, married (settlement dated August 20 1574) Alexander, son and heir of Edward Standish, of Standish, by Helen, daughter of Sir William Radcliffe, of Ordsall.⁶⁹ The manor subsequently descended with Standish until March 1870, when the Hall was sold to the present owner, Mr. John Bennett, by the Standish trustees, with the consent of the late Charles Henry Lionel Widdrington Standish.⁷⁰ The Hawardens of Widnes are said to be a branch of the Hawardens of Woolston.⁷¹ It should, however, be noted that a William de Hawarden was settled at Widnes as early as 1332.⁷²

ADDITIONS TO THE PEDIGREE OF GLYNN.

By F. C. BEAZLEY, F.S.A.

The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xxiv, January 1908, contained a "Pedigree of Glynn of Glynn in the County of Cornwall, and of Liverpool in the County Palatine of Lancaster," recorded at the College of Arms in Norfolk, xxiv, page 86, and further notes were given in N.S., vol. xxv, April 1909. Subsequently the descendants of the eldest son of Henry Glynn (1713-1783) of Wincanton (Dennys, omitted in the pedigree above referred to) also placed their pedigree on record, they were of course allowed the same Arms and quarterings, and as this additional matter has not appeared in print, the hospitality of the columns of The Genealogist is sought to render the pedigree complete, information acquired subsequent to the placing of the pedigree on record being placed within square brackets.

Inventory taken by Michael Tattersall, Robert Standing, Thomas Bradley, John Hargreaves and John Hartley. On the back of the will, "Mary Carr widow heretofore Mary Aspinwall relict of James Aspinwall late of Downham," acknowledges will to be delivered into her hands out of the Registry of Chester.

Nicholas Aspinall, the son of John Aspinall who made his will in 1702, was at Emanuel College, Cambridge, and took the degrees of Bachelor of Arts in 1681 and Master of Arts in 1696.¹⁶³ A very good account of his connection with the town of Bedford, which extended over many years, is given in the Victoria History of Bedfordshire.¹⁶⁴ The account is too long to quote in full, but the following personal notes have been selected from it:—

"On the 8 November, 1683, the College (New College, Cambridge) adopting the recommendation of the town 'elected and appoynted Nicholas Aspinall of Emmanuel College in Cambridge, Batchelor of Arts, to be schoolmaster of the publick Free Grammar School.' . . . He was of a Lancashire name and family and educated at Clitheroe Grammar School, in that County. He had acquired some repute as Secretary to Edward Castell, the editor of the then famous Polyglot Bible. The temporary appointment thus made began the longest mastership recorded up to that time, lasting thirty-five years. . . . He was appointed permanent master in 1692.

"He was also, at least from 1706, curate in charge of St. Peter's Merton, to the vicarage of which . . . he succeeded on 12 January 1711-12. . . . Aspinall lived for another ten years as Vicar of St. Peter's, and died on 7 October 1727, and is buried in St. Peter's Church, where a three-panelled tablet on the wall contains a long Latin inscription to his memory."

Thomas Aspinall, "of London," the son of James who died in 1725, has not been traced, and no information of any description relating to him has been found.

Alexander Aspinall became the owner of Standen about this time. It will be seen by the wills quoted above and by the Clitheroe parish registers that he was the son of John and the grandson of James Aspinall "of the Fields." If we refer back to the inquisition post mortem taken in 1641, we see that John Aspinall left Standen to "John Aspinall my nephew and the heires males of his body," and failing such heirs to James Aspinall—another nephew, and the brother of John—and to his heirs.¹⁶⁵ A careful analysis of the evidence points to this James as being identical with James Aspinall "of the Fields."

In his account of the family, Dr. Whitaker gives a pedigree of six generations, covering a period commencing from about the beginning of the eighteenth century, and coming down to about the year 1870.¹⁶⁶ Particulars of this are given below.

ASPINALL OF STANDEN HALL.

John Aspinall, Serjeant-at-Law, was the eldest son of Alexander Aspinall. He was baptised at Clitheroe on the 24th of January 1716, and was therefore almost thirty years of age when his father was buried there on Christmas Day, 1745. We have no information of him prior to 1745, but afterwards his name appears in a number of records.

It is recorded at the College of Arms that "on the 6th Day of December in the 22nd year of George II, and in the year of our Lord God 1748," a grant of arms was made to Jno. Aspinall of Preston in the County Palatine of Lancaster. The record relates that "he and his Ancestors have been possessed of a considerable Freehold Estate at Standen in the said County for above Five Hundred Years last past, and for many Generations have born for their Arms (as appears by ancient Seals and old Atchievements in his Custody) Or, a chevron, between three Grifphons' heads erased Sable. . . . The said Jno. Aspinall hath therefore requested his Lordships warrant for our confirmation and assigning the said Arms together with a suitable Crest to be born by Him and by the Descendants of his Father Alexander Aspinall late of Standen aforesaid Esqre Deceased."

The grant of arms was ratified and confirmed, viz. :—

ARMS :—Or, a chevron, between three Gryphons' heads erased Sable.

CREST :—On a wreath of Colours, a Demy Gryphon erased Sable, Beaked, Winged, Collared and Legged Or.

MOTTO :—"Ægis fortissima virtus."

In the preface to a "Survey of the Manor of Penwortham in the year 1570,"¹⁶⁷ it is stated: "in the year 1685 Henry Farington was then seised of the manors or lordships of Penwortham, Leyland, and Ulnes Walton. Some part of the estate still belonged to the Fleetwoods until 1749, when, by powers granted in a private Act of Parliament (21 George II, c. 14, A.D. 1748) a sale took place, the purchaser being John Aspinall, who afterwards, in 1752, disposed of the principal portion to James Barton of Ormskirk." This statement is confirmed by another made by the Catholic Record Society:¹⁶⁸ "The Fleetwoods parted with the Manor of Penwortham to the Faringtons late in the seventeenth century, who in 1749 sold the Priory to John Aspinall of Standen Hall, who resold it in 1752." . . .

Standen Hall was rebuilt about this time. It "was originally an H-shaped house of two stories, facing south, said to have been erected in the fifteenth century. It was, however, rebuilt in 1757 more or less on the old plan, and incorporating some portions of the ancient building, but the principal front was changed to the east side, where a handsome classic elevation of three stories was erected with engaged columns and pediment. The middle and west wings remain of two stories. The west wing was rebuilt about 1858, the roof being raised above that of the middle part of the house, but except for the east front the elevations are quite plain in character. A single-story billiard-room wing was added in 1876 at the north-east end of the east wing.

There is an illustration of the house before the rebuilding in Twycross, Lancashire Mansions (1847), vol. i, p. 11."¹⁶⁹

John Aspinall appears to have been twice married. The Gentleman's Magazine announces the death, on 25 January 1762, of the "Lady of J. Aspinall, Esq., of Lincolns Inn"¹⁷⁰; and in the same magazine there is announced the marriage, on 20 August 1764, of "John Aspinall of Lincolns Inn, Esq., to Miss Mary Yates of Maghull in Lanes."¹⁷¹

This lady is the means of introducing us to an interesting and learned Clitheroe character of these times—the Rev. There is, in a miscellaneous collection of his writings, principally verses and correspondence, made by the Rev. F. R. Raines, M.A., F.S.A.,¹⁷³ a "Letter addressed to a Friend at Blackpool," and a footnote tells us that the friend was Mrs. Serjeant Aspinall of Standen Hall, near Clitheroe. The "letter" is written in verse form, and is entitled "Preston Guild, 1782." Two of its lines run—

"The Recorder attracted the eyes of the town,
With his wig of three tails, and the plush on his gown."

Another footnote informs us that "the Recorder" was "Mr. Serjeant Aspinall, the Recorder of Preston."

Dr. Whitaker mentions John Aspinall on several occasions in his History. One of the notes seems to show that he was interested in antiquities, and says: "There is now at Standen, near Clitheroe, a sepulchral stone removed from Ribchester by the late Mr. Serjeant Aspinall, without inscription, but with a figure in high relief of a Roman standard bearer of the lower empire, with the labarum in his hand."¹⁷⁴ Again, in his account of Little Mitton, a footnote gives the information: "When the hall of Little Mitton was purchased by the late John Aspinall, Esq., a great portion was rebuilt. . . ."¹⁷⁵ This property has descended with the Standen estate, and the owner of the latter is also lord of the adjacent manor of Little Mitton.¹⁷⁶ Finally, in a description of the Chapel of St. Mary Magdalene, Clitheroe, there is the following note:—¹⁷⁷

"A mural tablet near the altar records that upright lawyer and amiable man, Mr. Serjeant Aspinall, in the following lines (written by the Rev. Thomas Wilson)—

"Near this place are deposited the remains of John Aspinall Esq. of Standen, Serjeant at Law, and in the Commission of the Peace for the Counties of York and Lancaster. Her cries he heard, her injuries redress'd ;
 'Mongst other cares, Religion found a part,
 And claimed a secret interest in his heart ;
 He own'd its solemn truths, and, fill'd with awe,
 Let Christian meekness smooth the front of law,
 And, 'midst the clamours of forsenic war,
 His mind would muse on heaven's impartial bar,
 At heaven's last judgement may his actions plead,
 And meet the mercy which the best will need ;
 Nor wealth, nor art, can there evade the laws,
 Where God is judge, and Truth shall plead the cause,
 Mortal attend, and let this friendly stone,
 Record his death, and warn thee of thy own ;
 Let not his virtues with his ashes rest,
 Transplant them hence, and wear them in thy breast.

There is, in the Manchester Reference Library, a manuscript book having the title, “ Notes on Wills, Pedigrees, etc., of (chiefly) Lancashire Persons between (about) 1760 to 1860. By Thomas Batty Addison, of Preston, Barrister.” The following notes are taken from it:—

“ John Aspinall, Serjeant at Law. Will 12 January 1784. Codical. 2nd Codical. Exors, his wife Mary, Rev. Robert Kenyon of Salford, Martin Richardson of Clitheroe Castle, Gent., and Testators nephew John Aspinall of London, who all proved at Canterbury 20 September 1785.

“ James Aspinall of Burnley, afterwards of Standen Gt. Will 22 July 1764. Sole ex'ix his widow Ann Aspinall who proved at York: next—“ Ann Aspinall of Burnley, widow, died 2nd November 1771. Will 30 August 1771. Exors, her two sons, John Aspinall of Manchester, Merchant, and James Aspinall of Chancery Lane, Gent.

“ Mary, d. of Maile Yates, married John Aspinall Esq., Sergeant at Law, and 2ndly, Henry Aspinwall.” (This note is on page 433.)

In giving the lineage of Aspinall of Standen, Burke states: “ James Aspinall (elder son of Alexander Aspinall of Clitheroe, and brother of Mr. Serjeant John Aspinall) married Anne, widow of Henry Lonsdale, and was father of John Aspinall, who married in 1744 Hannah Cooper, and had two sons, John of Standen Hall, and Nicholas of Liverpool who married Elizabeth Sowden and had issue Edward, Margaret, Alice and Ellinor.”¹⁷⁸ It will be seen by the extracts from the Clitheroe parish registers given below that James Aspinall was the second son of Alexander Aspinall, and as he was born in 1723 it is obvious that his son cannot have married in 1744—this would seem more likely to have been the date of his birth.

¹⁷⁸ Burke's Landed Gentry, 1914 edit.

There appears in the King's Bench Attornies Clerkships (Registers of Articles of Clerkships to Attornies) for the period 1749-1785:—¹⁷⁹ 1749. Aspinall, William, son of Alexander, Standen, Lancs., gent.

In the volume of "Wilson Miscellanies" ¹⁸⁰ already quoted there is a footnote in the Memoir of Mr. Wilson's life which records that John Aspinall of Standen Hall was a Governor of the Clitheroe Grammar School in 1807. There is also, amongst the correspondence, a long chatty letter from Mr. Wilson, dated Clitheroe, February 2nd 1813, to John Aspinall, Esq., at No. 2, East Place, Lambeth. A sentence in the letter shows that it was a reply to one received—"I am glad to find in your welcome letter so good an account of yourself, Mrs. Aspinall, of your children, and of the comforts of your present residence." . . . This John Aspinall, as a footnote states, was "nephew and heir at law of Mr. Sergeant Aspinall of Standen Hall near Clitheroe, who died March 1st 1784, æt. 68, and on whose monument in Clitheroe Church is the following inscription by Mr. Wilson." (The inscription has been given above.) A glance at Whitaker's pedigree shows that he was the grandson of James Aspinall. In his obituary notice (given below) it is stated "he inherited the estates of his great uncle John Aspinall, Serjeant at law, in 1784." The particulars of him by Burke are the same as those given in Dr. Whitaker's pedigree, and need not be repeated.

The records of the births and baptisms of John Aspinall's children will be found amongst the extracted entries from the Clitheroe registers given below, between the years 1806 and 1812. The entries in this register are very numerous, and are all in the handwriting of "Thomas Wilson, B.D., Minister," as his signature there shows.

The different volumes of the Gentleman's Magazine from 1821 to 1856 contain a number of announcements which relate to the family:—

As the announcement in the Gentleman's Magazine has shown, John Aspinall died in 1851. In Clitheroe Church, near the altar, and on the same wall as the mural tablet to Mr. Serjeant Aspinall, there is a memorial :—

“Sacred to the Memory of John Aspinall, Esq., of Standen Hall in this County, who departed this life on the 7th of February 1851 in the 72nd year of his age.”

John Thomas Walshman Aspinall was born in 1812. The name “Walshman,” which was also given to one of his sisters, and which he gave to his second son, is probably explained by a friendship between his family and Thomas Walshman, Esq., M.D. In the church at South Lambeth—the same church in which Elias Ashmole lies buried—there is on one of the walls a tablet bearing the inscription :—

“Sacred to the Memory of Thomas Walshman, Esq., M.D. Born near Clitheroe in the County of Lancaster. He lived in this and the adjoining Parish of Newton upwards of Sixty years, alike respected for his eminent talents as a Physician, for his mildness and universal benevolence, for his Christian Charity, and for his unaffected piety. He departed this life April 2nd 1836 in the 86th year of his age.”

The register of admissions to Trinity College, Cambridge,¹⁹² gives the following information :—

Aspinall, John Thomas. Son of John Aspinall. Born at “Slandon,” Lancashire. School, Richmond, Yorkshire (Mr. Tate). Age 18. Pensioner, October 10, 1829. Tutor, Prof. Whewell. (Matriculated, 1831. Did not graduate.)

The information given by Burke¹⁹¹ adds a little to that given us by Dr. Whitaker's pedigree :—

“John Thomas Walshman Aspinall, of Standen Hall, D.L., M.P. for Clitheroe, married, 20 May 1841, his cousin Ellinor, daughter of Nicholas Aspinall of Liverpool, and died November 1865, having by her (who died September 1873) had issue—

1. Ralph John, now of Standen Hall.
1. Katherine.
2. Jane Robinson, married May 1870, Walter Overbeck Wade, late 91st Highlanders, and has Walter Aspinall and other issue.
3. Elinor Maud.”

Alongside the two tablets near the altar in Clitheroe Church there is yet one other :—

“In Memory of John Thomas Walshman Aspinall of Standen Hall in this County, Esq., who departed this life on November the 12th 1865 in the 53rd year of his age.

Also John Nicholas, Eldest son of the above, who died on October the 22nd 1847 in the 5th year of his age.

Also Henry Walshman, second son of the above, who died on January the 29th 1855 in the 10th year of his age.”

Ralph John Aspinall was born in 1847. Burke gives the following particulars of him and his family :—¹⁹⁴

"The late Ralph John Aspinall, of Standen Hall, Co. Lancaster, J.P. and D.L., High Sheriff 1880, and J.P. for the W. Riding of Co. York, late Lieut.-Col. and Hon. Col. 3rd and 4th Batts. R. 1. John Ralph, Capt. Lancashire Hussars Yeomanry, born 11 April 1878; married 16 February 1901, Augusta, third daughter of Col. G. B. H. Marton, of Capernwray (see that family), and has had issue, a son, died 30 July 1910.
2. Miles Edward, 2nd Lieut. Scots Guards, born 18 December 1879; died unmarried 16 January 1900.
3. Charles Lewis Robert, born 14 April 1883; married 21 April 1914, Margaret, second daughter of William W. and the Hon. Mrs. Middleton, of Stuart Lodge, Malvern Wells, Worcestershire.
4. Geoffrey, born 25 June 1884; married 15 January 1914, Clara, only child of Sir John Ormerod Scarlett Thursby, second Bart. (see Burke's Peerage)."

He died in 1913, and rests with his second son in a beautiful vault in the churchyard of Pendleton Church. This church is a short walk only from Standen Hall, and is located in a quiet scene of great natural beauty at the foot of the lower slopes of Pendle Hill. Dr. Whitaker has a brief note relating to it,¹⁹⁶ which tells us :—

"The Church of All Saints was erected at Pendleton in 1846, entirely at the expense of Mrs. Blegborough, daughter of John Aspinall, Esq., of Standen Hall; and opened for divine service, November 11, 1847. It was calculated to hold 180 persons."

Access down into the vault is by means of about a dozen steps, and at the foot of them is an iron gate, upon which is mounted a shield bearing the Arms of Aspinall impaling Jones-Parry. The roof of the vault is raised a few feet above the ground level of the churchyard, and against a grass slope are two large blocks of stone, each bearing an inscription :—

"In Loving Memory of Miles Edward Aspinall, 2nd Lieut : Scots Guards. Second son of Ralph John and Mabel Aspinall of Standen. Born 18th December 1879. Died 16th January 1900. Aged 20. 'A Good Soldier of Jesus Christ.' 2 Timothy ii, 3."

¹⁹⁴ Burke's Landed Gentry, 1914 edit.

¹⁹⁵ In the account of the family, "Jones-Parry of Llwyn Onn," Burke gives this date as 14 March 1876; and this is also the date given by Walferd's County Families.

¹⁹⁶ History of Whalley, vol. ii, p. 28.

Ralph John Aspinall was born in 1847. Burke gives the following particulars of him and his family:—

"The late Ralph John Aspinall, of Standen Hall, Co. Lancaster, J.P. and D.L., High Sheriff 1880, and J.M. for the W. Riding of Co. York, late Lieut.-Col. and Hon. Col. 7th and 4th Batts. R. Lancaster Regt., M.A. (Cambr.), born 28 September 1847, married 11 May 1870 Mabel Frederica Frances Baynes, daughter of Robert Lloyd Jones-Parry, of Abernham, Co. Carmarvon, and Miss Trevelyan, Co. Anglessey, and died 31 May 1913, leaving issue—

1. John Ralph, Capt. Lancashire Hussars Yeomanry, born 11 April 1878; married 16 February 1901, Augusta, third daughter of Col. G. R. H. Marton, of Capesbury (see that family), and has had issue, a son, died 30 July 1910.
2. Miles Edward, 2nd Lieut. Scots Guards, born 18 December 1879; died unmarried 16 January 1900.
3. Charles Lewis Robert, born 14 April 1883; married 21 April 1914, Margaret, second daughter of William W. and the Hon. Mrs. Middleton, of Stuart Lodge, Malvern Wells, Worcester-shire.
4. Geoffrey, born 25 June 1884; married 15 January 1914, Clara, only child of Sir John Grenard Stantish Thynne, second Bar. (see Burke's Peerage).

He died in 1913, and rests with his second son in a beautiful vault in the churchyard of Pendleton Church. This church is a short walk only from Standen Hall, and is located in a quiet scene of great natural beauty at the foot of the lower slopes of Pendle Hill. Dr. Whitaker has a brief note relating to it, which tells us—

"The Church of All Saints was erected at Pendleton in 1810, entirely at the expense of Mrs. Hildborough, daughter of John Aspinall, Esq., of Standen Hall; and opened for divine service, November 11, 1817. It was calculated to hold 180 persons."

Access down into the vault is by means of about a dozen steps, and at the foot of them is an iron gate, upon which is mounted a shield bearing the Arms of Aspinall impaling Jones-Parry. The roof of the vault is raised a few feet above the ground level of the churchyard, and against a grass slope are two large blocks of stone, each bearing an inscription:—

"In Loving Memory of Miles Edward Aspinall, 2nd Lieut. Scots Guards, Second son of Ralph John and Mabel Aspinall of Standen Hall, 18th December 1879. Died 16th January 1900. Aged 20. A Good Soldier of Jesus Christ. 2 Timothy ii. 3."

¹¹¹ Burke's London Directory 1914 edit.
¹¹² In the account of the family, "Jones-Parry of Llangynidr," Burke gives the date as 14 March 1870; and this is also the date given by Waller's County Families.
¹¹³ History of W. Riding, vol. ii. p. 28.

"In Loving Memory of Ralph John Aspinall of Standen. Late Colonel 3rd & 4th Batt. King's Own Royal Lancaster Regt. Born 26th September 1847. Died 31st May 1913. Aged 65 years. 'And so he giveth His beloved sleep.'"

The present owner of Standen Hall is John Ralph Aspinall, of whom the following account will be found in Walford :—¹⁹⁷

"Aspinall, Major John Ralph, of Standen Hall, and Mytton Hall, Lancashire. Eldest son of Col. Ralph John Aspinall, J.P. and D.L., late 3rd and 4th Batts. R. Lancaster Regt., of Standen Hall, and Mytton Hall, who died 1913, by Mabel Frederica Frances Baynes, youngest daughter of the late Robert Lloyd Jones-Parry, Esq., of Aberdunant, Carnarvonshire, and of Plas Tregayon, Co. Anglesey; born 1878, married 1901, Florence Augusta, third daughter of the late Col. George Blucher Henneage Marton, of Capernwray Hall, Lancashire. Major Aspinall, who was educated at Eton and at Trinity Hall, Cambridge, is a Magistrate for Lancashire, and Major Lancashire Hussars Yeomanry."

The writer is indebted to J. Paul Rylands, Esq., F.S.A., for the following interesting extract, which should have been placed after the coat of arms on p. 244, but was received too late for insertion there:—

"Prestwich's Respublica, Or a Display of the Honors, Ceremonies & Ensigns of the Commonwealth, Under the Protectorship of Oliver Cromwell, &c. . . . London: Printed by and for J. Nichols, 1787." [4to; p. 279.]

"This family have been long residing in this county, as is evinced by the many evidences still remaining; particularly, among others, a grant from Robert Langley, rector of Prestwich, and Warden of Manchester, to John Langley, Esq. all his messuage and tenement which Robert Scoles and Henry ASPINHULL holds in Prestwich, 2 Hen: VII. From little deeds in Agecroft Hall, in the parish of Prestwich, and marked and numbered 21."

[This is the last name on the Roll of All Souls printed by Prestwich. His contemplated continuation does not seem to have been printed.]

The entries of baptisms, marriages and burials from the Clitheroe parish registers, which are given below, conclude the evidence which has been collected relating to this family, and immediately after these entries will be found a pedigree which has been compiled from that evidence, given in this and in the two preceding issues of this magazine. It will be noticed that names occasionally appear, both amongst the entries from the parish registers and also amongst the other notes, which it has not been found possible to place in the pedigree, and which have had to be omitted from it.

¹⁹⁸ Illegible.

¹⁹⁹ There are here sixteen of these "burials in woollen," all in 1678. A page or two farther on are about a dozen more, in 1680. The page on which the latter appear is the last in the book ; it is torn across in two places, is crumpled up, and is fast becoming illegible. This register has no covers.

COLLECTIONS FOR A HISTORY OF STAFFORDSHIRE, edited by The William Salt Archaeological Society, 1915. STAFFORDSHIRE INCUMBENTS AND PAROCHIAL RECORDS (1530-1680). By Walter Noble Landor, B.A. London (St. Catherine Press, Stamford Street, S.E.).

The publication of this work has been delayed owing to shortage of labour due to the War, but the subscribers will agree that it is well worth waiting for and that it is one of the most interesting and instructive volumes issued by the Salt Society. A glance at the long list of authorities given in Appendix VI, will show at once what an enormous amount of trouble and research have been expended in its completion, and it may safely be said that if we had a similar record of all the dioceses in England our knowledge of ecclesiastical history in this country at a most eventful period would be considerably increased.

Mr. Landor's admirable Introduction should be carefully read, for it is in fact a complete guide to the contents of the book. His conclusions as to the numbers of the clergy who conformed, or refused to conform to the religious changes at the Tudor and Commonwealth periods, as also at the final settlement in 1662, are supported by carefully drawn out lists giving the names of the conformists and nonconformists. Briefly, he considers that up to the death of Queen Mary nearly all the Staffordshire clergy acquiesced in the changes made, but only two-thirds conformed at the Elizabethan settlement, and four-fifths at the Commonwealth, while in 1662 two-thirds of the non-episcopalian clergy were ejected from their livings. It is interesting to note that in 1604 nearly half the incumbents had an income of less than £11 a year. The great importance attached by the Puritans to a University degree is also worthy of notice, for it is perhaps not always realized.

It is computed that there were in 1563, 143 separate parishes in Staffordshire, and their boundaries are shown in a map which accompanies the volume. There are also in the Introduction some valuable statistics as to the population of the different parishes, from the returns in 1563 and the Hearth Tax c. 1665.

In the body of the work the parishes are given in alphabetical order, the status of each parish in 1563, whether rectory, vicarage or curacy is first stated, then follow a list of the ornaments belonging to the church in 1553, including plate, jewels, vestments and bells, from the Inventory made by the Commissioners appointed by the Crown (Exch. Miscellanea K.R.); particulars concerning endowments for obits, lamps and lights, Our Lady's service, etc., and lastly a list of the rectors, vicars, curates and chantry priests. Much valuable information has been obtained from Chantry Certificates, Chantry Returns and other unprinted records which are not often consulted by antiquaries, such as the lists of pensions granted out of the revenues of the Augmentation Office to the incumbents and ministers of dissolved colleges, free chapels and chantries. Many of the chantry chapels were permitted to continue as chapels of ease, if at a distance from the parish church. Several of the chantry priests had kept a free school, and were allowed to remain as schoolmasters, while others obtained livings in the diocese. No pains have been spared to render the lists of incumbents an accurate record of the Staffordshire clergy during the period, and their identification has been sometimes by no means easy. Much use has been made of the Returns of 1533, 1535, 1593 and 1604, which give lists of the clergy and particulars relating to them. The last of these Returns, which is now at Dr. Williams' Library in Gordon Square, is the survey of benefices and incumbents made by the Puritans, and it may well be hoped that it is coloured by their well-known tendency to narrow-minded exaggeration, for it presents a sad and sorry picture of the ignorance and vices of many Staffordshire clerics; a University degree was an exception; few were preachers, many were "worldlings," some "gamesters," and one was declared to be "a common maker of unlawful marriages and tainted with other vile sins as all the country know." For the Commonwealth period the MSS. at the British Museum, Public Record Office, Bodleian Library, Lambeth Palace, and Sion College, containing the proceedings of the Committee for Plundered Ministers have been examined most carefully, and every instance of increase of income granted to an incumbent is noted under his name. In Appendix VI there is a useful chronological list of these manuscripts.

Among the many eminent men whose names occur as holding preferment in the county were Bishop Overall, to whom we owe the Church Catechism, Rector of Clifton Campville and Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield 1614-18, and Laurence Nowell, deprived in Queen Mary's reign of the rectory of Drayton Bassett, and in that of her sister made Dean of Lichfield.

As to the social status of the Staffordshire clergy, it appears to have varied much as it now does; at one end of the scale we find William Wriothesley, a son of the Earl of Southampton, chaplain of St. John the Baptist's Chapel at Stafford, 1548-1556, and Arthur Dudley, son of Edward, Lord Dudley, Rector of Kingswinford 1556-77, while at the other Ralph Turner, Vicar of Caverswall in 1603 had been, according to the return of 1604, "a gentleman's household servant for many years."

In Appendix II will be found lists of Staffordshire recusants compiled from the Recusant Rolls and other sources, and Appendix III contains the names of Roman Catholic landowners in 1648.

Notes and Queries.

HERBERT, SON OF AUBRI.—ERRATUM.—On p. 147, lines 3 and 2 from foot, for 1130, 1165, 1150-1160, 1160, read 1030, 1065, 1050-1060, 1060. My humblest apologies to the Editor and to readers of The Genealogist for this complicated blunder. Seeing that it concerns a man who occurs in 1086 and again in about 1116, it has, I trust, deceived nobody, especially as the name of the Archbishop was mentioned in the same sentence.

W.H.B.B.

PARKHURST—HILL—SHAWE.—In the July number of The Genealogist (vol. xxxiii, p. 60), under the title of "Extracts from a Seventeenth Century Note-book," appeared a short account of the Parkhurst family, and we read that Henry Parkhurst married Alice daughter of James Hill of Guildford, co. Surrey. From notes kindly sent to me by Mr. J. Challenor Smith it can be shown that this Alice married a second husband, namely James Shawe, also of Guildford, woollen-draper.

By his will dated 31 May and proved 15 June 1594 (P.C.C.) James Shawe desires to be buried "in the Church of Holy Trinity, Guilford," and states that he was born at Cartmel in Lancashire. Mentions brothers Edward Shawe and Miles Shawe—servant Miles Shawe—brother William Shawe & his son Richard—cousin William Shawe—my brother Edward's two sons—son-in-law Thomas Smallpiece—Alice Cranlie my daughter's daughter—daughter Dorothy Harrison—Jane Cranley sister of the said Alice—wife Alice—brother-in-law Henry Clifton—Thomas Shawe of Worplesdon gent., an overseer—to Robert Harrison & Dorothy his wife, my daughter, the Redd Lyon Inne in Guildford (in occupation of Henry Clifton) for life with remainder to Alice Cranley daughter of Emery Cranley, deceased, and the said Dorothy my daughter &c.—Joan Smallpiece my daughter, wife of Thomas Smallpiece—Lawrence Clifton son of Henry—brother-in-law Philip Champion—George Champion his son.

Alice Shawe, relict of the said James Shawe, born Hill and formerly wife of Henry Parkhurst, made her will 20 October 1606 (proved 2 April 1607; Archd: of Surrey, Herringman, f. 593) in which she directs her burial to be in the parish church of Holy Trinity, Guildford, "near the place where my first husband Henry Parkhurst doth lie."—Mentions sons Henry, John, Thomas and Robert Parkhurst—daughters Elizabeth Mellish, Susan Lancashire, and Damaris Spurston [Spurstow]—Olife Parkhurst wife of my son Thomas—Sara daughter of my son Henry Parkhurst—Robert, son of my son Robert, my godson, and his other three children Elizabeth, John and Rebecca—Phillipp Mellish son of my daughter Elizabeth—Thomas and Damaris Spurston [Spurstow] children of my daughter Damaris—Richard and Susan Streate children of my daughter Lancashire and her other children James, Thomas and Mary Lancashire—sister Joane Champion—brothers William and Nicholas Hill—sister Anne Bridger—sister-in-law Elizabeth Hill, widow—cousin Mrs. Olife Shawe, widow—ground which my late husband James Shawe gave me, lying between the gardens of Mr Henry Clifton and my son Thomas Parkhurst—Cousin Mary Chapman.—Executors sons John and Thomas Parkhurst.—Overseers, Mr John Wilson, preacher, and my brother-in-law Richard Bridger.

From the foregoing wills interesting additions can be made to Henry Oxenden's account of the Parkhurst family and the pedigree in the Visitation of Surrey, 1623, also to the pedigree of Spurstow in the Visitation of London, 1634, printed by the Harleian Society.
